If no compromise with Nixon . . .

Ervin predicts committee will subpoena documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin forecast today the Senate Watergate committee would vote to subpoena White House documents relating to the scandal if his coming meeting with President Nixon failed to produce a compromise agreement.

The President's refusal to grant the senators access to the papers, and subpoena action by Ervin's committee, would create a constitutional confrontation almost sure to require settlement by the Supreme Court.

Ervin said during a television interview early today that he would meet with Nixon "tomorrow," but later explained that he misspoke. He said he hoped the meeting could be held next week. It possibly would be held at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Nixon was admitted Thursday night for treatment of what his doctor diagnosed as viral pneumonia.

The White House said no date had been set yet and that representatives of the President and Ervin would get together shortly, possibly today, to work out arrangements.

Ervin told reporters later, just before gaveling today's Watergate hearing to a start, that he hoped the conference could take place next week in spite of Nixon's hospitalization. "I understand viral pneumonia is walking pneumonia," he said.

Ervin and his committee are seeking access to assorted White House papers which the senator said today he considers necessary to help the panel "get at the bottom" of the truth about Watergate.

The President has refused to turn over the documents, claiming such action would violate his duty to uphold the doctorine of separation of powers and jeopardize the tradition of confidentiality in the White House.

During an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show, Ervin said he would continue to insist the documents be made available and hoped Nixon would alter his view and cooperate with the committee. Dismissing a White House insistence that the papers would not be provided, Ervin said:

"Well, that was a statement by the press agent at the White House. The press agents of the White House have made many statements which they themselves have later declared to be inoperative, whatever that word means.

"The President took the position originally under his claim of executive privilege that no aide or former aide of the White House could be compelled to appear before the committee. He changed his mind on that and I hope that ... the President will become wiser when I talk to him tomorrow than his press secretary said he was yesterday."

Ervin had expressed surprise when informed by an aide Thursday night that the President was ill. He had talked to him on the telephone at midday.

Pal caught after high-speed chase

Valley holdup suspect shot, but eludes police

GLENDORA — A $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night touched off a chain of violent events which included:

— An exchange of shots between the two gunmen and police.

— A high-speed chase,

— The capture of the suspect.

— The kidnaping of a hostage.

— And the escape of one robber, apparently wounded, with most of the money.

The holdup was at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., shortly after 9 p.m. One robber, posing as a new butcher, entered the employe lounge shortly before closing time while his companion waited outside in a car in the alley.

The man chatted with employes until the store was closed and the customers had left. Then, when only four employes remained, he pulled a revolver and told them it was a stickup.

The bandit herded the four into the market office and forced one to open the safe. Then he made them accompany him to the rear door.

What he didn't know, Police Lt. Robert Schouten said today, was that the safe's being opened set off a silent alarm at the police station. However, Schouten said, it wasn't uncommon for employes to set off the alarm accidentally and when Officer John Ambrogio posted himself ouside the back door, he really expected an employe to open it, not a robber.

But when the door opened, Ambrogio saw the gun and jumped aside as the man fired from about three feet away. The shot missed, but the man fled to the parked car nearby and the two men sped away.

Ambrogio and other officers followed and during the pursuit, shots were fired by the bandits and police. The sheriff's department was called in and a helicopter joined in the search.

The bandits abandoned their car at Citrus Avenue and Glenlyn Drive and ran. Ambrogio fired several shots from his shotgun at them and sheriff's deputies Jerry Price and Donald Richards seized suspect Charles Lee Spearman, 41, Pasadena, as he ran through a yard a few minutes later.

Nearby, at 18520 E. Petunia St., one robber entered and confronted Arthur L. King, 55, at gunpoint. He forced King outside and into King's car and ordered him to drive. At 19208 E. Orangepath Drive near Azusa, he forced King out and drove off in King's car. The vehicle was found later abandoned in the 19200 block of E. Alosta Ave., Azusa.

Inside, police found bloodstains indicating the robber had been hit by one of Ambrogio's shots.

Valley police today were looking for the man, described as white, 20 to 35, 5 feet 11, 190 pounds and stocky. He had short, curly, brown hair and wore a blue shirt and dark trousers. He had a .38-caliber revolver and about $5,000 of the loot. The balance was abandoned when one robber was running, earlier, Lt. Schouten said.

CONTRADICTS DEAN

Special Presidential Counsel Richard Moore, in testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee, contradicted John Dean about when President Nixon first learned of the Watergate cover-up. Moore said that as late as March 20, 1973, it seemed clear to him that Nixon knew nothing about Watergate.

Pomona police assn. files $1 million claim over pay

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The city was hit with a $1 million claim by the Pomona Police Relief Association today for alleged "failure to meet and confer in good faith" over a work contract for the next year.

The claim, a preliminary requirement to a law suit, contends that the city has violated the letter and spirit of the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, and thereby "damaged and deteriorated the good will, reputation, integrity, stature, utility and effectiveness of the (police) association and its members."

Stephen H. Silver, attorney for the association, said the claim was filed after the City Council and particularly Mayor Ray Lepire have "demonstrated that they do not want to negotiate in good faith."

He said the city has steadfastly maintained an offer of a 5 per cent pay increase, while the association has come down from a request of 9 per cent to 7 per cent, and then to 6 per cent.

The 6 per cent proposal was approved by the city's negotiator, Sidney Sims, according to Silver, but was later rejected by the council.

"When I asked the council what to do next, the mayor, like a tape recorder, told me to meet with city negotiator Sidney Sims," Silver delcared.

He said that under the circumstances, the policemen were withdrawing the tentative contract they had agreed to with Sims.

In addition to the pay raise, the proposed contract included provisions for time and a half for overtime, a dental plan, higher uniform allowances and other fringe benefits.

But Silver said it was considerably less than the police officers had sought. He said the association decided to accept the compromise in a spirit of cooperation, which "no longer is valid."

"We can't expect our people to continue to show good will while the mayor keeps slapping them in the face," he said.

The claim was filed this morning with City Clerk Larry Thomas. Silver said if the council rejects the $1 million bill to compensate the association for bad faith, he will file a civil suit in district court.

Lepire couldn't be reached this morning for comment.

Chest pains continue

Restless night for President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors said today President Nixon continued to suffer chest pains following a "restless night" at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he was admitted Thursday night for viral pneumonia.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said Nixon's temperature continued to hover between 101 and 102 degrees, but that he was carrying on the "essential work" of the presidency in spite of some pains and the temperature.

Dr. Walter Tkach, White House physician, said however that Nixon's work schedule would be "certainly less than a quarter" of normal while he is in the hospital.

Nixon was admitted to the hospital about 9:15 p.m. EDT Thursday after Tkach diagnosed the President's condition as viral pneumonia. Tkach said there were "no complications" with the illness, Nixon's first serious physical setback since he took office.

"We had difficulty in convincing him that he really was a sick man," Tkach said today. He added that Nixon got only four hours sleep after being admitted and he had to be given a "strong analgesic by injection."

Ziegler told the same news briefing at Bethesda that Nixon was examined by doctors twice in the early morning after a "restless night." He said the President was suffering from "chest discomforture," and had only orange juice and fruit for breakfast.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Nixon's chief of staff, went to the hospital today to discuss some business matters with the President, Ziegler said. Mrs. Nixon and the President's daughter, Julie, were expected to visit during the afternoon.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said earlier in the day that he hoped to meet with Nixon some time next week on the Watergate hearings.

Moore says Nixon repeatedly tried to get facts 'in open'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Special Counsel Richard A. Moore testified today President Nixon sought repeatedly in March to get the facts about Watergate out in the open, and rejected a suggestion that the FBI check into the campaign histories of members of the Senate Watergate committee.

Moore's testimony before the nationally televised Senate Watergate hearings continued to differ sharply in interpretation with that of ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

Moore said that Dean once proposed using the FBI to investigate members of the Senate Watergate committee in hopes of uncovering information that could be used to show that the scandal was nothing new in politics.

In a meeting with Nixon designed to plot moves "to get our side of the story out" Moore said that Dean told Nixon he had worked on Capitol Hill and knew that there were few political campaigns where "something questionable or illegal" was not done.

"We were asked for ideas on where we could take the initiative, and in that meeting at one point, Mr. Dean said to the President—'you know, one way for us to take the initiative' would be to get some responsible official to suggest that the members of the Watergate committee should submit to an FBI investigation of their past political campaigns."

Moore said that Nixon dismissed Dean's idea.

"The President came up with a puzzled look," Moore said, and Nixon told Dean he did not understand what he meant.

Campora quits, opens door to restore Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Hector J. Campora offered his resignation to the Argentine Congress today to allow new elections within 40 days to restore Juan D. Peron to the presidency of Argentina after 18 years in exile.

"It was a decision that was born of my own sentiment, of all of a life in service of one man in whom I believed, I believe and will continue believing," Campora told legislators following an early morning meeting with Peron.

The 64-year-old Campora denied that there had been any pressure on him to resign after only 49 days in office.

Campora made the announcement of his resignation outside Peron's suburban home after he and Vice President Vicente Solano Lima conferred with the 77-year-old Peron, whose previous 10-year rule was ended by the armed forces in 1955. Solano Lima also resigned.

Calf rustling suspect shot in Ontario; three arrested

ONTARIO — Two men and a youth are in custody today in West End Jail following an alleged calf rustling attempt and the shotgun wounding of one of the suspects Thursday night at the Vander Tuig Dairy, 7909 Walnut Ave.

Charles Lane, 21, of Downey, was wounded when he was shot by the dairy's owner who said he surprised the three making off with a day-old calf at about 11 p.m., sheriff's officers said.

The other man, Robert Homan, 18, of 7711 Riverside Drive and a 17-year-old youth were not injured.

Sheriff's deputies said Jay Vander Tuig, the dairy's owner, and a friend, Mark Ligtenberg of Upland, had staked out the area of the calf pens in hopes of catching thieves who had taken several calves in recent days.

Vander Tuig told authorities he watched the three climb into the pen, throw a calf valued at $58 over the fence and start to make off with it.

He and Ligtenberg took the three into custody, but a scuffle ensued and they all broke away. Vander Tuig fired several warning shots from his shotgun and ordered the three to halt. When they refused, he fired once again and struck Lane in the arm, buttocks and legs, officers said.

Lane was treated at Doctors Hospital in Montclair and was later booked into jail.

Train derailed

CHEBANSE, Ill. (UPI) — An Amtrak passenger train with 276 persons aboard derailed 200 feet south of the city limits Thursday night, but none of the passengers was seriously injured.

Paul Getty grandson is kidnaped?

ROME (UPI) — J. Paul Getty III, 16-year-old grandson of billionaire J. Paul Getty, was reported missing and possibly kidnaped Thursday.

Police said they were treating the case seriously and would make a statement later today.

Mrs. Gail Getty, the youth's mother, told police and UPI that she received an anonymous telephone call Thursday saying that her son was kidnaped.

"We have kidnaped your son," police said the caller told Mrs. Getty. "Start gathering your money together now for a ransom. We will call you later."

Mrs. Getty told UPI that she could not discuss the ransom demand. "I can't tell you now," she said. "It was all so peculiar.

Nixon one of healthiest presidents

Never sick a day in White House—until now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon has been one of the healthiest presidents in recent history.

His predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, underwent surgery three times during his presidency. Dwight D. Eisenhower had a heart attack, an operation for ileitis and suffered a mild stroke while in office.

President John F. Kennedy, who had back trouble since prep school, twisted his back while helping plant a tree during an official visit to Canada in 1961, and was in pain for months. However, Kennedy, during his White House term was never hospitalized until the assassination in Dallas.

Nixon, 60, has had annual physical examinations since he entered the White House, and each time his physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, has described his health as "excellent." His last full checkup was Dec. 20.

Dr. Tkach has said on several occasions that there never was a healthier president.

Nixon suffered a cold in March, 1969, soon after his inauguration and at the time of former President Eisenhower's death. He went to Camp David for a day and was able to deliver the eulogy speech for Eisenhower the next day.

Dr. Tkach's only complaint about Nixon has been that the President does not get enough exercise. He continually has recommended more exercise and more sunshine.

The late President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack Sept. 24, 1955; an attack of ileitis June 9, 1956; and a mild stroke Nov. 25, 1957. He resumed limited work two days after the stroke.

In his book, "Six Crises," Nixon recalled how he as vice president, was notified of Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack. A phone rang. "'Dick,' said a familiar voice, this is Jim Haggerty (Eisenhower's press secretary). The President has had a coronary.' It was impossible to describe how I felt when I heard these words. The news was so unexpected, the shock so great, I could think of nothing to say for several seconds."

Lyndon Johnson suffered a gall bladder attack and was operated on in October, 1965. He later underwent an operation to repair the incision of the gall bladder surgery. And he had another operation for throat polyps.

Johnson also suffered from a viral attack of a flu-like nature the night of his inauguration, Jan. 20, 1965. He was rushed to Bethesda Naval Hospital by ambulance.

Reporters questioned Dr. Tkach as to whether strain from the Watergate scandals may have been a contributing factor in Nixon's pneumonia. Dr. Tkach did not rule out stress as a contributing factor, but he said conditions of strain or overwork were not necessarily related to the illness.

Big tuition hike urged for public universities

By CARRICK LEAVITT

BERKELEY (UPI) — A blue ribbon commission on higher education has proposed big increases in tuition at public universities to narrow the gap with fees charged by private institutions.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, in a report released Thursday, said it would like to see tuition in public colleges and universities reach a level about one-third of that charged by independent schools.

This would help close the gap between the cost of attending public and private institutions and force students who can afford to attend college pay a greater share of the cost of their education.

At the moment, the commission's report said, the public rate is about one-sixth of that for private institutions.

To narrow the gap, the commission said that public tuition should be allowed to increase by about 10 to 12 per cent a year until the fees reach the one-third level in 1983.

"These recommendations do not guarantee that all private colleges and universities will improve their position, but we believe that they create conditions whereby the well-administered private institution that performs a distinctive educational service can compete with tax-supported institutions on a more equitable basis the report said.

Private colleges and universities should be able to raise tuition at about the same rate as per capita disposable income, while the public schools should raise fees at a faster rate until they reach the one-third level, the commission said.

"We are opposed to any increase in tuition at public institutions except as such increases are offset by the availability of adequate student aid for lower-income students," the commission said.

Former Harvard president Nathan M. Pusey, former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton and Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California, are on the 19-member commission that made the report, the latest in a series on higher education.

The proposals for a major overhaul of higher education financing included stepped-up assistance programs for needy students to make the choice of private or public education easier, stabilizing support of graduate education and improving research funding so as not to divert funds from undergraduate schooling and creation of a student loan program with long-term repayment provisions depending on future income.

'Lord, show me where'

Woman saves grandson's life, stabs mountain lion to death

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI) — Mrs. Peter Underdahl, who killed a 120-pound mountain lion when it attacked her 1½-year-old grandson, today waited outside the hospital room where the tot was recovering from his injuries.

Mrs. Underdahl, her husband, their daughter and the grandson, Jason Cowden, were taking a camper ride through a wild animal tourist attraction called "Bear Country" Tuesday when the lion leaped into the camper.

Mrs. Underdahl's daughter, Mrs. Walter Cowden of Minneapolis, Minn., had opened the front window of the camper just wide enough to take a picture when the lion leaped for the opening, forced the window farther open, tore through a screen and made his way inside.

It leaped over Mrs. Cowden and landed on top of Jason — who was between the camper's two front seats — and began clawing and biting the boy.

Mrs. Underdahl, of Anoka, Minn., shouted to her husband for a knife. He handed her an 8-inch butcher's knife.

"I said a prayer that the good Lord would show me the right spot," Mrs. Underdahl recalled. She said she then drove the knife home and "jammed it in and twisted it." She made three jabs with the knife and the lion went limp.

Mrs. Cowden was bitten when she put her arms in the lion's mouth in an effort to help her son. Underdahl suffered bites on the hands and Mrs. Underdahl also was injured, but all were treated and released.

The head of the lion was sent to the state department of health for a rabies check.

About people

Steve McQueen, Ali McGraw wed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Steve McQueen and Ali MacGraw, cementing a union that has kept fan magazines and gossip columnists bubbling and guessing for months, were married Thursday in Cheyenne, Wyo.

A brief announcement by publicity agents for the couple said only that the ceremony was performed by Judge Art Garfield, and attended by Miss MacGraw's son, Joshua, 2, and McQueen's children, Chad, 12 and Terri, 14.

Miss MacGraw, 34, divorced Paramount Studios production chief Robert Evans, 43, five weeks ago, ending four years of marriage. McQueen, 41, was divorced last year by his wife of 14 years, Neile Adams. They have been romantically linked since costarring in "The Getaway" in 1971.

Ex-member of drug body jumps bail

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Michael De Anda, 52, a former member of the mayor's blue ribbon committee on narcotics, has jumped bail after conviction on heroin possession charges, police said Thursday.

De Anda was convicted June 14. Police and they had found five pounds of heroin worth $2 million in his Long Beach apartment. His bail pending sentencing was raised from $25,000 to $50,000 and he was given one day to raise the money, authorities said, but has since disappeared.

De Anda appeared in the movies "Ship of Fools" and "Twilight of Honor." From 1969 to 1971 he was on the mayor's narcotics advisory committee.

Ex-POW guilty of 2 traffic offenses

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — Former prisoner of war Juan M. Astorga, who was held captive 10 months in North Vietnam, pleaded guilty Thursday to two traffic offenses and was placed on a year's probation.

The Army specialist hit another car on a local freeway on April 12. Although he was charged with hit-and-run the reckless driving at the time, the charges were later reduced to speeding and making an unsafe lane change.

New Peace Corps director named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nicholas W. Craw has been named to head the Peace Corps as acting associate director for international operations of ACTION, the Federal Volunteerism agency announced Thursday.

Craw, who replaces Donald K. Hess, will serve in an acting capacity pending presidential nomination of a permanent associate director. Craw was formerly head of ACTION's office of citizen's placement, was an official of VISTA, the domestic peace corps and worked with PROJECT HOPE, the private international medical assistance organization.

U.S. military record center still burning

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Firemen today fought for the second day to control a blaze in the huge U.S. Military Personnel Records Center, which houses the records of 56 million former servicemen.

The fire broke out just minutes after midnight Thursday on the top floor of the six-story structure in suburban Overland.

It appeared to be coming under control in late afternoon, when it was contained on the sixth floor, but flames as high as 40 feet shot up again by nightfall. Most of the records were stored on the sixth floor in boxes.

During the night the conflagration broke through the roof and spread from the top floor to the fifth and fourth floors of the two-block-long building.

How extensively the records were damaged was not clear, since the heat today was still preventing investigators from assessing the damage.

FBI agents were called in to investigate the blaze. Jeffrey P. Hillelson, regional administrator of the General Services Administration, which owns the building, said about 12 small fires had been set in the building in past years.

Hillelson said, "Some records were destroyed and some were not."

In Washington, Donald E. Johnson, head of the Veterans Administration, said the loss of records might affect some servicemen applying in the future for benefits for disabilities connected with their military duty.

Nearly 128 pounds of drugs confiscated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A spokesman for the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement program said today agents have confiscated nearly 128 pounds of heroin and cocaine in the Southwest during the past year.

Was asked for $100,000 donation--Union oil chief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The president of Union Oil Co. said Thursday that Maurice Stans, finance chairman of President Nixon's re-election committee, solicited a $100,000 donation from him, but didn't get it.

Fred L. Hartley said the request was made by Stans, former secretary of commerce now under indictment in New York in connection with a campaign contribution, and Leonard K. Firestone, Los Angeles industrialist and prominent Republican, who served as state finance chairman of the re-election committee.

Hartley said Stans and Firestone "on the afternoon of Feb. 17, 1972 . . . called on me in my office and told me they needed money for the campaign for the re-election of the President and would I like to give them $100,000.

"I told them I did not wish personally to make a contribution of such great magnitude and I pointed out to them that it was illegal for a corporation to give a campaign contribution to a federal election."

Hartley also referred to reports that the re-election at that time was trying to amass as much cash as possible before April 7, 1972 — the day that a law went into force requiring public identification of campaign donors.

Hartley said he told Stans and Firestone that even if he wanted to make a contribution, he would not do so until after the deadline "since my personal support of the American political system is one I do not have to hide from anyone."

Although corporations are barred by federal law from making political contributions, American Airlines has admitted it donated $55,000 to the Nixon campaign. The re-election committee returned the money at the airline's request Wednesday.

Hartley said he later made a much smaller contribution from his personal funds.

GM forced to make price tag disclosure in state

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — General Motors must tell California car buyers that the price tag on an auto doesn't necesarily show what it sells for.

GM and the state attorney general's office agreed Thursday that beginning with 1974 models, new cars will bear a sticker pointing out that the federally-required "manufacturers suggested retail price" may be higher than the going price for the auto.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said it is "dickering" with other auto manufacturers.

Automakers have been required since 1958 to attach to each new car a statement giving the "suggested retail price," but car dealers are not bound to observe the prices.

The attorney general's office brought a civil suit against GM four years ago, saying the sticker prices are usually "several hundred dollars" higher than the actual sale price most dealers will accept.

The Federal Trade Commission has taken automakers to task for allegedly inflating the sticker price so that dealers can offer fictitious discounts to buyers, and advertise price cuts that really only reduce the price to the cost accepted generally by other dealers.

The state sought an injunction and asked for fines that could have totaled more than $750 million.

The announcement Thursday said the suit had been settled by an agreement submitted to the superior court hearing the case.

GM, without admitting wrongdoing, agreed to put a sticker near the price sheet, reading:

"Notice to buyer: The manufacturer's suggested retail price is not necessarily indicative of the price at which the dealers in this area have been selling this automobile."

A GM spokesman said "We don't know yet if we'll do it in other states."

Railroad car leaks propane; area evacuated

EN CENTRO (UPI)—Firemen quickly evacuated a six square-block area Thursday when an overheated ralroad tank car began leaking explosive propane fuel in 100 degree desert temperatures.

The Petrolane Co. tanker was hosed down to cool off the highly combustible mixture. A Petrolane employe secured the leak two hours after it began.

One week ago in Kingman, Ariz., a propane tanker caught fire and exploded, killing nine persons and injuring more than 80 others.

Authorities said one of the six propane tank cars parked on the Southern Pacific Railroad siding here had been improperly closed, causing the liquified gas to secape.

A safety valve also popped, releasing more gas, according to Fire Chief Rudy Medina.

Moore says Nixon tried...

According to Moore, Dean told the President, "You know — people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

Moore said Nixon shtok his head negatively and did not encourage Dean to continue discussing the idea.

Dean has testified that he believes Nixon knew as early as Sept. 15 of the attempt to cover-up top-level involvement in the bugging of the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate three months previously.

"In this period of March, in five personal meetings with the President, in every single one of those meetings, I think," Moore testified, "he emphasized 'why don't we get our story out ourselves?'"

" 'Forthcoming' was the word he kept using, 'be forthcoming'," Moore said.

"That's one of the reasons I was convinced that the President had no blooming idea of what now turned out to be going on or he wouldn't be pressing to get it out," Moore said.

Moore's testimony came after Fred D. Thompson, the committee's minority counsel, asked him about meetings in March that he and Dean had with Nixon.

Dean testified in June that he had five conversations with Nixon —on Sept. 15, Feb. 27, Feb. 28, March 13 and March 21 -in which they discussed the Watergate cover-up.

In his prepared statement Thursday, Moore said the three men met in Nixon's Oval Office March 20, and "it seemed crystal clear to me that he (the President) knew of nothing that was inconsistent with the previously stated conclusion that the White House was uninvolved in the Watergate affair, before or after the event."

Nixon said later that he learned of "major depelopments" March 21 that led him to launch new White House inquiries into the case.

Moore said he never suspected a cover-up was in progress until late February or early March this year, when Dean began telling him what had been going on.

"Did you consider going to the President yourself to tell him?" asked Thompson.

"I was considering it seriously," Moore replied. "But all I had was gossip; nothing evidentiary ... I felt it was coming to a head, but I had nothing but hearsay, gossip and rumor. But I was worried."

He said he believed "implicitly and totally" until March that Nixon had been correct last Aug. 29 when he said —based on an investigation made by Dean —that no one in the White House or in the administration had been involved in the scandal.

"Did you have any knowledge of the cover-up?" Thompson asked.

"No, sir," Moore replied. "It was up and close to the date of March 19, 1973, where I had begun to be suspicious and Mr. Dean had intimated ... he was worried and might be involved."

But even then, Moore said, he did not suspect White House involvement.

"I was thinking about the people at the (Nixon campaign) committee who might have devised this cover-up plan —if there was one."

Moore said that up until March 20 it occurred to him that "someone should tell the President", but he said he had been dealing only in rumor.

"There was nothing to tie any of this activity to the White House ... I was growing increasingly concerned and wondering what my role should be."

Thompson asked Moore if he wondered whether Nixon knew about the incidents.

"I suppose I did," Moore said. "In my heart, I was totally convinced that the President...believed that no one in the White House had been involved."

Later, Moore said: "I certainly wish the minute I began to get suspicious that I had gone right to the President."

Dreary Friday the 13th

Weatherman acting spooky

After watching out for stray black cats, upright ladders and other pitfalls of the superstitious, Pomona Valley residents may find good news in the light smog forecast today but bad omens in the dreary weather outlook for the weekend.

Friday the 13th even has the weatherman spooked today. He has called for cooler weather today and over the weekend with morning low clouds and the chance of drizzles during the next 72 hours.

Forecaster Wilbur Shigihara of the National Weather Service office in Riverside said a flow of marine air combined with a low pressure area aloft is causing the gloomy weather which will remain for the next few days. He said the weather will warm up by early next week.

He forecast a high temperature today and Saturday of 83 degrees and a low temperature tonight of 58 degrees.

The weather observation station at Cal Poly reported a high temperature Thursday in Pomona of 82 degrees. This morning's low was 60 degrees.

Pomona Valley residents will get a break in the smog today. Light smog is forecast by both the Los Angeles and San Bernardino county air pollution control districts. The smog level in Pomona and Chino and Upland areas of San Bernardino County today is expected to be .15 parts per million.

The peak smog reading in Pomona Thursday was .15 ppm. The highest ozone reading in Los Angeles County Thursday was .23 ppm in Upper Santa Clara River Valley and .17 ppm in Azusa.

The peak reading in San Bernardino County was .30 ppm in Upland.

Although people from Scandinavian countries consider Friday as their luckiest day, other countries associate Friday the 13th as a day of bad luck when one should be cautious of accidents. This belief may stem from the fact that Christ was crucified on Friday and that 13 men were present at the last supper, as some folklore experts have explained the tradition.

This is the second, and last, Friday the 13th this year. The next will occur in September of 1974.

Defense attorney calls Beaty 'congenital liar'

SAN BERNARDINO — Defense attorney Charles R. Garry, giving his closing arguments in the Ronald Wayne Beaty escape-murder trial Thursday, vigorously attacked the credibility of Beaty, describing him as "either a pathological liar or a congenital liar."

Garry continued his final arguments today. Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph D. Canty will have an opportunity to make a rebuttal argument before the jury is instructed and begins deliberating.

Charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner in Beaty's escape Oct. 6, 1972, in Chino are Benton Douglas Burt, 30, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt, 19.

Beaty escaped when a state car bringing him to court was ambushed by persons in two other cars near the California Institution for Men. He was recaptured Dec. 11, pleaded guilty to first degree murder, and testified that the Burts were part of the carefully planned conspiracy to free him.

Garry's attack stemmed from Beaty's 1971 trial in Phoenix, Ariz., when he was tried for a kidnapping following his earlier escape from Chino in November 1970.

Beaty was convicted of commandeering a car containing a young couple and forcing them to drive him to Arizona.

In that trial Beaty testified that the alleged kidnap victims were accomplices in his escape.

In the Burt trial, Beaty said his testimony in the 1971 case was true, and added that he was assisted by Black Panther Party member George Jackson.

"Beaty couldn't manipulate the jury in 1971 in Arizona, and I don't think he's going to manipulate this jury in 1973," Garry said.

"We created him that way. He is a by-product of our rotten prison system—what those men go through, it's a wonder they have any sanity left at all. I understand Beaty. He has a warped mind, an agile mind, a mind that might be making some contribution if it had been changed 20 years ago."

Garry contended that Beaty implicated the Burts to obtain a favorable deal with the authorities. He listed the number of other pending charges which were dropped when Beaty pleaded builty to murder, and noted that he would likely be paroled after seven years.

Future of restaurant

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— The future in restaurant franchising belongs to those who franchise profits rather than ownership, according to James W. Morrell, president of Saga Enterprises.

Morrell said restaurant franchising is really financial marketing rather than merchandising marketing, since the idea already has been created and promoted when the franchise operator comes into the picture.

Assailant rapes woman in her home

ONTARIO — A 34-year-old Ontario woman was raped at knifepoint early this morning by an unidentified assailant who broke into her home.

Ontario police said the assailant, described as a Negro, 6 feet 5 or over wearing dark clothes and with a towel around his face, apparently broke into the home through a window in what may have been a robbery attempt.

The victim reported she was awakened in her bed about 4 a.m. by the man who forced her into the living room at knifepoint. In a struggle during the attack she received lacerations and bruises on her face and body.

Police are continuing their search for the assailant who fled the scene after the incident.

CIM tally: 1 escapee caught, another gone

CHINO — An inmate escaped from the California Institution for Men Thursday while working with a crew outside the main gate.

He is Frederick J. Johnson, 36, sentenced from Los Angeles County for murder and robbery.

"We believe someone drove into the area, picked him up, and they were gone," said Earl Muff, a prison official.

A helicopter was called to assist in a search.

Johnson was working on a medium security work crew in the area of staff residences. The crew contained 13 inmates and one guard. The escape occurred shortly before noon.

Meanwhile, an inmate who fled from the prison in heavy fog Monday was arrested Thursday at a home in Lennox.

He is Gary Baker, 28, who has his right leg amputated and requires crutches to walk. The inmate was sentenced from Los Angeles County for auto theft and parole violation.

Ping-pong flight makes history

IUKA, Miss. (UPI) — H. T. "Dick" Merrill of Iuka made aviation history with the first round trip trans-oceanic flight to England in a plane loaded with ping pong balls. He made the trip in 1928 on a mail flight with Pitcarin Aviation, now Eastern Air Lines.

County delinquents transferred to YTS

CHINO —Transfer of some of the county's juvenile delinquents to the Youth Training School here, to cut down overcrowding at juvenile hall, is now under way.

Twenty youthful offenders, wards of the Los Angeles County Probation Department, already are living in a beefed up unit of YTS, and 30 more are expected in the next few weeks.

Most of the youths are 16 and 17, and will stay an average of 30 days, pending disposition of their cases. Then they will be assigned to county camps, foster homes or to the care of the California Youth Authority.

Earl Brian, secretary of the state Health and Welfare Agency, praised the arrangement and called it an example of state-county cooperation to ease a common problem.

CYA officials said separate programs will be maintained for the Los Angeles County wards. County youths will not mingle with young men under youth authority jurisdiction.

The county youths will have a separate school program in one of the dayrooms, and will be supervised by their own custodial staff. The county will reimburse the state for all costs.

Librarians okay contract with Claremont Colleges

CLAREMONT — After seven months of negotiations, union librarians at the Honnold Library have reached an agreement on a two-year contract with Claremont Colleges administrators.

Under the terms of the contract, the first of its kind at the colleges, members of Local 30 of the Office and Professional Employes International Union, AFL-CIO, will receive higher salaries ranging from $450 per month for library assitants and preparations assistants, $475 for senior library assistants, and $500 for principal assistants. Beginning scale for librarians will decrease from $742 to $740 per month, although no current employes will receive a pay cut. Senior librarians salaries will increase from $777 to $780. Minimum student rates will increase five cents per hour each year.

Annual increases in all classifications will be $15 per month in the second year.

Group health, life insurance and retirement benefits will remain unchanged, as will the 37½-hour work week. Workers will become eligible for vacations earlier under the new contract, and an annual "floating" holiday has been added. Cumulative sick leave has also been lengthened.

Binding arbitration is a feature of revised grievance procedures established by the contract, as is compulsory union membership for new full time workers.

2 men sought in series of 3 holdups

POMONA — Two men may have been responsible for three holdups here Thursday night, police reported.

The first occurred in a laundromat at 838 W. Holt Ave. where Geraldine F. Liscano was forced at gunpoint to surrender her purse.

A few minutes later Charles E. Sheline was robbed of his wallet in front of 729 N Park Ave.

And a few minutes after that, Porter's Union Service at 1500 Gillette Ave. was robbed by a lone gunman who matched the description of one of the robbers involved in the earlier stickups.

Police said both were Negroes about 19. One was 5 feet 7, 155 pounds and had a 2-inch Afro hairdo. He wore a brown T-shirt, and blue jeans. The other was 6 feet tall, thin and wore a white-and-blue striped shirt, blue jeans and a blue knot cap. They were armed with a small-caliber revolver.

Drivers told to drink--coffee

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you have trouble staying alert behind the wheel on long trips, do what professional truck drivers do. That, says Clark Equipment Trailer Division, is:

Open the windows, play the radio, chew gum, make coffee stops at least every 150 miles or three hours or, if all else fails, pull off the road for a short nap.

I, Ollon Costlow hereby state that I am buying the stock & equipment (less scope) from Bill Green's Shell Service as of July 6th, 1973. This ad will serve as a notice to that affect.

'I was sterilized because I was from a welfare family'

NEW BERN, N.C. (UPI) — Eight years ago, says the American Civil Liberties Union, a pregnant 18-year-old black girl agreed to be temporarily sterilized so her mother and eight brothers and sisters could stay on welfare.

But the sterilization of Nial Ruth Cox, now 26 and a nurse's aide at Hempstead General Hospital on Long Island, N.Y., turned out to be permanent, the ACLU said. It filed a 1 million damage suit in U.S. District Court Thursday against the state of North Carolina and a doctor on behalf of Miss Cox.

At the time of the sterilization Feb. 10, 1965 the ACLU said, Miss Cox was living with her family in Plymouth, N.C. in a home that had neither electricity nor running water. Her father was dead.

"I got pregnant when I was 17," the ACLU quoted her as saying. "I didn't know anything about birth control or abortion. When the welfare caseworker found out I was pregnant, she told my mother that if we wanted to keep getting welfare, I'd have to have my tubes tied —temporarily.

"Nobody explained anything to me before the operation. Later on, after the operation, I saw the doctor and I asked him if I could have another baby. He said that I had nothing to worry about, that, of course, I could have more kids.

"I know now that I was sterilized because I was from a welfare family."

The ACLU did not identify the welfare worker.

The suit sought damages on the grounds that Miss Cox suffered "physical and emotional injuries as a result of the operation." It also asked the court to declare unconstitutional the North Carolina statute that allows the sterilization of mentally defective people, even though Miss Cox was not mentally defective.

Dr. A.M. Stanton of Plymouth said he performed the operation on Miss Cox at the state's request. He said his records showed the operation was performed after Miss Cox had two illegitimate children. He denied telling Miss Cox or her family the sterilization was temporary.

Several weeks ago, another $1 million damage suit was filed against a clinic in Montgomery, Ala., on behalf of two black giris wht were sterilized. As a result of the Montgomery sterilizations, congressional hearings have been held in Washington to determine whether federal funds should be cut off from clinics that perform such operations without the patient's full knowledge of the consequences.

O-M district budget approved

Pearson to head school board

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The Ontario-Montclair school board Thursday afternoon elected trustee Richard H. Pearson as its president and approved the 1973-74 publication budget.

Pearson, a Montclair businessman who has served as a board member for 10 years, was the unanimous choice of his fellow board members to fill the post vacated by Harold Zenz. Zenz did not seek re-election as a member in last April's school board balloting.

Elected along with Pearson were board members Samuel Di Giovanni as vice president, and Mrs. Rose Kelber as clerk.

In approving the publication budget, the board set Aug. 2 at 4 p.m. as the time for the public hearing on the final budget.

At that time, the board will also recommend a tax levy to maintain the Development Center for the Handicapped during this fiscal year. The tax increase, which will amount to about one cent is necessary, because the rate of income has not increased since the program began and costs have risen considerably.

The budget puts total revenue at $15,322,055 and total expenditures at $14,476,505. It also allows for a $1.01 reduction from the current tax total of $3.7933 per $100 assessed valuation.

A significant factor in establishing the budget was Assembly Bill 1267, which was signed into law this week by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A trailer bill to Senate Bill 90, AB 1267 provides several options which produce an increase in income to districts. The option most beneficial to the Ontario-Montclair district authorizes a change in the maximum base revenue increase in any one year from 115 per cent to 116 per cent. This feature, according to Asst. Supt. George Duerr, adds $104,360 from the state and is the portion of the trailer bill which the district agreed to share with the employes.

It also changes the formula to permit districts to recoup the 1972-73 loss of Public Law 874 entitlement. For the Ontario - Montclair district, this will mean added revenue of some $60,000.

The district will also receive another $200,000 in funds because the bill provides 50 per cent of the base revenue amount for the projected decrease in the average daily attendance, Duerr said.

In other business, they found established salaries for top-level administrators. In so doing, it approved pay hikes for the superintendent, the deputy superintendent, assistant superintendents and directors. The biggest increase came in the superintendent's salary which rose from $29,000 to $31,500.

These increases are not reflected in the publication budget. Along with the additional .43 per cent salary increase for certificated and classified employees resulting from the passage of AB 1267, they will be subtracted from the reserves and distributed in the appropriate categories in the final budget. This action will reduce the reserves to $795,500.

Salary schedules for certificated and classified employes approved at the June meeting are reflected in the publication budget.

First time in state history

Mass murder jury pick to be secret

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Ruling that Herbert W. Mullin's right to a fair trial on mass murder charges is "paramount,' the California Court of Appeal Thursday approved secret jury selection for the first time in state history.

The trial judge then recessed further proceedings in the case until Monday to allow state Attorney General Evelle Younger to appeal the unprecedented action to the state supreme court.

Twelve jurors have been tentatively seated for the trial of the 26-year-old onetime honor student, who is charged with slaying 10 persons during a three-week death spree that began Jan. 25.

The jurors were selected behind the closed doors in the chambers of Santa Cruz County Superior Court Judge Charles Franich.

Franich ordered the public and news reports barred during the selection at the request of Mullin, defense attorney James Jackson and District Attorney Peter Chang. The judge said this was to provide prospective jurors an atmosphere in which they could answer questions on their attitudes to homosexuality and mental problems.

Preston Devine, presiding judge of the Court of Appeal, said in his ruling in San Francisco: "The trial judge and counsel for both sides have agreed that this is a necessary procedure in order to assure a fair trial. This is the paramount duty of the court."

Younger contended the secret proceedings violated the First and Sixth amendments of the U.S. Constitution, which guarantee freedom to the press and speech and a person's right to a fair and speedy trial.

The attorney general said the people of California are interested in the Mullin trial and the judge's order would "deny their rights to a fair and public trial."

"The people are entitled to a fair trial as much as the accused," Younger told the appellate judges.

3 brothers enter plea of innocent

POMONA — Three La Verne brothers have pleaded innocent to charges of battery and disturbing the peace which resulted from a tracas involving police June 24.

They are Robert Keith Hausman, 25, of 833 Bonita Ave., and Jack Michael Hausman, 21, and Paul Douglas Hausman, 24, both of 2744 I St. Paul also was charged with resisting arrrest.

Police reported that Robert and Jack had to be subdued by officers who were sent to the 2700 block of Park Avenue in La Verne to see what they were doing parked in someone else's driveway. During the melee, Paul fled but turned himself in the next morning, officers said.

Judge Robert C. Gustaveson scheduled a pretrial hearing in the case July 16.

Boat obviously wasn't ready

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — The 38-foot cabin cruiser Marlin II was towed into the harbor Monday by the Coast Guard after it became disabled at sea.

The owner, William Plink of Salinas, put to sea again Wednesday with two passengers.

The boat got four miles off shore and sank, the Coast Guard reported. Plink and the passengers were rescued unharmed by a tug from the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Former LBJ aide sees bigger credibility gap

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Former presidential press secretary Bill Moyers said Thursday the credibility gap of the Johnson administration pales in comparison to the Watergate scandal of the Nixon administration.

"What has emerged is the unsavory spectacle of the abuse of power at the highest level of government," Moyers said. "What we have is men whose single discernible moral injunction is the oldest commandment of all — 'Don't get caught.'

"Our credibility was so bad we couldn't believe our own leads," Moyers said of the Johnson administration. "But I'm telling you we're looking better and better.

"All of our faults were known," Moyers said. "This kind of thing (Watergate) did not take place."

Moyers addressed a convention of the Texas AFL-CIO. In addition to remarks about Watergate, Moyers also described the current administration as one with solid, irrevocable ties with big business and alligned against organized labor.

"This administration has failed to stop inflation because it cannot afford to do anything but put its rich friends first," Moyers said. "One reason you don't get tax reform in Washington that helps you is because the big corporations have made their contributions and bought their friends."

Farm labor organizer Cesar Chavez also spoke to the 900 delegates attending the state convention. Travis County deputy sheriffs cordoned off the podium during Chavez's speech and imposed other security measures because of an alleged $25,000 bounty on his head.

2 state schools top Guggenheim awards

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— The University of California reports that UC Berkeley and Stanford University lead the nation in number of faculty members receiving 1973 Guggenheim Fellowship Awards.

Sixteen academicians at each school were honored with the fellowships. Other leading institutions with Guggenheim scholars are Columbia with 15, Yale with 11, Cornell with 10 and University of Chicago with nine.

Smog emission 'secrets' freed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's office Tuesday announced the signing of a bill requiring public disclosure of the so-called "trade secrets" concerning smog emission.

The bill (SB156) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, requires public disclosure of air pollution emission data which previously had been withheld. Biddle has said the measure conforms state law with federal requirements.

'Be aware of rights' she says

'Mayonnaise widow' speaks out

United Press Telephoto

STILL COOKING—Mrs. Doris Judd does her culinary feats at home these days, however, since the University of California at Davis made her the "mayonnaise widow." The former UC foods employe has lost an appeal in the case, but plans to take it to the courts.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The "mayonnaise" widow who was fired for allegedly being too slow with sauerkraut and too generous with egg salad Thursday identified herself.

She is Doris Judd, 59, the mother of five married children.

Mrs. Judd, who was employed for seven years as a food services employe at the Davis campus of the University of California, termed her dismissal an "injustice."

Labeling the charges against her as "ridiculous," she said in an interview, "They were so minor it really made me mad."

Mrs. Judd agreed to make her name public in hopes it would prevent similar future cases and encourage workers to "be more aware of their rights."

Her attorney, Loren McMaster, has lost an appeal of her dismissal to University of California President Charles J. Hitch and plans to file a lawsuit against the school.

McMaster had declined to release the woman's name without her permission. University officials have refused to comment about the firing.

Mrs. Judd said she was "bowled over by the headlines" about her case. She was vacationing at the time it was first reported in the news media.

She said her problems began when she was transferred to the sandwich department.

"In essence I was supposed to get the sandwiches out in two hours less time than had previously been done," she declared.

The charges against her included the following:

—Failing to spread mayonnaise all the way to the edge of the sandwich bread.

—Taking an average of 1.3 minutes each to put sauerkraut on 50 hot dogs and wrap them.

—Making a five-cent error on the prices of five ham and cheese sandwiches.

Mixing too much egg salad spread on one day and forgetting to make two submarine sandwiches for workers at the Primate Center for three days in a row.

"I can refute every one of them," said Mrs. Judd, whose work record was unblemished prior to her dismissal.

"They didn't have anything against me."

Mrs. Judd expects to get a job with a local department store. She was unemployed following her firing last February, but has managed to live on money from the sale of her house. She said she planned to sell her home for some time and did not do so as the result of the loss of her job.

Reagan asks rejection of remap plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In a brief, Gov. Ronald Reagan Thursday urged three special masters studying reapportionment of California's legislative districts to reject plans offered by the state legislature.

He said he doesn't think the redistricting formula he vetoed in a legislative bill should be adopted by the California Supreme Court. The high court will ultimately decide on boundary lines for the state's congressional, Assembly and Senate districts.

The masters must report to the high court by Aug. 31 on their version of reapportionment under federal and state guidelines conforming to the 1970 census.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The spoils system was practiced by American politicians until Congress passed the Federal Civil Service Act of 1883. In 1832, William Marcy defended Martin Van Buren's appointment as minister to London saying that he could see "nothing wrong in the rule that to the victor belong the spoils of the enemy." For Saturday, July 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will resent anyone who tries to exercise authority over you today. Relax. Play it cool.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When called upon to help someone else today, be wise. Don't let them know how much it is putting you out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think twice about borrowing anything from friends today. Make do with what you have, or do without.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone with whom you'll be sharing the day may get more attention from another than you. Watch your temper.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best you leave until another time tasks you resent performing. They'll only make you grumble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Romantic areas are still tender today. Don't expect more from another than they can expect from you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're to have any peace and quiet today you'd be wise to plan it outside the house.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Work you didn't plan on will bite into the leisure time you expected to enjoy. Get it out of the way early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be tempted to blow your hard cash on frivolous things today. Later, you'll regret these expenditures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be very short-tempered with a member of your family today. Best you give each other a wide berth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) You're presently harboring resentment against another. Forget it. A grudge is too heavy a burden to carry.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An idea you have is more costly than practical, yet you will spend money on it today.

Former solon's aide admits idea for P-F funding

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A onetime top aide to former Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan said today it was "my idea" to contribute to Peace and Freedom party candidates in hopes of drawing votes away from Democrats.

Jerry Simpson made the comment following a disclosure by Frank DeLong, an employe of the Assembly Republican caucus, that he secretly provided $700 to $800 to Peace and Freedom candidates in last year's primary.

Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. is conducting an investigation into apparent "violations of the law" in connection with the contributions. An aide to Brown said the alleged illegal actions involve failure to report campaign contributions and expenditures.

DeLong said Simpson gave him the funds in the form of checks which DeLong cashed and distributed in cash and money orders to "conceal the fact" that it came from GOP sources.

Simpson said in an interview that he could not specifically remember giving the funds to DeLong for the purpose of helping campaigns on behalf of the ultraliberal, antiwar party.

But Simpson added, "I certainly would have approved of the idea. It was my idea in the first place.

"I do not doubt that I gave the money to Frank DeLong. I don't think he would lie about it. I haven't talked to Frank since he got back. And I have done that kind of on purpose because I just didn't want to get involved in a Watergate coverup situation," Simpson said.

The former aide to Monagan, who left the legislature to join the Department of Transportation in the Nixon administration, said he encouraged "people to undertake that kind of operation (funding Peace and Freedom candidates) on the local level."

According to one published report, Monagan has denied knowledge of the contributions.

DeLong was prevented for more than a week from talking to reporters about the contributions as a result of a "gag" by the current Assembly GOP leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach.

DeLong said he received permission to talk to the news media about the case the following Tuesday's special Assembly election in San Joaquin County. It was narrowly won by Republican Doug Carter, a former aide to Monagan.

DeLong said he maintained his silence through the election so as not to "disrupt" it.

He declared he did not originate the idea of funding Peace and Freedom candidates.

"I was the plumber. The whole operation was very off-the-cuff, something I squeezed in," he said.

DeLong said he felt "no moral compunctions" at the time, but that he wouldn't do it again."

"It's not the Republican style," he declared.

DeLong said the idea to fund Peace and Freedom candidates developed because of the Republican "belief" that Democrats were helping American Independent Party candidates in hopes of siphoning votes away from GOP candidates.

DeLong said he provided $192 for the filing fee of Peace and Freedom candidate Charles J. Vail of Concord. The general election was won by Assemblyma Daniel E. Boatwright of Concord.

DeLong also said money was provided in other races including the one eventually won by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Santa Rosa.

Reinecke demurs in probe of campaign

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has questioned Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s finding that two legislative aides did not violate the law in working in the campaign of a Democratic candidate under assumed names.

"I am no lawyer, but lawyers tell me it is illegal to use an assumed name for purposes of deception or fraud," Reinecke said Thursday. "I wonder if the secretary of state has looked into these aspects of the matter."

Reinecke expressed hope Brown would "reconsider his thinking or at least give further study to this practice." Both he and Brown are contenders for governor next year.

Earlier this week, Reinecke called for an investigation of a report that two legislative aides worked under false names in the unsuccessful Assembly campaign of Democrat Carmen Perino in San Joaquin while continuing to draw salaries from their regular jobs.

A spokesman for Brown said an investigation showed no violation of the law "as far as we could determine."

"At a time when the shoddy political practices of Watergate have rocked our nation, I believe it is imperative that politicians and their staffs strive to be above suspicion and above reproach," Reinecke said in a statement.

Reinecke was questioned last month by the FBI about his testimony at a U.S. Senate committee hearing on his role in the ITT-Republican National Convention controversy. The controversy involved ITT's offer to underwrite the convention at a cost of $400,000 prior to the Justice Department's settling out-of-court a pending antitrust action against the firm.

Not enough U.S. aid to remove dead trees

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan complains that federal aid so far in alleviating the dead eucalyptus tree fire hazard in the Oakland and Berkeley Hills has fallen "far short" of what is needed.

In a statement prepared for Congress and released here Thursday, the governor called for approval of a $11 million bill to finance efforts to head off what he said could be "one of the most devastating and destructive disasters from fire in the state's history."

Approximately two million eucalyptus trees were killed by deadly frost last winter and since have become ready kindling for possible wild fire in the heavily populated hills.

In the statement, Reagan told the House Agriculture Committee that state and local governments already have spent $8 million to reduce the hazard but $8 million will be needed to eliminate the threat of a "major disaster" by fire.

He cited the fashionable Montclair area of Berkeley as a "major problem" section for which federal aid had not been approved by the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

"We need federal assistance if we are to prevent what could be one of the most devastating and destructive disasters from fire in the state's history," he said.

He said projects approved by the federal agency extended to fire breaks and "increased readiness" to fight fire, "but fall far short of that which is needed to allow local government to adequately cope with the problem."

Reagan said the federal office had approved only $2 million to prevent a major fire in the tinder dry region.

Welfare work plan given HEW backing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Thursday he was "very pleased" that HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger had given full approval to the state's controversial work or else welfare program.

Praising the Community Work Experience Program (CWEP) as a "considerable success," Reagan said, "the movement of welfare recipients off the public assistance rolls into self-supporting employment is running at a rate of 45.5 per cent in counties with CWEP contracts."

Counties without such work programs, have only an 11 per cent reduction, the governor said.

Weinberger announced HEW approval of the program earlier in the day in Washington. Reagan noted that the program has repeatedly been challenged in the courts and legislature, yet statistically it continued to show success.

"We have been having considerable success with our programs for job-capable welfare recipients," Reagan said. "Every program that moves actual or potential welfare recipients into real jobs benefits not only the individual, but also the economy and the taxpayer."

Reagan also said CWEP had helped "chronically unemployed" persons "who have a desire to be self sufficient, but have social, educational or vocational handicaps which make it difficult for them to find and hold jobs."

The governor also said CWEP "provides an incentive to those few welfare recipients who would rather live off the earnings of others than support themselves, even though they are capable of performing an honest day's work.

"When given the option of finding regular employment or performing public service jobs for their welfare check, they often leave the welfare rolls entirely," Reagan said.

Earl Brian, state Health and Welfare Agency director, said that 16 counties are currently participating in the CWEP pilot project. Eventually, 35 of the state's 58 counties will join the project, Brian said.

State takes report, but gingerly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Reports urging improved minority hiring practices in California schools and "alternative" approaches to classroom desegration were gingerly accepted Thursday by the state Board of Education.

Acknowledging the controversial nature of the material, board members made clear they were not approving or endorsing either report.

Both were prepared by the Equal Education Opportunities Commission, a group appointed and supervised by the board. They were submitted during the final scheduled board meeting of the summer.

Titled "A Design to Promote and Improve Minority Hiring Practices," one of the reports said statewide statistics show "a continuing lag in the representation of minorities at the professional staff level."

It stated that "discriminatory hiring and promotion practices in the past, and some extent at present, are responsible for this situation."

The 19-page document called for "imaginative, aggressive and sustained action by a district's staff to devise recruiting, training and other career advancement programs that will result in increased minority and women representation ..."

Gunman prays, kills self

United Press Telephoto

AFTER THE ORDEAL—Carol Wroth, 24, leans on her husband's shoulder outside their Placerville home after a gunman holed up in the house killed himself rather than surrender. Nathaniel Worth was held hostage after his wife slipped out a window with their baby daughter.

Hostage says prayers saved him from death

PLACERVILLE (UPI) — Nathaniel Worth, a 24-year-old father held hostage at gunpoint for nearly three hours by an escaped murderer, believes his release came only after he convinced his captor to join him in prayer.

"While we were in there we both prayed," Worth said Thursday, the day after his ordeal ended when the gunman committed suicide as deputies ringed the Worth home.

"I started it I guess," Worth said. "I told him I would pray for him. He said okay, that he knew he would die if he went out there. He said he knew he wouldn't survive."

Worth, his wife, Carol, also 24, and their baby daughter were not harmed. Mrs. Worth and the baby were able to slip into a bedroom and escape out a window after the fugitive forced his way into their home.

The gunman, Julius McDaniel, 45, also known as Jack Tippett, was fleeing on foot from sheriff's deputies following a shootout in which he was wounded in the hand when he came to the Worth's Diamond Springs home.

"It was just like a nightmare," Worth said. "He had a gun to my back all the time. It's just hard to believe. You never think anything like this is going to happen."

McDaniel, who reportedly carried so-called death list of persons he considered his enemies, escaped from Deuel Vocational Institute in Tracy May 17. He was convicted in Kern County Aug. 9, 1972 of the beating death of Bakersfield restaurant owner Freddi Giovanetti during a robbery.

"I didn't think he was going to let me go," Worth said. "I thought I was going to die."

When McDaniel finally released him, Worth said, "He told me he was going to shoot himself. He said he was sorry he had to do it in my house."

Pro-UFW clergy given rebuke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons says he was "thoroughly amazed" to learn that clergymen backing Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers union know almost nothing about collective bargaining.

Fitzsimmons, whose union is battling the UFW over who will represent farm workers, Thursday criticized Roman Catholic priests and other clergymen who support Chavez in a speech to the Comstock Club of businessmen.

His appearance was picketed outside by about a dozen protesters who shouted UFW slogans and waved familiar black eagle banners. He later confronted several briefly and declared "I'm not afraid" to hold secret ballot union representation elections.

Fitzsimmons said he was "thoroughly amazed at the nearly total vacuum of knowledge in the collective bargaining process by those who fanatically support that 20th Century mystic—Cesar Chavez."

He charged the clergy lacked "expertise" to deal in complex collective bargaining and labor-management relations.

Fitzsimmons complained that his office had received nine bags of mail protesting violence after a priest who supported Chavez was struck at an Indio cafe.

On the other hand, he said he had received not one letter protesting violence when Teamster headquarters in Salinas were shot up and one of his top farm workers organizers suffered a severe head injury at the hands of what he said were Chavez supporters.

He said Congress could solve the farm labor problem by enacting legislation including farm workers under the National Labor Relations Act. He said farm workers would settle the problem at union elections conducted by the board.

Hit-run victim's mom besieged by guilty man

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Ann Moore said Thursday a telephone caller who admits he ran down and killed her 10-year-old daughter now wants to see her to discuss dropping hit-and-run charges.

Mrs. Moore vows she will keep after the man until his identity is established and he is punished for the death of her daughter, Denise.

The girl was run down and killed by a speeding truck last March.

"He called three times today," Mrs. Moore said. "He hung up twice. The third time, at 12:25 p.m., he said he wanted to get together. I said, 'Come on. You know where I live.'"

Mrs. Moore said the harassing calls began in June after she ran a series of appeals in the personal columns of Chicago newspapers asking for information on the hit-and-run driver.

She said the man, who telephones several times a day, usually asks that Mrs. Moore and her husband, Freeman, stop trying to find him because it would ruin his family.

"You can't get Denise back," Mrs. Moore quotes the man as saying repeatedly.

"He is a malicious man," Mrs. Moore said. "He thinks he is God and can make me stop chasing him. But I tell him that I'm going to keep after him."

$10 million more

Schools get higher than expected funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he has signed legislation giving schools the state aid they were promised —and more —under a new education finance and property tax relief law.

The bill (AB1267) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, allows some school districts, such as Los Angeles, to escape temporarily a freeze imposed on their property tax rates.

The measure also provides $10 million more for school programs than had been promised and $51 million more than was anticipated last year for property tax rollbacks, Reagan said in a statement Thursday.

The school aid provision now totals $235 million and property tax relief $280 million, Reagan said.

The measure was designed to clean up technical problems in the $1.1 billion school aid property tax law enacted last year. The law could have financially penalized school districts if it had not been modified by the Gonsalves bill.

The Gonsalves measure permits school districts to increase their expenditures by $5 per student.

A rational alternative to rationing gas.

What's right with this picture? Well if it were true, we'd be saving 28 billion, 560 million gallons of gas every year.

How did we arrive at that figure? Since we're a nation of national averages, we know the average car uses about 735 gallons of gas a year. The Beetle, 399*. Turn the eighty-five million average cars on the road right now into Beetles, and it works out to a saving of 28,560,000,000 (give or take a few gallons).

Now we haven't figured out all the water and antifreeze that would be saved with the Beetle's air-cooled engine.

Nor can we compute the extra parking space that would be around.

Not to mention all the money people would be able to save in a world of Volkswagens.

But we know for sure that this is no pipe dream. There already are police car Beetles up in Ossining. And a custom built, chauffeur-driven Bug in L. A. And Volkswagen taxis all over Honduras. And a Beetle that herds cattle in Missouri.

So with gas prices going up and rationing becoming a reality, the Beetle never looked so good. In fact, you might almost call it beautiful.

PUBLIC BID SALE

You can pretty much name your own price this week at Pacific Stereo. All you do is walk in, pick out whatever you want and write down your bid for it.

A salesperson will take the bid to the manager; if he thinks it's at all reasonable you've got a deal. Consider the Koss headphones you see here: they're usually $49.95 but you can bid as low as you like, say 35 bucks for starters. You'll never know until you try, so go ahead, be bold and bid what YOU want to pay. You can only bid on items we've tagged with bid signs, but that includes just about the whole store. Go to it and happy hunting.

Try for a popular Harman-Kardon system

The Harman-Kardon 330A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 45 watts (RMS), ample power for room-filling volumes with the efficient TransAudio speakers. Its tuner section is among the better ones we've found in this price range, and the convenience features include separate bass and treble controls for each channel. The price for all this is a surprisingly low $239.95. (The walnut case is optional).

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's price is $60.90.

When you hear the strong, clean bass of the TransAudio 1010's, you'll be amazed that they cost only $119.90 a pair. They're two-way systems with a ten-inch acoustic suspension bass speaker.

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Harman-Kardon 330A	$239.95
Garrard 40B with base and Empire 999XE/X	60.90
TransAudio 1010 (pair)	119.90
Total	$420.75

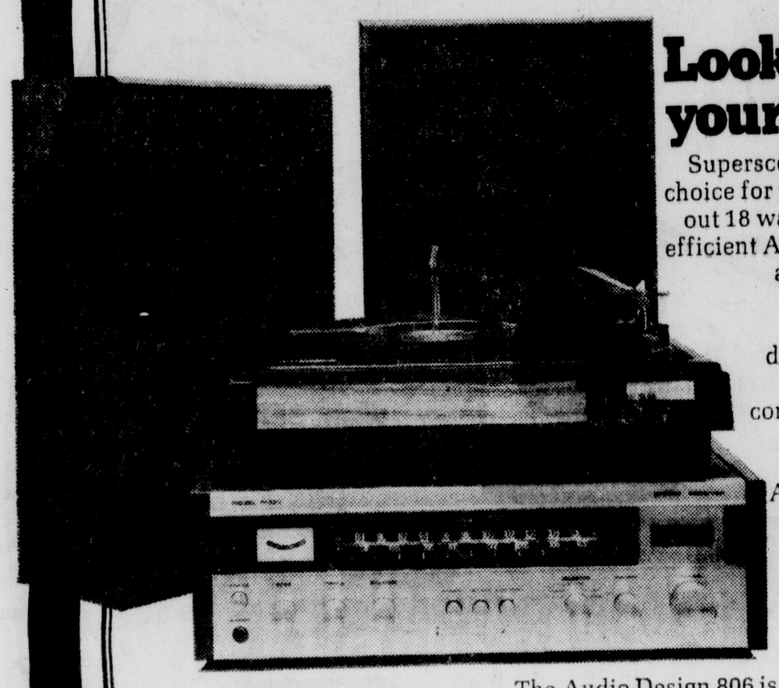
Make a bid

Looking for your first system?



Superscope's R330 would be an excellent choice for your first receiver. Its amplifier puts out 18 watts (RMS) of power, ample for the efficient Audio Design speakers in this system, and the AM/FM stereo tuner section will bring in your favorite stations sounding a lot better than they ever did on your table radio. You'll also find a full complement of convenience controls, including a loudness contour, and the $179.95 price tag includes the walnut case.

A record player as good as the BSR 310 ought to cost more than $49.45. A cueing level protects your records, and so does the anti-skate device. The 310 comes complete with a base and a Shure M75CS cartridge already installed.

The Audio Design 806 is a two-way speaker system with an eight-inch bass speaker. They sell for $99.90 a pair and deliver the kind of clear, natural bass lines you could never get from that radio either.

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Landlords react in cleaning feud, dig up plenty of dirt

I read your article in the July 2 edition of the paper about the people who reportedly had a problem obtaining a refund of their security and cleaning deposits.

In view of repeated articles on tenant-landlord disputes, I feel it is time that the landlord's position be expressed.

To this end I invite the Action Line reporter to come visit the apartment house that I manage. I just had two tenants move out. One was refunded his cleaning and security deposit. I withheld the cleaning deposit of the other tenant and have no intention of refunding a single penny.

I would like you to inspect both apartments, then in your judgment determine whether you feel I am justified in retaining the entire $35 cleaning deposit of this one tenant who incidentally insists that the apartment was thoroughly cleaned and threatened court action if I did not return the deposit.—A.P., Claremont.

One apartment which A.P. showed us was undoubtedly cleaner than the other.

Although the occupant of the latter had tried o clean up, there were spots in the carpet, dust in the drapes, hard deposits of soap and sediment on sinks and in the shower.

A ledge above the stove was greasy. A little cooked-on grease remained in the oven.

Hangers had been left in the closets. Walls were scuffed.

"It's the way they live," the apartment manager commented. He estimated that it would cost him $16 to have the carpet cleaned, $36 for general cleaning and $8 to have the drapes cleaned.

Both tenancies began before he arrived as manager two years ago. Since then, he has instituted a $50 cleaning fee, not refundable.

"That way, they can leave it as dirty as they like and we're still friends," he says.

Prospective new tenants are handed a long agreement to sign. A.P. claims he makes them sit down and read it before they pick up a pen.

A.P. mentioned but didn't elaborate on a security fund. When we questioned him about it, we learned that it was $100 and was refundable only if the tenant stayed 12 months.

While we sympathize with the problems of a landlord who has to see to the cleaning up and breakage after a tenant moves out, we think the $100 would seem like an undue burden to a renter who stayed only two months, like the one whose letter appeared in Action Line July 2.

We join A. P. in urging the practice of reading before you sign.

Since today, Friday the 13th, turns out to be landlords' day for Action Line, we'll let a landlady have the last word:

Reading the B.H., San Dimas, story on July 2 raised my dander. I own rentals and while generally people give few problems, there is an occasional one who makes the whole business not worth a dime.

The more they raise a stink the more likely they stink!

You ought to see what they call clean! I've just had two vacating. One got all her stuff out, forgetting to leave some of mine. She swung a dirty mop over the floor and left the windows so dirty you could not see out. A desk, dresser, etc., were all unwashed and the curtains were dirty.

I don't even go through the battle of collecting a cleaning fee and having to fight over it.

The other was an eviction and it's heaven to have him gone, but he was back for mail and I caught him going through another's mail box today. He was noisy and offensive when I asked what he was doing.

What I am really saying is: Be very cautious about such complaints. I've been in this business many years in Pomona and years before that. It's so funny, the quiet, peace-loving people are usually the clean ones who leave you nothing to complain of or have no complaint about you.—Mrs. R.A. Pomona.

Question: how will it be used?

Schools mull return of 10-cent tax

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Because of enabling state legislation, the Pomona Unified School District is expected to reinstate the 10-cent per $100 of assessed valuation permissive community service tax but there is doubt as to how those revenues will be used, officials said Thursday night.

City Parks and Recreation Director Jack Hoxsey and Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz, speaking at a meeting of the Parks and Recreation Commission, said a special, joint session of the City Council and school board probably would be called before Aug. 1 in an attempt to resolve the matter.

The city would like to see funds from the permissive tax used to bolster the local recreation program which recently was drastically cut after the school district withdrew as a joint sponsor.

But Wentz said the district is looking into an approach to a community recreation program that is different than the past city - schools program.

The enabling legislation is Assembly Bill 1267, passed as a trailer bill to the earlier Senate Bill 90 which prohibited school districts from levying the community service tax.

After SB 90 became law, the district pulled out as a joint sponsor and the local recreation program subsequently was cut about one-third. Later, the program was strengthened by the council by using federal revenue sharing funds.

Hoxsey said the district's share of financing amounted to about $120,000.

Under the provisions of AB 1267, the 10-cent tax would raise about $225,000 but at the same time the district's general fund would be reduced by that amount because of decreased state support, Dr. Wentz said.

He said regulations permitted revenues from the permissive tax to be used in three areas—for opening to the community the use of school property, for pupil supervision during lunch time and for community recreation.

He said district auditing for the past fiscal year showed it cost the district some $400,000 for those uses but the permissive tax raised a much smaller amount.

Hoxsey and commissioners questioned the method for arriving at those figures.

"It's amazing what you can do with figures," Dr. Ivan Smith, commission chairman, commented.

Hoxsey asked whether costs to the district for allowing its buildings and grounds to be used for community services were separated from the costs incurred for using the same facilities for educational purposes.

The intent of the community recreation tax when legislated in 1937, said Hoxsey, was to permit millions of dollars in school facilities to be opened to the public when not used for educational purposes.

Wentz said there was no doubt in his mind but that the 10-cent tax would be levied by the board, adding that the decision on how much would be spent for each of the three categories would be up to the trustees.

However, in an attempt to increase participation in the recreation program, the district is considering a noon-time and after-school program that would not require hiring additional supervisory personnel, would be coordinated by each of the school principals and would have the costs absorbed by the district, Wentz said.

"This doesn't really meet the criteria of a community services program," Hoxsey remarked.

The key the district is looking for, Wentz replied, is a strong program. "We think we can increase the numbers of kids participating with a program during daytime and after school."

Hoxsey said he would be "very worprogram ought to be more than that, such as to include activities for weekends, evenings and events.

Hoxsey said he would be "very worried" if a principal took the position the program at his school was open only to students from that school because "it shuld be for the entire community."

Wentz replied that it would be the district's responsibility to see that did not happen.

Elected planning chairman

New zone ordinance urged by Vlietstra

POMONA — The new chairman of the Pomona Planning Commission favors revamping the city's zoning ordinances to meet present needs and demands.

This would include parking restrictions, street widths, signs and service stations.

"I would like to see that once an ordinance is made, there is no need for variances. Everyone would be treated on an equal basis," said Bart Vlietstra.

Vlietstra, 40, a janitorial maintenance contractor, was elected commission chairman this week to succeed Jerry Shepard whose term expired.

Other officers include J. Romo, vice chairman, and E. J. Gaulding, secretary. New members taking seats on the commission were John Nabarette and W. R. Hagstrom.

Vlietstra predicts a large growth for Pomona because of the freeway systems. The planning commission, he added, can assist by giving guidance and providing proper controls in this growth.

He said other areas of concern include massage parlors and the providing of child care centers in new residential developments.

Vlietstra, appointed to the commission in 1968, served the past year as secretary and vice chairman.

BART VLIETSTRA.

Palomares Adobe open to visitors

POMONA — Pomona Valley's first adobe dwelling, originally built in 1837, will be open to the public Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and thereafter every Saturday and Sunday at the same hours, it was announced by Elizabeth Zilles, chairman of the adobe committee.

The landmark is the first Palomares Adobe, also known as La Casa Primera de Rancho San Jose, at the southwest corner of McKinley and Park avenues. There is no admission charge for touring the adobe and grounds. Mr. and Mrs. James T. Green are host caretakers of the adobe.

The adobe was purchased a year ago at auction for $85,000 by the Historical Society of Pomona Valley. Subsequently, the City Council voted to acquire the historic home over a four-year period.

Move considered by Chess Club

POMONA — The newly formed Pomona Pawn Pushers chess club is threatening to outgrow its location in the Central Park recreation room.

Acting president Howard Lowell, who founded the club four weeks ago in his home, said the capacity of the meeting place is only 30, "and we're almost at that now."

Regardless, Lowell said, "we're still taking anyone who wants to play."

Club meetings are held in Central Park each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. Anyone interested in attending may contact Lowell at 627-1656.

Railroader steams ahead

POMONA — The on-again, off-again redevelopment project for the construction of a Railroader Restaurant at the former heliport site is moving ahead but this time under a different arrangement.

Plans for the $150,000 restaurant were approved last Oct. 9 in a redevelopment agreement reached between City Council, sitting as the redevelopment agency's governing board, and the Railroader Food Corp.

But the project became stalled in April because of a court decision involving the city of Salinas which cast doubts on the legality of some provisions of the Pomona agreement.

In the Salinas case, the sale of or lease to a private bank of property acquired for off-street parking by a vehicle parking district or the city was challenged, said City Manager Fred Sharp.

The Pomona development would have used property originally acquired through Vehicle Parking District No. 1 in the 1960s for a heliport, which later went out of business.

The restaurant site includes part of the former heliport south of Commercial Street and west of Main Street.

The city through VPD was able to assemble the land for the heliport after nine citizens agreed to put up $20,000 each to buy portions of the site.

At the time the redevelopment agreement was approved in October, VPD had been making interest payments to the private owners on the contract purchase of the property.

Under the new arrangement, the lien holders of the four parcels south of Commercial and west of Main will release the VPD from its obligation to acquire the southern portion, 53 feet wide and 261 feet long, where the restaurant will be built.

The lien holders then would deal directly with the food corporation on the lease of the 53-foot-wide strip.

Charles T. Richardson, representing the lien holders, said they were willing to make the changes in order to help the city. "It will in no way benefit directly those offering to make this sacrifice in the public interest," he said.

The October agreement had come under extensive negotiations after the council several times had rejected the terms advanced by the developer.

The agreement when finally approved was a complicated one that involved the developer, city government, redevelopment agency, the private property owners and VPD 1.

Under the new agreement, approved by the council the city's obligation for acquiring the heliport site through the parking district will be reduced by $20,000.

Lien holders will pay the $3,000 cost for annexing the strip to the parking district. Actual annexation proceedings will be carried out by the city.

Th city also will be responsible for constructing a parking lot north of the restaurant site at an estimated cost of $11,000, and for making certain off-site improvements estimated to cost $6,000.

Richardson said the new arrangement would accomplish the following:

— Allow the portion of the property under lease to be placed on the assessment rolls where it will be subject to all property taxes and special assessments.

— Enable the lease with the restaurant to be made between private parties, eliminating the necessity of the city entering into the negotiations.

— Improve the downtown image and economic strength by adding another important traffic generator.

— Add site improvements of about $150,000 which would be subject to personal property taxes.

— Provide additional sales tax revenue to the city.

E. J. Gaulding, a planning commissioner, said he thought the new arrangement amounted to a "heavy government subsidy" of the project.

$1,566.06 surprise

Old fuel tank hikes Roosevelt costs

POMONA — The cost of rebuilding Roosevelt Elementary School went up $1,566.06 this week.

That's how much it cost to drain and haul away the ancient underground fuel oil tank contractors unearthed at the site.

"Heaven knows how long it has been there," said Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, at this week's school board meeting.

"It undoubtedly dated back to the days when the school was heated with fuel oil. We know it was very old. It was covered with blacktop."

Roosevelt, a pre-1933 school, is being rebuilt largely by state money. Barnes Construction Co., Claremont, is the contractor. Its bid on the project was $945,500.

Nichols said workmen are "making pretty good progress."

He said kindergarten floors are poured and walls are up, main walls on the Huntington side are going up and window and door casings are there.

In other actions, the school board:

— Accepted resignations from six teachers, hired two psychologists for next year and promoted Stanley P. Peterson, a teacher at Lorbeer Junior High School, to counselor at Alcott Elementary School.

— Approved professional advancement salary increments for 27 certificated personnel effective Sept. 10.

— Approved names of 113 substitute teachers for 1973-74 at a pay rate of $32 per day and established a library clerk position.

— Approved the hiring of 94 student aides under the Neighborhood Youth Corps work training project. They are to be paid $1.65 an hour.

— Named six administrators as the board's representatives for the meet-and-confer sessions with the Certificated Employes Council (CEC) for 1973-74. They are Supt. Robert E. Wentz, Asst. Supt. Lynn Rountree, Asst. Supt. Sidney G. Moses, Asst. Supt. Garrett C. Nichols, Pomona High School principal Joseph E. Andrews and Alcott Elementary School principal David A. Gallagher.

At the same time, the board reserved the right to secure services of professional consultants.

— Approved a request from Pomona Day School Teen Summer Project to use three classrooms at North San Antonio Elementary School through Aug. 17 where high school students will tutor elementary pupils under the supervision of college students.

Erie Street will remain Erie Street

POMONA — Erie Street will not be renamed Orlando Street.

This proposal was withdrawn Wednesday night when it came before the Pomona Planning Commission.

Bill Rudnick, owner of Orlando's Restaurant, had suggested the name change since his restaurant serves as a "direction corner."

The new name, however, was protested by firms and residents along Erie Street, which extends from the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks to Orange Grove Avenue.

Dr. Louis J. Solana, appearing for Rudnick, asked to withdraw the request. "What started as a casual conversation ended with a Pandora's Box," he said.

"This was started as a positive attempt to get community identity. This wasn't for personal gain."

City planners received last month Rudnick's letter requesting the name change. They set the matter for public hearing and notified all property owners and apartment house managers along Erie.

Letters opposing the change were received from the Northwest Paper Co., Potlatch Corp., and Richard Hathaway, who operates a weed-abatement business.

In addition, 69 persons signed a petition stating they didn't want the street named after a commercial establishment and didn't want to go to the "trouble and expense" of a change of address.

Drug program included in health center operations

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — A joint power agreement between Pomona, Claremont and La Verne for the operation of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority will be revised to include a drug program that would serve a larger area and be largely independent of the three-city health center.

The new program would have its own coordinator and an advisory board separate from the one that presently advises the Tri-City governing board.

The new advisory group would leagally be called a technical advisory committee on drug abuse formed under state regulations that apply to Tri-City.

But the new advisory group would be known as the Pomona Valley Comprehensive Drug Planning Board, an offshoot of a citizens' group of the same name that for two years has been working to get a comprehensive drug treatment and prevention program started.

The volunteer citizens' group, headed by former General Dynamics Pomona President Charles Horne, now seeks ties with Tri-City as a legal entity to qualify for a $104,000 state grant to coordinate drug abuse programs in Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, portions of Diamond Bar and other unincorporated county areas.

State legislation passed last year approprated $14.3 million for the coordination of drug programs placing the responsibility on each of the counties.

In Los Angeles County, such efforts come under the Inter-Agency Task Force on Drug Abuse.

The Pomona Valley Comprehensive Drug Planning Board is one of five "coalitions" from the San Gabriel Valley that have applied for state funds through the county.

At a meeting Monday, the Tri-City governing board, which includes eight councilmen from the three member cities, approved a recommendation from Pomona Community Relations Coordinator Clarence Webb that the planning board become the technical advisory committee of the clinic.

Governors also voted to amend the joint powers agreement to reflect the new drug program.

In a third motion, the governing board approved guidelines for reorganizing the planning board with 11 members.

It was indicated the new planning board would be made up of representatives of law enforcement agencies, public and private drug programs, education and the general public.

The planning board, or advisory group, will be assisted by a committee whose number has yet to be determined.

Three of the 11 planning board members would be councilmen from the Tri-City member cities and six members would be appointed by councilmen from the four incorporated cities that would be included in the program.

The 11th member could be nomirated by any councilman from any of the four incorporated cities with a Tri-City majority vote required for ratification of the appointment.

A spokesman for the existing planning board Tuesday was optimistic the state funds would be forthcoming because of the ties with Tri-City, adding that he was hopeful that because of the regional approach to the drug problem, federal funds can also be obtained.

On another matter, the Tri-City governing board agreed to contract for psychiatric services with Dr. Gary Davis.

Knapp plan is worth looking at

Not too many years ago Pomona had one congressman, one state assemblyman and one state senator.

As a result of gerrymandering over the years, Pomona now has three congressmen, two assemblymen and two state senators. It's no wonder that many residents of Pomona do not know who represents them in Sacramento and Washington, D. C.

Since these state and federal representatives have so little stake in Pomona it is a well known political fact of life that Pomona lacks much muscle in the state and national capitals.

The Legislature has flubbed the decennial job of reapportioning the legislative and congressional districts and the job is now in the hands of the judiciary.

The State Supreme Court has assumed jurisdiction because the Legislature was unable to present a reapportionment plan that was acceptable to the governor. Furthermore, that plan would have carved Pomona up even more and given the city three congresssmen, three assemblymen and three state senators. Such a proposal should be totally unacceptable to all thinking Pomona residents.

However, there is hope. The Special Masters appointed by the Supreme Court is charged with recommending to the court the criteria by which district boundaries should be established.

A couple of weeks ago representatives of Pomona Chamber of Commerce and the city appeared before the Special Masters to plead that the political integrity of the Pomona Valley be restored by keeping intact city and the school district lines, natural topography, retail trading areas and transportation systems.

Appearing before the Masters at the same hearing was Gordon Knapp, a private citizen of Atherton, who presented his own plan for reapportioning California's 43 Congressional districts.

His plan was constructed from strict criteria developed without the use of political data such as party registration or past voting trends. Also, his districts are much more compact and constructed to honor political boundaries of counties and cities where possible.

Knapp's plan would create one Congressional district for the Pomona Valley area, extending from the foothills on the north to Corona on the south, and from Kellogg Hill on the west to Mira Loma, Rubidoux and Fontana on the east.

This may not be the plan which will evolve but it is the first constructive effort to do away with odd shaped districts in search of partisan support and instead keep inviolate city boundaries and communities of interest.

Knapp hit the nail on the head when he declared that "voters simply come out second best" when the incumbents create boundary lines that are drawn to guarantee their re-election.

We believe Knapp's plan deserves serious consideration because it is consistent with Chamber and city desires to keep local political jurisdictions of the Pomona Valley intact within the constraints of equality of population.

Store's employes biggest thieves

Consumers who think high prices these days amount to robbery are closer to the truth than they may think.

Theft actually adds between 15 and 30 per cent to the cost of every article purchased in retail outlets, merchandisers estimate.

The thefts come in two forms — shoplifting and pilfering. And the latter, theft by a firm's own employes, is by far the most prevalent and costly. In one investigation of massive inventory losses in a major department store chain, old-fashioned shoplifters accounted for only 25 per cent. The rest of the chain's losses were at the hands of its own employes.

Since department stores are not organized as philanthropic institutions, the bill for thefts is not absorbed but is passed along to customers. An expert in the field, Guardsmark, Inc., a major private security service, estimates the bill, the total annual loss through employe pilfering, at a minimum $5 billion and probably closer to $15 billion.

While occasional, and usually petty, pilfering is widespread, only a small percentage of employes — estimated at 7 to 8 per cent steal systematically. But these are responsible for most of the losses.

Pilfering has spurred the growth of a new industry, the professional security service which has largely replaced the local store detective in large enterprises. The services bring greater sophistication to the task — trained personnel, electronic surveillance devices, scientifically devised screening and hiring procedures — but at a cost which, since stores are not philanthropic. . .

It is indeed a problem, most of all for the consumer who one way or the other ends up paying for the high cost of pilfering.

President Nixon's black Sunday

WASHINGTON — The dramatic moments can now be recounted when President Nixon was confronted with the whole truth about Watergate. He was told the stark facts by former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst after White House church services on Sunday, April 15.

At one point, Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen was hastily summoned to the meeting. He arrived in a dirty tee-shirt and sneakers. He had been working on his boat when the call came.

The showdown with the President followed an all-night session at Kleindienst's home where Petersen laid out the grim details. He had just learned from the Watergate prosecutors the extent of the conspiracy. He was so distraught when he found out how high the conspiracy reached that he smashed his fist into a wall.

It was persistent and painstaking legal work by the three original prosecutors, and not a single catalytic incident, that broke open the Watergate case and exposed it as the most explosive political conspiracy in the nation's history.

Belief confirmed

The prosecutors—Earl Silbert, Seymour Glanzer and Donald Campbell—felt certain that the case involved far more important personalities than the seven men they prosecuted last January. Their belief was finally confirmed in late March, when they amassed enough details of high-level skulduggery to alarm the White House conspirators.

First John Dean and then Jeb Magruder came to the prosecutors privately with the convoluted tales that are now familiar to millions of television viewers. The prosecutors studied documents provided by the pair and took testimony from other witnesses. By April 14, the three assistant U.S. attorneys had solid proof of a massive conspiracy to obstruct justice reaching right into the White House.

The evidence was so compelling that they felt duty bound to alert the President, since most witnesses claimed he was unaware of the conspiracy. Going through channels, the prosecutors accompanied by their boss, U.S. Attorney Harold Titus, called upon Petersen on the night of April 14.

The meeting had just begun when Petersen asked: "Is it true about Mitchell?" He referred to his friend and former superior, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell.

Petersen's agony

"Yes," Petersen was told. Such was his agony that he banged his fist into the office wall.

The prosecutors added that, worse, the case could lead to the impeachment of the President. After the evidence was presented, they agreed that Nixon should be informed at once.

Petersen put through a call to Kleindienst, who was spending the evening at the White House Correspondens Association's annual dinner. But he was not particularly enjoying himself. Just before he had left home, he received a call from presidential assistant John Ehrlichman who reported that Magruder was talking to the prosecutors and would implicate a number of Nixon aides.

Kleindienst returned home from the press party after midnight and received the call from Petersen.

"Are you sober?" Petersen asked.

"Fairly," said Kleindienst.

He was told it was urgent that they meet immediately. Petersen, Titus and Silbert arrived at 1 a.m. and stayed until 5 a.m. By sunup, the suddenly sobered Kleindienst, a close friend of Mitchell's and a devoted follower of the President, was distressed to the point of despair.

Kleindienst decided the President should be told all the facts and, after a couple hours of sleep, he put in a call to the White House. It was 9:30 on Sunday morning when he reached Nixon, who asked him to come to the White House prayer service. Afterward, Kleindienst told the President all that the prosecutors had uncovered. Petersen was summoned to provide more details and arrived in tee-shirt and sneakers.

The President obviously had not realized the scope of the conspiracy, Kleindienst told us. He said he had a policy against quoting the President but could report Nixon had expressed "surprise" and "concern."

"The President went along with every recommendation we made," added Kleindienst. "At no time did he give us any direction other than to investigate the case fully and let the chips fall where they may."

On April 17, two days after the fateful Sunday meeting, President Nixon curiously told the nation that new information had come to him fully three weeks before the Kleindienst meeting on March 23, and he was personally investigating all of the facts about Watergate.

But he did not mention how three Washington prosecutors had spent 10 months to cut through the web of lies spun by top White House aides.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Choking on Fiddleworth Factor

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I've been trying to tell everybody the gasoline shortage was a good thing. Now maybe they'll believe me.

This week we got the news that the gasoline shortage in this area was over. And look what happened!

We immediately got hit with an air pollution "alert."

Officials began broadcasting appeals to motorists to form car pools, switch to public transportation and otherwise avoid unnecessary driving to help save the environment

Which are the same things they were urging us to do last week to help save gasoline.

Thanks to increased supplies, we no longer have to walk because we are out of gas. Now we have to walk because there is too much gas.

This is why I say a gas shortage is a good thing. It's probably the only way to save the environment.

Public appeals to curb pollution are largely ineffectual. You can't persuade people to stay off the streets simply because they are choking of exhaust fumes.

Given a choice between asphyxiation and riding the bus, most commuters will opt for the former. You've got to force them off the road with a dry tank.

This attitude is not so much a matter of perversity as an outcropping of what I call the "Fiddleworth Factor," which is a psychological quirk named in honor of Wally Fiddleworth, the Washington representative of a large industrial corporation.

A couple of years ago Fiddleworth invited me to lunch. He picked me up in a chauffeured limousine and we drove approximately two blocks to a restaurant. (This is a distance some of the more intrepid lunch parties have braved on foot.)

All during the meal, Fiddleworth had the chauffeur keep the motor running so the air conditioner would remain on and we could return to a cool car.

At the time, I was deeply touched but Fiddleworth's name has taken on a different symbolism.

Whenever I am being urged to help reduce air pollution by doing less driving, I know that all the while I am making the sacrifice Fiddleworth will be somewhere having lunch with the motor running.

That realization puts a distinct chill on my ecological fervor.

The Fiddleworth Factor is probably the main reason why voluntary anti-smog programs don't work. Since nearly everyone knows a few Fiddleworth types, hardly anyone is willing to inconvenience himself for the sake of fresh air.

We'll all stay in our autos until we either run out of gas or run out of oxygen. Whichever comes first.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

Fruits of socialism

Watergate should make one ask, "What is the difference between the Socialist Democrat Party and the Republican Socialist Party"? They are both full of liars, crooks, and murderers!

Liars because they swear to uphold the U.S. Constitution and then flagrantly violate it. Crooks because they have stolen and are still stealing the gold and silver of the American people. Murderers because they license the killing of thousands of unborn babies.

Other fruits of this socialist combine are wage and price controls, inflation, devaluation of the dollar and future rationing.

Isn't socialism great? Ask any Republican or Democrat. They ought to know. They are voting for it. That's why I re-registered American Independent Party. It's good for the conscience. —Clayton Stanhope, Pomona.

Let's not crucify panel

I would like to answer Carl D. Purdy's letter in which I was greatly surprised. It seems to me all he wants to hear about in this country is the good things.

According to his letter, bringing out the truth in Watergate is communistic and all evil. He speaks of our foreign countries having disrespect for us because of it.

I would like to remind him that in World War II if the German people had been told the truth about Hitler they wouldn't have had a dictator and their country wouldn't be split today.

Since Mr. Purdy is a pastor I'm surprised that he didn't come up with the fact that our head men in this country are just other Judases that have sold us down the river for 20 pieces of silver for their greed for power and money.

Here's for more of our Watergate panel and please let's not crucify them as Jesus was. —Mrs. James O'Connor, Chino.

Gossip for today

You ask a high government official a question and you get an answer. But you've got to hear it to believe it and even then you won't. You won't for a perfectly good reason. A short time after you get than answer it is labeled "non-operative." —Or you get a "hypothesis" — which is neither a statement nor an answer. It's something, of course, but nobody knows quite what. However, if you really are lucky, some spokesman for high government may even respond to your question by stating that, "the issue will be addressed" before "an appropriate forum" at a more appropriate time. So you bow low and back out, mumbling, "I'm sorry that I asked!" —And once again government of the people, by the people and for the people is on an even keel.

INSIDE REPORT

Greek backlash threat to Navy

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Grave discrepancies between formal, Navy-estimated costs of the controversial plan to "homeport" the U.S. Sixth Fleet in Greece and costs compiled by a secret study just completed for Congress not only threaten the homeporting plan but U.S. Greek relations in general.

Much to the concern of the military dictatorship in Athens, this discovery of highly misleading testimony to the House Foreign Affairs Committee by the Pentagon in spring of 1972 coincides with sudden disenchantment by the Nixon administration with Greek dictator-president George Papadopoulos.

The roots of that disenchantment are found in Col. Papadopoulos's decision six weeks ago to abolish the Greek monarchy. With a "referendum" scheduled for July 29 certain to give Papadopoulos eight more years as dictator against rising political opposition, the Nixon administration is cooling toward the military regime.

Now, the regime's woes are about to deepen in Congress. The almost unbelievable misstatements made by Pentagon officials (including the astute Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt) about homeporting costs have infuriated congressional experts aware of the matter. A full rendition will be given a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, headed by Democratic Rep. Ben Rosenthal of New York. Testifying will be expert witnesses from the General Acccounting Office (GAO), congressional watchdog over spending.

Secretary writes Rosenthal

On Feb. 19, 1972, John H. Chafee, then Secretary of the Navy, wrote Rosenthal: "It is currently not planned to expand or build naval facilities other than . . . minor facilities at the airfield. . .We desire to hire and-or lease existing port services, (and) pier space."

Likewise, on March 7 last year Zumwalt told the Rosenthal subcommittee that "we do not have any intention to build military facilities for our ships." When asked by Republican Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey whether "there is no expansion of naval facilities, as such, involved," Zumwalt shot back: "Yes, sir."

But the GAO's team of experts, sent to Greece early this year for investigation, came home with a shockingly different story. Their report indicts abysmal Navy planning and Navy failure to do its homework. It even raises a suggestion that homeporting in the Athens area may prove more touble than it is worth.

Here is the heart of the report: 1. Papadopoulos is giving the Navy little cooperation, apparently assuming the U.S. has to do business with him anyway.

2. The claim that the Navy would not build "facilities" was so wrong as to approach complete stupidity or deception. Not one but two multi-million-dollar piers, totalling perhaps $30 million to $40 million, will have to be constructed—the first for destroyers, the second (vastly the more expensive) for a single aircraft carrier.

3. Contrary to Chafee's testimony, the Athens airfield may be unusable, forcing the Navy to use the regular NATO airbase at Crete, 150 miles away, thus piling huge extra expenses on homeporting.

4. Worst of all, the GAO experts will testify next week that the destoryers and the carrier may have to be berthed in completely different waters, perhaps 30 miles apart. That would obviate one basic Navy purpose of homeporting: to give families of American seamen a morale-boosting chance to live together.

Pier easily movable

The Navy has already signed an agreement in principle to construct a "relocatable" pier for more than 13 million at Elefsis, home port for Sixth Fleet destroyers. "Relocatable" indicates the pier is easily movable,but the word is a euphemism. In fact, the pier, called "phase one" of the plan, is built on permanent pilings.To move it would take up to six months at heavy expense. By calling it "relocatable," the Navy apparently hopes to hoodwink Congress into belief that it is not a permanent "installation."

Moreover, the expense of berthing the carrier at Magara (known as phase two), will be 10 times greater, involving not only a pier but also "cold iron capability" — shore installations, including power supplies, which can keep a carrier's services running while its own power supply is cut off.

The State Department has not yet approved phase two, partly because of the deteriorating political situation inside Greece. Whether it ever does will now depend on congressional reaction to the Navy's failure to come clean 16 months ago on the true cost of homeporting and whether President Nixon decides it is time to cut back his huge investment in Dictator Papadopoulos.

Higher city property tax seen for Walnut

WALNUT — Walnut home owners will pay a higher city property tax despite a continuation of last year's 87 cents per $100 of assessed valuation as a result of recently announced assessed valuation increases.

Total assessed valuation jumped 12.68 per cent here from $14,670,265 to $16,530,535, the second largest percentage valuation rise of any Pomona Valley city.

The valuation hike is the result of a three-month study of local home sales conducted by the Los Angeles County Tax Assessor's Office from June 1972 to August 1972.

The 12.68 per cent figure was accounted for in a recently adopted Walnut city budget. County officials told City Manager Andy Lazzaretto of the expected increase several months ago for budget preparation, but it wasn't officially released until this week.

Donald Crouse, principal appraiser with the assessor's office, said the increase is due to national inflation and the rising cost of home construction. "Inflation is the most logical reason. If a new house costs more today so do the older ones," he said.

Walnut underwent its last house by house assessment seven years ago, he said, and is the only Pomona Valley city to undergo the extensive reevaluation of property values this year.

"We take every home sale in Walnut and what it sold for and compare that with homes that didn't sell. The people buying homes determine what a house will be worth and there are all sorts of reasons for people buying houses for more," Crouse said.

Mayor Richard Laughter contends the valuation hike is due not only to inflation and skyrocketing construction costs, but also to the "increased desirability of living in Walnut."

"Three years ago when I came on the City Council you couldn't give a house away. Walnut is a more desirable place to live now with fine quality homes at reasonable prices compared to other areas," he said.

He lists the city's rural environment, quiet atmosphere and relatively uncongested streets and home layout as at her factors in increased home sales costs.

"The reassessment should balance out the inequities in home sales and valuation. Some homes were selling for $45,000 but were only assessed at $25,000," Laughter said.

School tax rate cut predicted

WALNUT — The $4.75 total tax rate in the Walnut school district should be reduced about $1.67 per $100 of assessed valuation as a result of a 14.04 per cent increase in the district's assessed wealth.

Figures released by the Los Angeles County Tax Assessor's Office places the district's assessed valuation at $43,871,625, 7 per cent higher than the increase budgeted for in a tentative 1973-74 school budget.

The $43.8 million figure does not include the assessment on public utilities, which is estimated at $3,495,680 and will bring in additional tax revenue.

District Business Manager George Hartnett said the exact tax cut has not been calculated yet but said it will be close to the $1.67 estimate.

Senate Bill 90, a state-wide tax relief law, prohibits school districts from reallocating additional or unexpected revenue from new valuation totals to other school expenditures. The savings must be given to taxpayers, Hartnett said.

School trustees have yet to approve a final 1973-74 budget because of continuing employe negotiations on salary increases.

Dave Berteaux selected

New principal named at Nogales High School

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dave Berteaux, presently dean of students at La Puente High School, has been named principal of Nogales High School in the Rowland Unified School District.

He will assume duties of that position on Monday.

Berteaux characterized Nogales as "a young La Puente." He said the two schools are similar in terms of student body and community make-up.

Berteaux taught at Nogales five years before going to La Puente. He said his primary effort as principal at Nogales will be aimed at involving the community in "a team effort."

He issued a call to residents to work with the staff "Advise us, help us," he said.

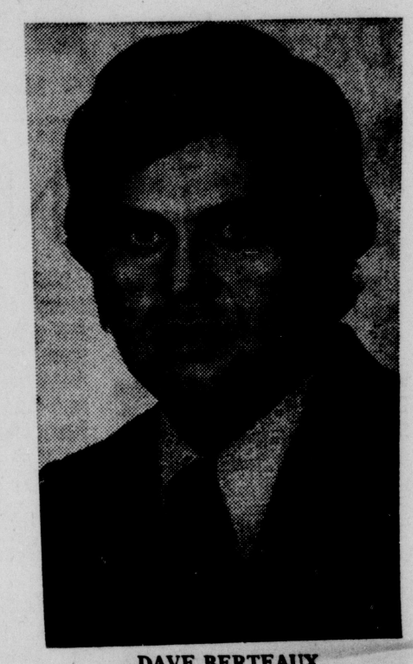
He resolved to make the school a "positive experience," and to provide all students with enough alternatives to keep them involved.

He said he cannot lose sight of the fact that students still have to function in society, and "unless a student's primary needs are met, it is like trying to learn on an empty stomach."

In addition to reading, writing and arithmetic, Berteaux said all students must be given exposure to vocational education and need some training in entry level job skills.

"This is true of both the career oriented and vocational student," he said.

While at La Puente High, Berteaux has had responsibility for disciplining



DAVE BERTEAUX

2,700 students and supervising 13 teachers.

Berteaux is a graduate of East Los Angeles College, Los Angeles Pacific College (now Azusa Pacific) and Cal State Fullerton. He holds the secondary and secondary administrative credentials.

He lives in Glendora with his wife, Rosemary, and two children.

Events scheduled for two months by Teen Center

DIAMOND BAR — Leaders of the Diamond Bar-Walnut Teen Center have scheduled five events this month and six during August for young people in the area.

Center director Ernestine Heard, a physical education graduate of Cal State Fullerton, said the teen-agers will make a camping trip to Barton Flats in the San Bernardino Mountains Sunday and Monday.

A dance is planned for 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. on July 20, and a party at Huntington Beach State Park on July 21.

Second dance

A second dance is scheduled the evening of July 27 followed by a trip to San Diego July 28.

The teen-agers will see "Godspell" at the Greek Theater in Hollywood on Aug. 2, dance again the evening of Aug. 3, and conduct a car wash on Aug. 4.

A fund-raising party is planned Aug. 7, followed by a train trip to San Clemente Aug. 11.

A fund-raising garage sale is planned Aug. 18.

Mrs. Heard said young people interested in participating in these activities may call 595-4774, or visit the center.

Housed at church

It is housed in the Diamond Bar Congregational Church at 2249 Morning Canyon Drive and is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 2 to 5:30 p.m. and Friday from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The intent of the center staff, Mrs. Heard said, is to provide a summer recreational program for teen-agers.

The program has been in operation since the summer of 1971 and has received wide community support.

Groups behind the center are the Congregational Church, the Pomona Valley YMCA, Diamond Bar Community Council, Diamond Bar Jaycees, Diamond Bar Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club, Sertoma Club, Castle Rock Community Club, Walnut Valley Kiwanis, Hills Women's Club, Diamond Point Women's Club, Walnut Valley Rotary Club, Diamond Bar Lions and the Y's Men.

Mrs. Heard said volunteers are needed at the center.

FAST SERVE

Registration for MSAC swim set for Saturday

WALNUT — Registration for the final two sessions of summer swim classes at Mt. San Antonio College will be held on Saturday and July 28 from 9 a.m. to noon at the pool.

One two-week session of lessons will begin on Monday and run to July 27. The final session will run from July 30 to Aug. 10. Classes are open for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate swimmers, and swimmers. The 10 half-hour sessions are $3.50 per person and are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and from 4 to 6 p.m. daily.

Adult swim lessons are offered Monday through Friday from 5 to 6 p.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. Eight one-hour lessons are included for the $4 fee.

Swimnastics for women is offered at 10 and 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Water exercise and workouts and recreational swimming are included in the lessons for a $4 fee.

Diving lessons for both men and women are also available during the two-week sessions. Ten one-hour lessons are included in the $5 fee.

Junior and senior life saving with 20 one-hour lessons for $6, Mommy and Me for young children and parent with 10 half-hour lessons for $3.50, and Swim and Stay Fit with five one-hour lessons for $1 a week are also offered in the summer swimming program.

NAACP honors two for social service

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dora Guzman, wife of Rowland trustee Louis Guzman, and Lillian Swerdlow, Title I nurse in the Rowland Unified School District, have been singled out by the San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to receive Community Service Awards for their work in the field of community social action.

Mrs. Swerdlow and Mrs. Guzman received engraved plaques at a recent awards dinner.

Foremost among the accomplishments of the two has been their work for the La Puente Valley Council of Social Services. Through their combined efforts as members of this organization, the city of La Puente now has the only pediatric ambulatory clinic provided as a part of county health services (outside the Watts area).

18-Years A Resident

A community resident for some 18 years, Mrs. Guzman indicated when she sees her neighbors in need of assistance, "I want to help." As a result of her concern, a grievance petition submitted to the late Supervisor Frank Bonelli stating the need for out-patient service and for more belingual staff in the La Puente Health Center has resulted in the establishment of the ambulatory clinic.

With both her son and daughter grown and married with families of their own, Mrs. Guzman explained her involvement in the community by saying, "What is there to do at home?"

Tom Hibbard, former health education director for La Puente, said, "Dora Guzman has been a key person in the effort to ensure medical care for people who need it, regardless of their ability to pay."

Mrs. Guzman is a member of the Rowland Title I Parent Advisory Committee since 1968; former member of the La Puente Police Community Relations Committee; chairman of the Outreach Clinic Task Force; adviser committee member for the El Centro de Asuntos Chicanos at Whittier College; member of the Los Angeles County Mental Health Task Force; and member of the ad hoc committee to establish the Mt. San Antonio College Educational Service Center in La Puente.

As a school nurse working in low income areas, Mrs. Swerdlow said she felt that her work with children would be "ineffective" so long as public health services were not improved.

Help Needed

"What's the sense of diagnosing a sick child, if you have no place to refer his parents for help," she said.

In her contacts with the home, Mrs. Swerdlow has also learned that, "a sick mother cannot be a good motner to her children." For these reason, and as a La Puente resident, Mrs. Swerdlow became involved in procuring outpatient treatment within the community for low income families.

Mrs. Swerdlow is a member of the Retarded Children Association's sheltered workshop program; board member of the La Puente Valley Council of Social Services; board member for South Branch YMCA; board member for the SGV Council for the retarded; and member planning committee for the SGV Department of Health Services.

5 per cent raise asked for school employes

WALNUT — Walnut school employes will receive a five per cent across-the-board salary hike and fully paid medical and dental benefits if school trustees follow the recommendations of Administrative Asst. Ray McMullen.

McMullen has represented the school board in more than seven months of salary negotiations with the Certificated Employes Council here. He is to recommend adoption of the five per cent figure and the additional medical and dental benefits at Monday's school board session.

McMullen will also recommend increasing employe's fringe benefit package to include fully paid medical and dental care for employes and their dependents.

Other recommendations agreed upon in the long negotiations between CEC representatives and McMullen include an increase from one half pay to three fourths pay for teachers on sabbatical leave and an additional 2.5 per cent pay hike if new money becomes available.

School employes only, not their dependents, are currently eligible for full medical coverage. There is no dental plan in the district.

The five per cent raise proposal is considerably lower than the 15 per cent raise teachers were seeking at the beginning of salary negotiations in March.

Woman's Club contributes $60

DIAMOND BAR — The Pomona school board has accepted with thanks a $60 check from the Diamond Bar Junior Woman's Club.

Club members, in making the gift, stipulated that the money be divided among Armstrong, Diamond Point and Golden Springs elementary schools for the purchase of books on nutrition.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, said the books would be ordered in September.

L.P. contractor's license revoked

LA PUENTE — The Contractor's State License Board, under the Department of Consumer Affairs, has revoked the contractor's license of the Cement Contracting Co. of 14843 Beckner Ave. here.

The contractor's license of William E. Orr, who owns and runs the company, was revoked effective March 14 for willful disregard of plans and specifications, failure to compiete a job in a good and workmanlike manner, and failure to complete a project for the price stated in the contract, according to the department.

Jones-Fennell rites read in West Covina

Mr. and Mrs. James Omar Jones are making their home in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Regina Fennell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Fennell of Pomona. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The single-ring rites were performed in West Covina.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jim C. Hednott, the bride wore an empire-styled, floor-length gown of peau de soie. Chantilly lace accented the gown which featured full-length sleeves of sheer silk with double cuffs.

Her veil of silk illusion was three-quarters length. A bouquet of yellow roses white daisies and baby's beath was carried by the bride.

Miss Rhonda Hudson was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine Fennell, Mrs. Dorothy Faye Brevard, Miss Kathy Hudson and Mrs. John Osley.

Flower girls were Sherrell Jones and Miski Robinson while Clarence Jones served as ring bearer.

Hugh Flemming Jr. was best man. Ushers were Donald McCoey, Harold Gordon, Ralph Clark, and Leon Semlin.

A reception followed the rites.

TODAY'S

Women

Women's club to hear actor John Grant

Former actor John Grant will speak at the luncheon meeting of the Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club on July 19 at Trinity United Methodist Church, Pomona.

Mr. Grant served in the Royal Air Force and entertained troops in India, Burma and Ceylon. After five years in the service he began a theatrical career and his roles included the lead in "Annie Get Your Gun." Mr. Grant is now an evangelist and gospel singer and has preached in such areas as the British Isles, Europe, South Africa, Canada and the United States.

"Have Bag, Will Travel" will be the luncheon's theme. American Airline personnel will speak at the meeting on the topic, "Pack A Bag," giving the audience tips on packing luggage for traveling.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling 984-3496 or 984-5590. Child care is provided at the church.

Picnic set by Methodist unit Tuesday

The newly organized United Methodist Women of Trinity United Methodist Church have scheduled a picnic at Palomares Adobe at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. William Williams, president, has announced that each person attending should bring table service, beverage and either a main dish, salad or dessert.

There will be child care and supervision at the park playground during the tour of the adobe after the luncheon.

Lengthen lashes

To lengthen and add body to lashes try applying a little powder to them first. The powder provides base that helps the mascara cling. Three applications over the powder will make your lashes look incredibly long and full.

Ask Dr. Brothers

No helping hand

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Last week, I was coming away from my garage with a bag full of groceries when I fell down, sprained my wrist and broke my ankle. What hurt me more than my physical injuries was the fact that no one came to my assistance even though I have lived in this area for many years. It was just after dusk when I fell so that it's possible, I suppose, that some people didn't see me clearly or didn't realize my condition, but still I watched four different people pass within hearing distance of my cries for help.

I'm 68 and hardly the type of woman who is going to mug someone. It depresses me to think that people care so little about the suffering of others. I was not raised in this way and I find a world where no one cares very difficult to live in.—A.D.

Dear A.D.: Don't give upon the human race yet. There are many factors involved in helping a person in need other than simple caring. In your case, the time of night may have been important. Because it was "just after dusk," it may have been that passersby were unable to see you so they could not know the extent of your need or anything else about you, except possibly your sex, which they might tell from your voice.

It is unfortunate that many people today are so afraid of being hurt themselves that they will not venture forth to extend help unless they are certain exactly what the situation really is.

According to a study conducted by psychologists Russell Clark III and Larry Word, it is not apathy that prevents people from coming to the resuce, but indecision. While bystanders are deciding whether they are witnessing a true emergency each one tends to stand around doing nothing, or to move on. In other words, each looks to the others for guidance. This mass hesitation, the psychologists report, is seen by each individual as lack of concern, and therefore no one thinks the situation is serious. Individuals, free of crowd influence, are likely to act if they are sure there is an emergency.

The clearer the situation is to the onlooker, the more apt he, or she, is to help. Happy people are more apt to be helpful than those who've just had an argument with their boss or their spouse. People are also more apt to assist someone in need if they are not under pressure themselves to be someplace at a certain time, or to perform some particular duty.

Pshychologist John Darley tested several people in an attempt to discover their true atitudes about helping others. He reported that people basically want to help others in need because it makes them feel good. The reward a person gets for doing a good turn must come from within himself, because there is very little chance he will be rewarded by society.

In fact, it may be important for you to consider that unfortunately all too often the average person who stops to help someone may find himself the object of a law suit.

Despite all the problems, the roots of altruistic behavior go very deep and people still find it rewarding to help others. Chalk up your bad experience to fear in others or the possibility that they may not have understood your particular need for help, and give the world, and people in your neighborhood, a second chance.

December wedding planned

Miss Cynthia Jeanne Torrez and Arthur Ray Gode have set Dec. 22 as the date for their marriage.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joe Torrez of Montclair, the bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of Montclair High School.

CYNTHIA TORREZ

Mr. Gode is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene G. Gode of La Verne. A 1971 graduate of Bonita High School, he is serving with the Seabees in the Navy and is stationed at Norfolk, Va.

New break proposed

NEW YORK (UPI) — As every office worker knows, the coffee break keeps one from becoming a victim of malnutrition between breakfast and lunch—or between lunch and dinner.

Eating during the morning and afternoon coffee break may keep starvation away but it doesn't do much for the improvement of personal relationships and-or communication in an office. When you're munching doughnuts and gulping coffee it doesn't leave much time for chatter, see?

Office chatter, it turns out, is mightily necessary in any office desiring a minimum of problems stemming from poor communication.

What the offices of America may need, then, are chatter breaks. In addition to coffee breaks and the other break recommended recently — exercise breaks.

(If we have many more "breaks" someone's bound to come up with a revolutionary idea—"work breaks" between the other breaks)

The suggestion for a chatter break is based on observations by Dr. Jerry Suls, assistant professor of psychology at Georgetown University.

"Poor communication at work is often a result of not knowing fellow workers," says he. "Office chatter really matters.

"We are forced to interact daily with people we don't really know and good communication under these conditions is almost impossible.

"Without good communication, not only does productivity decrease but a whole system can grind to a halt. This often happens at work."

What would you talk about during a chatter break? To improve communication, Dr. Suls suggests:

—Get to know little things about fellow workers. Where do they live, how do they get to work, what is their favorite dessert.

—Make a conscious effort to understand what others are saying. Half of good communication is good listening.

The traditional place for office chatter is around the water cooler...only don't all of you gather at once. If the chairman of the board strolls into the office there should be at least an appearance of some work going on.

The suggestion for exercise breaks in the office came from authorities in physical fitness. That particular idea doesn't seem to have taken hold.

I have yet to see one person in my office stretching out on the carpeted floor once in the morning, once in the afternoon, doing a dozen sit-ups, as suggested.

Maybe it's just as well. I'm sure the chairman of our board, seeing such a sight, would consider it unbusinesslike.

Now if we could get the various chairmen of the boards to join chatter breaks maybe we could explain some of these breaks to them and improve communication.

MRS. RICHARD LIGTENBERG

Ligtenberg-Eleveld vows are exchanged

Miss Janny M. Eleveld exchanged wedding vows with Richard J. Ligtenberg in an afternoon ceremony at the Christian Reformed Church in Chino.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eleveld of Montclair was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ligtenberg of Upland.

For her marriage, the bride selected an empire gown of organza and venise lace which outlined the oval neckline, bishop sleeves and skirt. Her cathedral-length veil was trimmed with matching lace and attached to a Camelot headpiece.

A bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and white roses was carried by the bride.

A sister of the bride, Mrs. Johanne Groves, was matron of honor while another sister, Mrs. Maria Los, was bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Marjorie Clarkson and Miss Joan Ligtenberg, sister of the groom.

Yvonne Deleeuw was flower girl.

Serving as ushers were Terry Van Hofwegen, Bart Eleveld and John Los while Mark Ligtenberg was best man.

A reception in the church social hall followed the ceremony.

After a six-week trip to British Columbia and Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Ligtenberg will reside in Upland.

Vander Schaaf-DeBie wedding vows recited

The Rev. Louis Dykstra officiated at the marriage ceremony of Miss Carol DeBie and Albert Vander Schaff in the Chino Christian Reformed Church.

MRS. ALBERT VANDER SCHAAF

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrain DeBie of Ontario, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vander Schaaf of Ontario.

A gown of nylon organza with bishop sleeves and a ribboned empire bodice was worn by the bride. It was trimmed with sequins and chantilly lace. Maching lace outlined the mantilla veil of silk illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Debbie DeBie was maid of honor and Mrs. Sharon Wilber was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Helen Hubbard, Miss Corrie Vander Schaaf and Miss Lorri Frings, junior bridesmaid.

Stacey DeBie was flower girl and Jon DeBie was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Dick Vander Schaaf. Groomsmen were Jim Bakker, Dave Vander Schaaf, Tony Veiga and Robert Crossland. Ushers were John DeBie and Butch DeBie.

The newlyweds greeted guests during a reception at the Ontario Christian High School gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Vander Schaff will reside in Ontario after a honeymoon in northern California.

Man scorned

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thomas Beddoes, a 19th centry English poet, wrote of man's destruction of the environment:

Nature's polluted.
There's man in every secret corne of her doing damned wicked deeds.
Thou art, old world.
A hoary, atheistic, murdering star.

Gasoline shortages not slowing Vegas tourists

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A telephone survey of major Las Vegas "strip" hotels indicated that the gasoline shortage was not slowing the tourist trade in southern Nevada, which hits the 16 million mark annually.

Hotels reported rooms were 100 per cent booked for weekend trade and more than 90 per cent filled during the week.

A spokesman for the hotel industry said the Fourth of July, even though the holiday fell in the middle of the week, was a sell out at major "strip" hotels and motels and downtown resorts.

A spot survey of customers at "Camperland" at the Stardust Hotel showed spaces were 100 per cent full. "Camperland" now has 150 spaces for campers and trailers and 250 more are under construction. At the same time, the Hacienda Hotel is building "Travelworld," which will accommodate 486 trailers and campers. The "strip" hotel accommodations for campers and trailers is something new on the Las Vegas "Strip".

He's 1st 'lander' at new airport

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — U. S. Secretary of Transporatation Claude S. Brinegar was the principal passenger on the first plane to land at the mammoth Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Brinegar toured the facilies May 17 five months before the projected Oct. 1 opening date for the regional airport that is approximately the size of Manhattan.

RTD planning improvements

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Southern California Rapid Transit District has announced improvements in its San Gabriel Valley-Los Angeles busway system, designed to lure downtown commuters out of their automobiles.

The system, a series of freeway lanes reserved exclusively for commuter buses, will now include three feeder routes connecting San Gabriel Valley communities with the buses on the San Bernardino Freeway.

At the other end of the line, the express buses will now be routed directly to one of three downtown areas: the high-rise financial district at the western edge of downtown, the Occidental Center, and the mid-Wilshire area as far west as Western Avenue.

RTD also announced a new $25-a-month commuter pass, good for an unlimited number of trips each month between the San Gabriel Valley and downtown Los Angeles.

The doctor comments

Many things change thickness of blood

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, MD.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you'll answer my question and end a debate. Now I'd like to know if, in the summer, the blood gets thinner and, in the winter months, it gets thicker. I've always believed that the above was true.

Dear Reader — The thickness of the blood fluctuates for many reasons. Normally about 45 to 50 per cent of the blood is blood cells, and the rest is fluid, or plasma. If you get dehydrated, for example, on exposure to heat with loss of salt and water, the ratio of blood cells to liquid plasma changes because you lose water from the bloodstream, just as you do from the rest of the body. Even bed rest affects the blood. A person who remains at bed rest without being upright at all over a period of 48 hours will lose about a pint of fluid from his total blood volume, causing the blood to thicken. Thus, attributing changes of thickness or thinness of the blood to seasons isn't very reliable.

Many individuals used to take a "blood tonic" to thin the blood come springtime. A popular one of these was sassafrass tea, which had absolutely no effect on thinning the blood.

For normal healthy people there is no advantage to thinning the blood. Rare individuals have an increased production of red blood cells because of a specific disease, and sometimes these people need to be bled to remove excess red blood cells.

Thinning of the blood is also confused with the use of agents to keep the blood from clotting. These agents do not thin the blood in the sense that they create more plasma or fluid in relationship to the number of cells in the blood. What they really do is affect the clotting mechanisms so that the blood clots more slowly.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband heard that if anyone drank over five cups of coffee a day he would have hardening of the arteries. Is this true?

Dear Reader — There was a report in Lancet, a British medical journal, about the increased likelihood of having heart attacks in individuals who drank over five cups of coffee a day. Incidentally, this is not the first time that this suggestion has been made. It was made a number of years ago by a Dr. Paul in Chicago.

Most heart specialists agree that even small amounts of coffee, and particularly if one is drinking five cups a day or more, will cause some people to have skipped beats or irregularities of the heart. This could be a factor in causing serious irregularities with a heart attack that could be fatal. Much o fthe care during a heart attack is directed toward preventing serious irregularities.

Coffee can increase the resting heart rate of healthy individuals. There is a great deal of individual variability in this, but in some people it can increase their resting heart rate from 10 to 20 beats per minute.

Most of the problems that have been attributed to coffee can be obviated simply by using a decaffeinated product. This isn't 100 per cent true, because there are some people whose digestive system cannot tolerate the coffee oils that are essential for its flavor. But, as far as the heart and vascular problems are concerned, the effects of caffeine on the heart can be eliminated almost entirely by using available commercial decaffeinated products.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's new booklet on hiatal hernia, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Hiatal Hernia" booklet.

Pot equal to tobacco smoking among students

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI — High school students now smoke about as much marijuana as they do tobacco, according to a survey used annually as a gauge of student drug use in the United States.

The sixth annual San Mateo County surveillance of student drug use, released earlier this week, said from grades 10 to 12 "marijuana is more commonly reported at every usage level than tobacco."

The survey was compiled from 30,000 returned forms that asked each student anonymously for the level of use for alcohol, amphetamines, barbiturates, heroin, LSD, marijuana and tobacco.

Tobacco use among females was just slightly higher than males in all but the seventh grade level, the lowest surveyed. In the senior level, 32 per cent of females said they smoked cigarettes heavily, compared to 30 per cent of males.

In marijuana use, over half the males from ninth grade upward said they tried it, and 32 per cent of the seniors said they smoked marijuana heavily. Female use was lower, with 20.4 per cent reporting heavy use.

The report said tobacco use has begun climbing again after dropping off in previous years. Alcohol use continued an upward trend with male and female drinkers about even.

In the seventh grade, 72.8 per cent of males said they used alcohol at least once and 10.5 per cent reported using it 50 or more times. For seventh grade females, 67.2 per cent said they tried alcohol and 8 per cent said they used it 50 or more times.

Use of barbiturates and amphetamines indicated a downward trend with only small percentages of all grade levels trying the pills.

Trends toward heavy use of LSD appeared to be lighter, but more persons indicated trying it "once or twice," the surveyors said.

Heroin use remained about the same as last year. Less than 1 per cent of all grade levels showed any heavy use of heroin.

Dad tells daughter all his work woes

Dear Ele: I was wondering how to handle this problem with my father. He has gotten into the habit of telling me all of his work problems when he comes home, and having us talk about them in his den with the door closed. I don't mind this, but I think my mother is getting to feel like an outsider and possibly resenting me for it. I am not trying to compete with her or do anything Freudian, but the truth is that my dad would rather talk with me than Mom. — Psychology student.

Dear Student: I've three suggestions: (1) Might you widen your raps to three-person sharings by saying, "Dad, I think Mom is feeling sort of left out, and anyhow I'd like her opinion on the possibility of your job change," and then carry your conversation into the kitchen? (2) If Dad resists that, can you find a creative way to translate Dad's most pressing concerns to Mom, so that she'll be primed to ask the right leading questions and thus encourage his sharing? (3) Finally if you feel their sharing is really blighted, can you secure the names of several able marriage counselors, and urge Mom and Dad to make use of objective help to improve communication between them? — Ele

Dear Walt: If you are walking somewhere and find something of value and your friend is with you but doesn't see it until after you do, does he have a right to say it's half his? — James

Dear James: In a word — no. But if it means terminating a friendship if you take a hard line on this, just establish once and for all that if the two of you are together when something is found, the split will be 50-50, 25-75 or whatever. Then proceed to divide up your recent find by the agreed percentages. — Walt

Dear Ele and Walt: I wrote this boy a letter telling him how much I admired him in a recent crisis. We had never spoken much before then, but now he goes out of his way not to look at me or to be in the same room when I'm there. I did not get mushy. What's up? — Paula

Dear Paula: Either he feels "courted" and doesn't know how to respond, or he feels uneasy in a "hero" role he judges to be undeserved. Let another two weeks slide by, and then go up and say "hi" directly to the lad. Rap a few minutes and then have a good reason to leave.

Repeat these brief "hi" and "gotta run" scenes several times and hel'll know you're not clinging to him, or in awe of his heroics.

Unless he actually doesn't enjoy your company that should melt his freeze. — Ele and Walt.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Each year millions of Americans are struck by bursts of light traveling 186,000 miles per second, and it usually leaves them smiling.

The flashes are artificial light sources for picture taking. The research department of Honeywell Photographic Products, which pioneered development of electronic flash in this country, says each time a picture-taker utilizes an electronic flash he's hitting the subject with a burst of light that travels the same speed as lightning but with just enough energy to make an impression on film.

Mexican rodeo slated at Sports Arena

LOS ANGELES — The National Mexican Festival and Rodeo, starring the entertainment family of Tony, Flor, Tonito and Pepito Aguilar, will be presented at the Los Angeles Sports Arena July 27-29.

Show times are July 27 and 28 at 8:30 p.m, July 29 at 6:30 p.m., and July 28 and 29 at 2:30 p.m.

New, spectacular acts are contained in the latest edition. The Warvel Family from Texas will make its Los Angeles debut with Roman riding routines and comic acts, as will the Loera Rojas Family, Latin America's trick ropers. Aguilar's clowining Portuguese horse, El Rebelde, will be featured.

AFTER 25 YEARS — Duane Thomas as Tevye the dairyman and Vi Valencia as Golde, his wife, sing the tender "Do You Love Me?" in the Gallery Theater production of "Fiddler on the Roof." The musical comedy plays at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario, at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Reservations can be made at 982-5357.

Music fete sets varied programs

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Music Festival at Pomona College has programmed a wide variety of musical styles for three concerts July 20, 22 and 23.

The concerts are held in Bridges Hall of Music at 8:15 p.m.

Next Friday international concert and recording artist Barry Tuckwell will be soloist on the French horn with the Festival Orchestra conducted by Giora Bernstein, in Weber's Concertino for Horn in E Minor, Op. 45. Also on the program will be Mozart's Serenade in B flat for 13 winds, K.361 (1718) and Pampeana No. 3, by Argentine composer Ginastera.

On July 22 violinist Charles Libove and pianist Nina Lugovoy will present a recital to benefit the festival's scholarship fund. The program of sonatas includes Sonata No. 2 in A Major, Op. 100 by Brahms (1886); Bartok's Sonat No. 2 (1922); and Beethoven's Kreutzer Sonata in A Major, Op. 47. Donations will help to provide tuition free attendance at the festival, a six-week workshop in chamber music, which will continue through Aug. 4.

Flack, Steinberg set at Amphitheater

UNIVERSAL CITY —Singer Roberta Flack and comic David Steinberg will share the stage of Universal Studios' Amphitheater Monday through July 22.

Miss Flack, in two years, has gone from a musical cult figure in Washington, D.C to star female singer. Her voice, with its soulful and moving delivery, projected her rise as a force in contemporary music.

Steinberg has also become an established and prominent part of the American scene. He started his career in chicago as a member of the famous Second City, the springboard for such prominent aritists as Mike Nichols, Elaine May, Barbara Harris, Alan Arkin and Paul Sand.

He is a popular and sought-after mighttime talk show guest host, having hosted all of the top shows

LONDON (UPI) — There are up to 2 million cars on Britain's crowded roads with defective tires, the Automobile Association reports. It warned that tires which do not meet legal standards risk peoples' lives, raise the threat of fines and endanger insurance on the cars.

ROMAN BEAUTIES—Bill Himebaugh auctions off two pretty "slave girls," twins Paula, left, and Pamela Graefe, as John Urwin looks on in a scene from "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The musical comedy of Roman days will be presented by the St. Paul's Players at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Pomona, at 8 o'clock tonight and at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday and next weekend. Tickets at $2 for adults, $1.50 for students under 16, will be on sale at the door.

Taste in television

Ad-libs harm newscasts

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The trend toward informality in many television newscasts has its positive points, but among its negative aspects is a major new menace to good taste: Inappropriate, chatty transitions between certain stories.

I suspect that viewers around the nation are cringing more and more lately when newscasters, trying hard to fit in with the informal trend, struggle painfully to make tactful, natural transitions between serious stories and light ones, upbeat reports and sad ones.

To the public eye, people like the various anchormen or sports and weather reporters are the immediate objects of scrutiny, and some of them have survived well their tests in the informal setups. But many have not, and in most cases it is the format imposed on them, and not the reporters themselves, deserving of blame. For reporters are not trained to be jokesters, or to specialize in wisecracks that can raise video ratings so stations can charge higher advertising rates for deodorant commercials.

But I don't know any more. The way things are going, the television curriculum in college journalism departments may soon be offering courses in "Gags I," "Gags II" and "Advanced Gags." There is no question that many fine video newspeople resent the burden of on-the-air small talk imposed on them. In their nightmares, they may dream of why, along with reporting, they didn't also study Joe Miller's Joke Book, hair teasing, the history and impact of sideburns, voice modulation, sincerity, clothing fashions, wigs and teethcapping.

Well, it's a hard life, but some television executives have made it a lot harder for news broadcasters by going all the way with the informal format when not everyone is equipped to handle it. And the reason they are not is that a successful format of this type relies in great part on two requisites: That the people carrying it off are truly witty ad-libbers and, furthermore, that they are naturally sparkling conversationalists in general.

It is no crime that a number of newscasters are simply not notable in both these respects, or sometimes even in either. After all, the art of ad-libbing has eluded many of our most talented show business performers. On a high level, this art, like the ability to make sparkling conversation, is among the rarest gifts. It is not exactly likely to turn up too often on your friendly local newscast, and it is a frequently harrowing experience to watch people try to pull it off day after day.

The boor on tour

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Recently returned from a 3,000-mile tour of the redwood country and coast of the great Northwest, a scenic three-week view of the rear doors of 3,000 camper trucks.

Where do all these vans and campers and house trailers come from? They must breed at night in the campgrounds and trailer parks. There are always more next day.

Where do all these vans and campers and house trailers come from? They must breed at night in the campgrounds and trailerparks.There are always morenext day.

Travel by car is very educational. I learned that the speed limit in San Jose is 35, that the motto of the state parks is "A Land of Many Uses," and that when a gas gauge registers empty it generally means it. I learned not to challenge speeding trucks freighted with huge redwood logs and never to say to your wife, "Shutup, dear," when she tells you you took the wrong turn. All very broadening.

I discovered that the Golden Gate Bridge is now toll free, that you can drive through Albion, Calif. without noticing it, and that motels all have 25-watt bulbs in their bedside lamps. I found that the first thing wives say when you start off each morning is, "What's that funny little ping?", that foghorns now give a computer programmed electronic "Beep!" and that there are no liquor stores in Salem, Ore. Facts to remember—if I should ever go back to Salem, upon which eventuality a knowledgeable gambler would give only the shortest odds.

Our trip northward was uneventful except for taking a wrong turn in Portland, Ore. and suddenly finding ourselves part of the annual Portland Rose Parade.

As our battered sedan moved along between the Klamath Falls High School Marching Band and a rather disgusting float depicting the Oregon dairy industry, the crowds cheered and I smiled and waved graciously until a motorcycle policeman shooed us off into a by-street. The throngs, I presume, took me for one of the astronauts—thought my wife was Martha Mitchell. Fame is fleeting.

Crossing to Vancouver (the island) and spending a couple of days in Victoria (the city), we found that corner of Nelson Eddy country just as dull as the United States. Back in the United States I bought a Canadian blanket, a bottle of Canadian whisky, and a small, hand-carved Canadian totem pole. At last I had my coveted souvenirs (I still have the blanket and the totem pole).

The trip back down from Anacortes, Wash., to the Land of a Thousand Smokes was instant replay of the trip up, except that I went 35 miles per hour through San Jose.

All in all, a three-week motor tour of Northwestern United States and a brief visit to our friendly neighbor to the north make an interesting vacation that I wouldn't wish on anyone I was really fond of.

Importance of your 1st bid

By OSWALD & James Jacoby

A reader asks, "Why is your choice of your first bid important?"

The answer is that if you make a wrong bid you may never be able to correct it.

North's spade bid illustrates this. He had enough high cards and the right hand to double the club opening. Instead he elected to overcall one spade.

	NORTH	13
	♠ A K J 9 4
	♥ Q J 8 4
	♦ K 10 6
	♣ K
WEST (D)		EAST
♠ 6 2		♠ 10 7 5 3
♥ A 6		♥ 7 5 3
♦ A 8		♦ 9 5 4 3 2

	♦ Q J 7
	♣ 10 8 5 3

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
1♣	1♠	Pass	1N.T.
Dble	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♣A

South's no-trump was sort of a general response. He thought he had too much to pass.

West's double was primarily for business. North was happy to leave it in. East was unhappy and South reasonably content.

West's ace of clubs lead was eminently correct. Had he led the queen or jack South would have made two overtricks. As it was, the best South would have made two overtricks. As it was, the best South could do was take the fourth club lead and cash five spades for down one.

Had North doubled, South would have bid hearts. West would have bid more clubs and eventually South would have played in three or four hearts, making four.

In either case a lot better than losing 200 points at one no-trump.

Contradictions exist concerning vitamins

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: After reading your column for years, I have yet to figure our where you stand on vitamins. You don't seem consistent. Sometimes you say how good vitamins are for some things and other times you say buying vitamins is a waste of money. (Please) clarify your position on what, to me, is an important subject. Thank you. — I.T.

Dear I.T.: Apparent contradictions do exist regarding the subject, here and elsewhere. For more knowledge is needed before we can infallibly recommend or prescribe vitamins for any species. The normal daily requirements, for example, are predicated upon a "normal" animal. The problem is to determine which animal is "normal." Two apparently similar animals may have vastly different nutritional requirements (including vitamin requirements) which may vary drastically even where the environment and nutritional intake is apparently similar.

Often their environmental exposure IS different but only appears similar superficially. For example, one may live near a freeway and be exposed to twice as much air pollution. One may be receiving a different type of mineral intake from hard drinking water. Still another may be exposed to more stress because of a "hypered" home life. Genetic differences, too, are important.

These factors and others constantly intertwine to cause confusion. Consequently, while the recommended vitamin requirements may be adequate in most cases, in some animals they are never adequate; in others stress conditions of many kinds, render such requirements inadequate. Routine vitamin supplementation may be a waste of money most of the time for some animals — but even they may benefit occasionally. The catch is it may be difficult or even impossible to tell when some of those occasins arise. Under certain conditions, doubling or even tripling the normal requirements of a specific vitamin may still provide inadequate body levels. Other times, tripling the dosage of some vitamin could hurt the animal rather than help it. The "standard, commercial, complete" vitamin product can be safely given at recommended levels to almost all pet species.

Chamber, visitor bureau funds OK

CLAREMONT — The City Council has agreed to pay the Claremont Chamber of Commerce $9,500 and the Claremont Visitors and Convention Bureau $17,500 for services during the 1973-74 year.

The council approved a budget of $19,550 for the bureau and $24,350 for the chamber.

Chamber Manager Alex Turner explained that $12,000 was for convention bureau salaries, including $7,500 for a director, who has not been hired yet; $750 for a typewriter and projector equipment and $1,250 for promotions.

He said the equivalent of two cents of the city's bed tax seven-cent per $1 was the "bedrock on which the convention bureau was formed."

"You get what you pay for. If you are going to have an aggressive program, you must have the tools with which to work," he commented.

Turner explained that 30 per cent of his time and 30 per cent of secretary Karen Hooper's time the past year went to the bureau.

Mayor Craig McManigal said that the long-range goal of the city was to reduce the $10,000 which it pays to the chamber agreed to lower the self-sufficient.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald said she thought that last year the council and chamber sgreed to lower the base price each year, even "if it is a very small amount."

"We have a responsibility in that regard," she said.

She was joined by Councilwoman Bertye Smith who said that "if we retained the flat $10,000 I would be reticent in okaying $17,500 for the convention bureau."

Turner told the council that "anything we say will sound like special pleading tonight. I would be happy to share the budget with you."

After Mrs. McDonald suggested the possibility of holding the matter over for two more weeks, calling it "a vital issue—Turner asked the council for a decision Tueaday night.

After the council had received copies of the budgets, members asked Turner questions, and he reassured them he was not the director of the covention bureau.

Councilman Gene Block proposed giving the chamber $9,500 in quarterly payments, noting that the decrease from $10,000 "will catch their attention and show that the council is serious."

"We want to work faster towards zero dollars" commented Mrs. McDonald. "This $500 decrease is not precedent-setting."

Electronics industry shows resurgence

NEW YORK (UPI)—After a slowdown in the late 1960s, the electronics industry has been showing a healthy resurgence in this decade, according to a leading components marketer.

Federal research and development funding of electronics programs in particular have shown an upward trend during the 1971-73 period, said Howard Rothenstein, president of Miconics Industries, Inc. of Long Island City, N.Y. He said government funds for applied research are expected to reach an all-time high of $4.7 billion this year.

Battle of division leaders

Here come the Cubbies

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — For Andy Messersmith, the formula for success is take it easy rather than bear down.

After shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 in an hour and 56 minutes Thursday night at Dodger Stadium, Messersmith revealed that he had been concentrating on not throwing as hard.

"I thought my fastball was better tonight. I was trying to hold it down to about 85 per cent of what I've been throwing," he said.

"I think I've been throwing too hard," he continued. "It's like a golf swing. Anytime you try to overpower something it doesn't work. I went and worked with Red (Adams, Dodger pitching coach) a couple of days ago and I told him I was going to try and slow things down. I did and my fastball seemed more alive."

Messersmith theorized that not throwing as hard kept him relaxed and helped other aspects of his game.

"I think I even fielded better because I put less effort in my pitching and I was loose and relaxed out there," he said.

It was the Messersmith the Dodgers had been expecting to see all season. Andy struck out seven and didn't issue a single pass. Of his 119 pitches, 82 were strikes and he had only one three-ball count. The seven hits were scattered. The only inning in which the Cardinals got two hits was the fifth.

Now if Andy's past history repeats itself and he runs true to form from here on in, the Dodgers are in excellent shape.

In five years with the Angels, Messersmith compiled a 41-18 record, a percentage of nearly .700, in the last half of the seasons.

"Don't ask me why," he said. "But I've always been a strong second half pitcher."

The win brought Messersmith's record to 8-6 and it increased the Dodger lead over idle Cincinnati to six games.

Tonight the Dodgers open a three game series against the Eastern Division leading Chicago Cubs. The Cubs' entourage includes 25 players, 16 player's wives, and 13 children.

The Cubbies have been in a slump. But manager Whitey Lockman refuses to put the blame on the experiment of bringing the families along. He attibutes it simply to a lack of hitting.

If healthy, Ferguson Jenkins (9-6) will match pitches tonight with Tommy John (8-4). Burt Hooton (of knuckle curve fame) will put his 8-7 record against Al Downing's 6-4 mark in Saturday's 7 p.m. game. Sunday the Dodgers wind up the current home stand. The scheduled pitchers in the 2 p.m. game are Rick Reuschel (10-5) and Claude Osteen (also 10-5).

The three games with the Cubs constitute Helmet Weekend. Helmets will be given to all youngsters 14 and under at each of the three games.

The Dodgers are 3-3 against the Cubs so far, taking two out of three at Wrigley Field and dropping two of three at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers maintained their mastery over St Louis. The Cardinals had won 24 and lost 15 since the end of May going into the Dodger series. But the resurgent Angelenos cooled them off by taking two games out of three and running their season record against the Cardinals to 6-2 including 5-1 at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers picked up a run in the first on Manny Mota's triple and Willie Davis' single. It was the first of four straight singles for the Dodger Captain and raised his average over the .300 mark to a neat .304.

Bill Buckner, who was dropped to the eighth spot in the batting order against left-handed Rich Folkers (2-1), lined a shot down the foul line into the right field stands in the fourth inning for his fourth homer and the Dodgers second run.

The other pair of runs were insurance measures which came on a walk to Joe Ferguson, singles by Steve Garvey and Buckner, and an error by Cardinal shortstop Mike Tyson in the ninth.

Bring on the Cubs!

Pomona College hosts Davidson

Davidson College's basketball team will be busy practicing at Pomona College's Memorial Gym.

No, coach Les Nagler's Sagehens won't have to play the Wildcats, who are the perennial kings of the Southern Conference.

The visitors from North Carolina are stopping in Claremont for a few days beginning on July 23 to train for an August tour of Australia.

Davidson is an unique college. It is the smallest institution of higher learning in the United States playing big-time basketball with only 1,150 students.

It also is a college with plenty of academic tradtion. Among its list of distinguished alumni are Woodrow Wilson and Dean Rusk.

Davidson, coached by Terry Holland, will be assembling at Pomona College for its 20-game tour of Australia. It should be interesting having them as guests in the valley.

The Denver Broncos will be opening their second training camp at Cal Poly next week with coach John Ralston greeting an initial group of 54 players Tuesday night with the rest reporting a week from Sunday.

Denver will be drilling at Poly through the morning of August 9 when it breaks camp for the exhibition opener at Washington, D.C.

After last year's upset win over the Rams, there stould be more interest in the Broncos this year as Ralston, the former Stanford miracle man, has them on the right track towards the first winning season in Denver's history.

Ralston plans to scrimmage the Rams and Dallas Cowboys during the three weeks in Pomona with hopes of having at least one of them here.

Cal Poly baseball coach John Scolinos is facing a problem.

Despite his many successes which includes more than 600 career victories, Scolinos can see how difficult it is getting just to maintain Poly's present baseball level.

The other members of the California Collegiate Athletic Association plus the independents are getting more money and are directing more energy towards recruiting baseball talent.

Scolinos has always believed in giving everybody a chance but it is becoming more difficult to recruit top talent.

Like the other Poly coaches, Scolinos has been asked to help himself financially.

In an effort to raise money for baseball, Scolinos is exploring the idea of conducting a baseball clinic next spring together with a pancake breakfast. Youngsters in the Pomona Valley would benefit from top instruction from one of America's outstanding coaches and Poly would benefit from a closer relationship with the community.

With the new lights at Ralph Welch-Park and the outstanding facilities at both Poly and La Verne College, a series between the valley neighbors would be a top gate attraction.

In an effort to get something going, Scolinos is willing to play La Verne on Feb. 26, 27 or May 7. Now it is up to Ben Hines to answer that challenge but the La Verne coach may have problems finding an open date because of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) schedule restrictions.

News from Cal State Fullerton tells us ex-Angel second baseman Bobby Knoop has joined the Titans as the assistant baseball coach. Apparently Fullerton has also recruited Jim Bogdanowicz, Mt. San Antonio College's outstanding basketball player.

LOOKING FOR A CHANCE

Sonny Sixkiller, former star quarterback of the Washington Huskies, will get the chance to show his wares when the Rams scrimmage the Cowboys Saturday at Thousand Oaks.

Miller passes Weiskopf

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Johnny Miller, displaying the form that won him the U.S. title at Oakmont last month, birdied four of the first nine holes Friday to take a two stroke lead in the British Open golf championship after 45 holes.

Miller, who started the day three strokes behind Tom Weiskopf, turned in a four under 32 to lead Weiskopf and Bert Yancey, who was tied with him at 138 after the second round, by two strokes. Miller had birdies at the third, sixth, seventh and eighth holes.

Weiskopf, who bogeyed two of the first three holes got back into the lead briefly when he strung together three birdies between the fifth and eighth, but a double bogey six on the ninth saw Miller surge ahead.

Yancey also started badly when he bogied the first, but birdies at the second and third left him only one stroke off the pace.

Tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, who was another stroke back at the start of the day, birdied the par four, 391-yard second hole when he canned a 12-footer to join Miller in a tie for third.

The rain turned the greens on Troon's 7,064-yard par 72 old course into soggy carpets.

Lee Trevino, the defending champion who was seeking his third consecutive British Open title, had putting troubles and finished with a 73 and a 54-hole score of 221—five over par.

Arnold Palmer, aided by some exceptional iron play, shot three birdies on the back nine for a 70 and led the early finishers with a two-over-par 218.

Nicklaus said he planned to take up the challenge as he bid for an all-time record 14th major championship.

At the conclusion of the second round, he said "I have to play better golf than I have in the last two days." He went out with a determined air to take command.

Weiskopf bogeyed for the second time on the third and his lead had evaporated. Miller, playing with Weiskopf, birdied the third with a three to go into a three-way tie for the lead with Weiskopf and Yancey at seven-under-par.

Nicklaus took a six at the par five fourth hole to drop two strokes behind at five-under-par.

Weiskopf regained the lead when he drove 210 yards onto the fifth green and one-putted for a birdie two to go eight under again.

Nicklaus was in trouble again at the sixth. He hit his iron shot into the rough behind the green and bogeyed for a six to drop to four under.

Christy O'Connor, the veteran Irish pro and the only man in a position to challenge the four leading Americans, sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie at the fifth to join Nicklaus at four under.

Angels' rally saves Singer in Tiger loss

DETROIT (UPI) — The California Angels this season have scored most of their runs for Bill Singer, but Thursday night he didn't give them much of a chance.

Singer was only around to face two batters in the second inning as the California starter gave up four hits and three runs in his brief appearance against the Detroit Tigers, which went on to a 7-6 victory.

Dick McAuliffe drove a two-out single to right center in the bottom of the ninth inning off loser Dave Sells, 4-2, to score the Tigers' Dick Sharon from second base with the winning run.

Bob Oliver had tied the game at 6-6 for the Angels in the eighth with his 11th homer of the season off winner John Hiller.

The first 13 Angels went down without a hit against Detroit starter Mike Strahler, but Oliver walked with one out in the fifth. He scored an out later on Jerry Devanon's infield hit to third.

California catcher Jeff Torborg also singled home two runs and scored on Vada Pinson's single.

Willie Horton, the league's second leading hitter, slammed his 13th homer of the season with one out in the first off Singer, but then pulled a hamstring in his right leg beating out a single in the seventh and will be out for an indefinite period.

The Tigers collected 12 hits, while California had eight.

Clyde Wright, 7-11, is California's starter tonight, opposing Mickey Lolich, 8-8.

Lovell KOs foe in first round

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hard-hitting Argentine heavyweight Pedro Lovell withstood a badly puffed right eye to score a knockout over Cliff McDonald, Boston, Mass., in 2:55 of the first round Thursday night.

Lovell, 205, Buenos Aires, registered a pair of bruising uppercuts and left hooks to McDonald's head that opened a cut under his right eye and bloodied his nose.

The win was Lovell's 11th, all by knockouts, against no losses and a draw. McDonald, who has also scored all of his wins by kayoes, is 21-4-1.

Denver to open Pomona camp

POMONA — The NFL Denver Broncos will open training at Cal Poly next week, their second year at the Pomona site.

Rookies will report Tuesday and the first practice is slated Wednesday. The rookie contingent was swelled by one Thursday with the signing of quarterback Matt Reed, a 6-4, 225 pounder from Grambling.

Reed was drafted in the 10th round by the Buffalo Bills, but was waived and claimed by Denver.

The Broncos also announced they had waived veteran defensive lineman Walter Barnes and acquired veteran safety Dale Hackbart from St. Louis in exchange for a middle-round draft choice in 1974.

Hackbart, who played college ball at Wisconsin, can play either strong or weak safety and has also been used at linebacker. Prior to his stint at St. Louis, he also played at Green Bay, Washington, and Minnesota.

Rams-Dallas scrimmage to help determine QB cut

FULLERTON (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams first scrimmage of the summer this weekend against the Dallas Cowboys will be used to try to cut down the five quarterbacks currently being carried in camp, head coach Chuck Knox said Thursday.

Knox said five quarterbacks were too many to conduct good workouts, although he likes to have extra players in reserve. He named rookies Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington to see the most action Saturday.

The Rams coach said Tom Bergner, a free agent from Minnesota at Morris, would also be used.

The other two quarterbacks in camp, veterans John Hadl and Jim Harris, will probably not play, Knox said.

Defensive lineman Phil Olsen, the brother of the Rams' all-pro tackle Merlin Olsen, arrived Thursday to bring the total in training to 41 rookies and 16 veterans.

Americans face rugged Russians

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — The young United States track and field team might have a bunch of future Olympic champions, but they figure to be clobbered by the Russians in two weeks.

That was the expert opinion after the Americans opened their European swing Wednesday and Thursday with a 122-101 trimming of a weak West German squad at the Olympic stadium.

U.S. team coach Jim Bush almost agreed.

"We'll have to improve tremendously to beat the Russians but we have room for it," he said. "Our quarter milers and sprinters were not sharp enough."

Looking out onto the rainsoaked stadium, Bush said: It's team of the future. By 1976 they'll be ready because I see so much potential in these boys."

The Americans arrived without a number of household names, including the 110 meter high hurdles champion and world record holder Rod Milburn, indoor pole vault world champion Steve Smith, Olympic long jump champion Randy Williams and quarter miler silver medalist Ralph Mann.

Rick Wohlhuter, the 880 yards world record holder, missed the meet against the Germans but will be back in harness at Minsk. On the other hand, 19-year-old Dwight Stones, the revelation of the Munich meet with his high jump world record of 7 feet, 6 ½ inches, will not compete in Russia.

Officially, Stones claims "the opposition is too weak in a post-Olympic year." Unofficially, the Los Angeles student is up in arms against the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU).

"I paid my own way over and have other commitments in Scandinavia," he said.

When Bush was asked how long the United States could afford to field a team without their best athletes, he shrugged:

"It's a big problem but I cannot force them onto the team. Now we're looking towards the future and this bunch will come good, but give them time," he said.

Stones had predicted he would beat the world record on the tour and he was as good as his word. Other U.S. star performers included shot put world record holder Al Feuerbach, 800 meter Olympic champion Dave Wottle of the Air force and sprinter Steve Williams, who made up for his traditional poor start with tremendous acceleration.

"He's going to be the world's fastest sprinter one day," said Bush. "Steve is our biggest sprint talent since John Carlos (the 200 meter Olympic champion in 1968 and world record holder)."

All-Star coaches use different plans

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — One of the supposed joys of coaching an All-Star team in any sport is the absence of weakness.

The presence of outstanding players at every position assures a coach that no costly compensating moves will have to be made to plug gaps that lack of talent created.

All of which is fine in theory, but a successful coach usually develops habits in personnel juggling that are tough to break.

Ken Gunn, head coach of the East squad in the San abriel Valley All-Star football game Thursday at Citrus College, and Dick Salter, Gunn's opposite number on the West, represent two different sets of ideas about winning football games.

Gunn's aptitudes lie in the passing attack. His Walnut High team ran away with the Hacienda League title last season utilizing the supearm of Ron Himes.

Salter, meanwhile, likes ball control football, and has the men to play that kind of game next Thursday.

"At Arcadia," Salter says, "our philosophy was ball control. We realize, of course, we must throw the ball as well, and Bob Callas and Jim Slaughter (West quarterbacks) throw well."

While Salter is sure to go to the air more in the All-Star game, player selections reveal his ground-game bias. Callas quarterbacked Temple City's CIF 2-A champions last year relying mainly on the conservative approach. While he passed for more than 800 yards, he also scrambled for an uncommonly high 400 more.

Salter also picked Mike Nanko from the T.C. squad. Nanko gained 911 yards rushing on 154 carries and scired nine TD's en route to a Rio Hondo League Back of the Year award.

So, while the West has abundant aerial talent (Slaughter passed for a 17-yard average at Pasadena), Salter's trump card appears to be the two essential cogs from one of the better high school ground attacks in Southern California.

Gunn similarly has no need to fear a departure from tradition. His running game is about as solid as it can get, with the likes of Charter Oak's Andy Mason and Upland's Rocky Chapman available. But there is no reason to think he won't succumb to his background either.

"We believe in the passing game at Walnut," Gunn asserts. "But it's the toughest part of the game to get ready. It's really tough to get the timing down in such short time."

Gunn has the number two and three passer in CIF history in hand, in Himes and Los Altos' Rob Hertel, respecitvely, along with a gang of proven receivers.

Royal Oak's Phil Boyce caught 45 passes last year for 610 yards and seven touchdowns. Glendora's Bruce Jans made 34 receptions for 498 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Gary Seeber caught passes for Hertel at Los Altos and gained 873 yards during his 64 receptions, and wound up fifth on the all-time CIF receiving list.

Other potential targets include Charter Oak's Steve Sylvester, San Dimas' Jeff Nelson and another Royal Oak standout Roger Steinke.

The talent is there, and the temptation is going to be strong to use it.

ALL-STAR NOTES . . . The East reports the only major practice injury so far is Wilson High's tight end-linebacker Mike Zamora. Zamora broke his leg last weekend running pass patterns. Under game rules, he cannot be replaced, and the East must now go with a 29-man squad . . . Gunn figures he has the depth to cover for Zamora, but is apprehensive of any more injuries . . . Over on the West, meanwhile, Salter reports that Bishop Amat tackle Steve Javert took a shot on the head last week, but is back at practice after takng a afew days off . . .Tickets for the game are now on sale from various merchants and will be available on game night.

Sports news in brief

SANTA ANITA PARK says a postcard poll which spurred the Arcadia city council to back off from its "No Sunday Racing" stance has cleared the way for the track to ask permission from the California Horse Racing Board to inaugurate a full weekend of racing dates.

The track will seek approval of a Sunday schedule at the state board's next meeting Monday.

A postcard poll of 15,000 Arcadia Community voters showed 55 per cent of them favored allowing Sunday racing. The City Council repealed an ordinance adopted just last month limiting racing dates to week days and holidays.

TONY JACOBS, two-time defending champion, easily disposed of his two opponents Thursday enroute to the best medal score of the 102 golfers in the Southern California PGA Match Play Championships at Long Beach.

Jacobs defeated Phil Scozzola 4-2 and Norm Bernard 4-3 by shooting an opening round six-under-par for 31 holes at El Dorado Golf Course.

KEN NORTON, San Diego heavyweight, opened drills at Gilman Hot Springs Thursday in preparation for his return bout with former heavyweight title holder Muhammed Ali. Ali is already in training in Deer Lake, Pa.

THE NBA CHICAGO BULLS have promoted Dick Motta to general manager in addition to being head coach. The club has shifted Pat Williams from general manager to head of promotion and ticket sales. A source said, "Williams has been advised that from now on he will handle promotional matters and ticket sales only."

WINDWARD PASSAGE, the 73 foot ketch skippered by New York's Mark Johnson, appears headed toward a Saturday night finish at Diamond Head in front of the 59-boat Transpacific Yacht Race fleet.

No evidence of charges by wrestler

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A detailed investigation by a three-man committee has failed to turn up any evidence supporting a former UCLA wrestler's allegations that the university allows preferential academic treatment to its athletes, according to UCLA Chancellor Charles Young.

Young briefed the UC Board of Regents educational policy committee on the case Thursday and said, "Our investigation so far indicates there is no substance to the charges."

The results will be used "as the basis for our public response" to the accusations, Young said.

Former Bruin wrestler Peter Lutz, who graduated last year, said, when filing for state unemployment benefits, that he was not required to attend classes in order to graduate and that he was given special help and treatment in his classes.

Many areas excluded from rabbit season

LONG BEACH — The season for hunting brush, cottontail and pigmy rabbits and varying hare opened July 1 in most of the state, but much of Southern California was excluded from the opening, Inspector Clifford Matthews of the Department of Fish and Game reminded hunters today.

Excluded from the July 1 opening were the counties of Imperial, Inyo, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino and that portion of southeastern Kern County lying south and east of State Route 14 from its intersection with the southern Kern County line northeasterly to its intersection with U.S. Highway 395 near the town of Inyokern, and easterly of Highway 395 north to its intersection with the north Kern County line.

The season for all rabbits, including jackrabbits, will open in this area on September 1 and close on January 31. This is also the closing date for the balance of the state.

The season on jackrabbits—a departure from the previous year's regulations—applies only to those counties excluded from the July 1 opening. Jackrabbits can be hunted in the balance of the state throughout the year.

The bag and possession limit for brush, cottontail and pigmy rabbits and varying hare is five per day in the entire state. There is no bag limit on jackrabbits, but a valid hunting license is required to hunt.

Bluefin tuna start to show

DANA POINT — While yellowtail fishing has fallen off in local waters, the prospects of a good show of bluefin tuna are next on the agenda, reports Don Hansen, manager at Dana Wharf Sportfishing. The first bluefin of the season showed in the weekend catch for the boats out of Dana Point Harbor and the best action in ten years off the San Deigo area indicates that the bluefin may be moving up the coast.

Norman Kaye of Anaheim boated the largest bluefin over the weekend, with a 16-pounder, while others taken ranged ten to 15 pounds. Action was aboard the Sum Fun, at Yellowtail Kelp, south of San Onofre.

The largest fish of the week, however, was a 225-lb. black sea bass taken by Jay Elder of Dana Point, fishing the box canyon area aboard the Fisherman.

Hansen says Catalina Island fishing produced some yellowtail action last week, plus good numbers of bass, blue perch and rockfish. The Catalina Island run leaves nightly at midnight, while the local ¾-day boat goes at 6 a.m. Half-day boats are scheduled daily at 6:30 and 10 a.m. and 12 noon, and the Twilight Speicial is nightly at 5:30 p.m. Hansen says daily fish count information is available by telephoning (714) 496-5794 in Dana Point or (714) 831-1850 in the Santa Ana area.

All stocking is scheduled road and weather conditions permitting.

CFG gives okay to 13 special deer hunts

SACRAMENTO The California Fish and Game Commission has approved 13 special antrlerless and either-sex deer hunts with 5,375 permits for the 1973-74 hunting season.

The commission took the action in Monterey June 29 after hearing recommendations from individual commissioners who had presided at public hearings in the counties in which the hunts were proposed.

After first proposing 19 special hunts with 7,475 permits, the Department of Fish and Game withdrew proposals for archery and gun hunts in Placer County, leaving 17 hunts with 7,025 permits.

Proposed hunts in El Dorado County were vetoed by the County Board of Supervisors, and hearings in Monterey and Santa Barbara Counties produced modifications.

Commissioners decided not to hold the proposed antlerless deer hunt on the San Fernando Rey property in Santa Barbara county after the owner of the ranch, R. S. Cathcart, said he felt the limited number of deer in the area would not cause him undue crop depredation this year.

Last year the DFG proposed 25 special hunts with 12,200 permits. The commission, after holding hearings in the counties in whic hthe hunts were proposed, authorized 21 hunts with 9,125 permits. A total of 1,469 deer were reported taken by hunters in the special hunts.

Permits for the special hunts will be awarded on the basis of statewide public drawings.

Applicants must file on the application card attached to their 1973 deer tags. The applications are not transferable. For the Camp Pendleton hunt applicants must be 16 years old or older.

Each deer tag holder must file one application and may indicate his first and second choices of hunts. The application must show the names and code numbers of the hunts applied for. In multiple-period hunts assignments will be by drawing.

Drawing for the early hunts will be held Wednesday, Aug. 8, with applications due at DFG headquarters in Sacramento by 5 p.m. Aug. 7. The drawing for the late hunts will be held Thursday, Aug. 16, with the application deadline 5 p.m. Aug. 14.

Immediately following the drawings, successful applicants will be notified by mail to send $5 for the special deer permit.

Again this year, successful applicants will be required to submit their optional deer tag to obtain their special deer hunt permit. The tag should not be submitted until the applicant has been notified he has been drawn, however.

The 1973-74 special deer hunts include three hunts in Los Angeles County (Northern Los Angeles Sept. 22 to Nov. 11, Los Angeles Archery Sept. 22 to Nov. 11 and Nov. 12 to Nov. 31, and Catalina Island Nov. 28 to Dec. 2).

Others are the Vandenberg Hunt in Santa Barbara County Sept. 1-16; the Tenaja Hunt which includes Orange, Riverside, and San Diego Counties scheduled Sept. 22-Nov. 11; and Camp Pendleton in San Diego County Oct. 13 and 14, 20 and 21, 27 and 28, Nov. 3 and 4.

'Big cats' at Irvine

ORANGE — Catches of channel catfish continue to outdistance other species at Irvine Lake, reports Mrs. Alice Carlson at the lake tackle shop, as an 81-degree surface temperature has put the big "cats" on the feed.

Mrs. Carlson says several limits are being checked in, topped by the 11-lb. 14-oz. channel catfish registered by Bud Lowrence of Buena Park, who used stink bait in Santiago Flats.

Trout fishing is fair, but Rod Carlson of Orange nabbed a trout limit weighing 8 lbs. total in Sierra Cove and Richard Massey of Santa Ana had a 6-lb. trout limit. The Mark Dunham family of Costa Mesa accounted for four trout limits taken on cheese in Sierra Cove.

Mrs. Carlson says trout plants have been ended for the season, but carry-over trout are suppling the action.

The tale of "Old Blue" emerged this week as Mrs. Carlson said a blue catfish estimated at about 18 lbs. has captured the attention of many fishermen. "Old Blue," as he's been named, lives in an old barrel in the West Fork of the lake, and has been hooked twice, only to escape on both occasions. He was first noticed about two weeks ago. Anglers say they can see him sticking his head out of his barrel home, but getting him to bite again is another matter.

Another Whopper Club bluegill — a 1-lb. 5-oz. fish — was taken over the weekend, this time by David Shindledicker of Long Beach, who used red worms off the West shore.

Regulations booklets now are available

LONG BEACH — Regulations booklets for 1973-74 hunting seasons in California, delayed in the Office of State Printing, are now available at Department of Fish and Game offices and from license agents throughout the state.

Meanwhile, hunting licenses, deer tags and bear tags have gone on sale with license agents and at DFG offices.

The fee schedule includes: residents junior license, $2; resident license, $6; nonresident license, $35; resident deer tag, $3; nonresident deer tag, $25; bear tag, $1; pheasant stamp, $2, and duck stamp, $1.

Hurlie burly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some fine points about the "hurlie'," a wicked looking bat used in the national Irish sport of hurling were explained by Ray Cummins, an all star hurler and footballer at an exhibit at the Hallmark Gallery here titled "forty Shades of Green: the Republic of Ireland."

Although it's played on turf, hurling is similar to hockey and can be just as rough.

Clyde not awed by Monster

By United Press International

David Clyde, the Texas Rangers' glamorous No. 1 draft pick, has met the Monster and is duly impressed but not awed.

The Monster is the 40-foot-high-wall which broods over every game played at Fenway Park, Boston, and has influenced the performances of many players long before the 18-year old Clyde was born. It is an axiom accepted by American Leaguers over the years that "it is a different game in Fenway."

Clyde became another in the long line of victims of The Monster Thursday night when Tommy Harper snapped a 1-1 tie with a homer over the wall and the Red Sox beat the Rangers, 5-2. It was an experience that could have caused the kid to lose faith in himself or for the Red Sox to put him down but neither happened.

"The wall didn't bother me," said Clyde, "because it reminded me of when I was pitching in high school and the left field was short. The difference here in the majors is that the hitters are better."

Hitters like Carl Yastrzemski and Orlando Cepeda went along with Clyde's evaluation of his first joust with The Monster.

"When he struck me out," said Yastrzemski, who later hit a three-run homer off Bill Gogolewski in the eighth inning, "he hit three different spots on me and they were all perfect pitches.

"He's going to be around for quite a while," said Cepeda. "It's rare to see an 18-year old with his control. He challenged me and he struck me out twice. He's got great poise."

The Detroit Tigers defeated the California Angels, 7-6, the New York Yankees downed the Kansas City Royals, 10-3, the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, the Oakland A's topped the Milwaukee Brewers, 8-4, and the Cleveland Indians scored a 7-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins after losing, 8-4, in other AL games.

National League scores were Pittsburgh 4 San Diego 0, Los Angeles 4 St. Louis 0 and Houston 7 Philadelphia 6.

Harper's homer gave the Red Sox a 2-1 lead and Yastrzemski polished off the win for them with his three-run homer off Gogolewski. Marty Pattin went the distance for the Red Sox for his ninth win against 11 losses. Clyde now stands 1-2 in his brief major league career.

Gene Michael drove in three runs and Thurman Munson scored three times as the Yankees pounded out 17 hits and enabled Pat Dobson, who pitched a seven-hitter, to win his fifth game against three losses. Michael's two-run double was the big blow of a three-run fifth inning which gave the Yankees a 9-3 lead and paved the way for instant relief ace Sparky Lyle to enjoy a full night of sleep in the Yankee bullpen for a change.

Brooks Robinson drove in Bobby Grich with a single in the eighth inning as the Orioles topped the White Sox and dealt reliever Terry Forster his third loss against two wins. Paul Blair hit his sixth homer for the Orioles.

Reggie Jackson drove in four runs with a homer and two singles and Rollie Fingers won his second game for the A's. Ray Fosse also homered for the A's while Don Money connected for his 19th homer for the Brewers.

Jim Holt singled in the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and George Mitterwald drove in four more runs as the Twins beat the Indians in their first game. In the nightcap, John Lowenstein scored the tie-breaking run for Cleveland on a wild pitch by Ken Sanders and George Hendrick followed with his second homer of the game.

Don't let Jim Wynn's batting average fool you.

It's hardly indicative of the kind of ball the Houston Astros' outfielder is playing these days.

Wynn, whose average has sagged under .230 in recent weeks, hasn't let his batting slump affect his play in the field nor has it made him change his swing at the plate.

The veteran outfielder pulled another slick play in the field Thursday night and finally broke out of a prolonged slump with a pair of homers to lead the Astros to a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Willie Stargell delivered a three-run homer, his 26th of the season, and Bob Robertson added a solo shot as the Pirates swept their three-game series with the Padres to move within one game of third place in the NL East. Luke Walker went the distance for the Pirates, allowing only five hits.

Montclair, Ontario Pinto reach semis

MONTCLAIR — Ontario Pinto and Montclair Pony League advanced to the semi-finals of the 13-year-old All-Star Tournament Thrusday evening at J. F. Kennedy Park.

Ontario collected nine hits in downing Claremont Pinto, 7-2, while Montclair had to use four hits judiciously to top Ontario Palomino, 2-1.

Ontario and Montclair meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the semis, while Cucamonga and Claremont Pony, winners Wednesday, are set for a 5:30 game in the other match-up.

Dan Gregory pitched into the fifth inning for Montclair before Mike Bresling came in to relieve and preserve the victory for Gregrory.

J. B. Goff collected three of Montclair's four safeties, including a double to drive in the first run of the game in the third.

Anthony Coitti settled down after spotting Claremont two runs in the top of the first inning to pitch six innings of shutout baseball.

Coitti also led both sides at the plate, getting three hits, including a double.

Eric Mattke doubled twice for Ontario Pinto.

Unearned run gives Pomona 1-0 victory

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

WALNUT — Pomona Post 30 scored an unearned run in the sixth inning, and it was all it needed as they defeated Walnut Connie Mack, 1-0, Thursday at Mt. San Antonio College.

The winning run came after a one-out walk to Cande Rael. Troy Baird then layed a bunt down the third base line.

Walnut third baseman Gerard Piccioni picked the ball up cleanly but his hurried throw sailed over the first-baseman's head. Rael raced around the bases and Baird took third while the ball was being flagged down.

Baird was stranded on third, but the damage had been down.

Outside of the sixth, the rest of the game proved to be a tight pitching duel between Pomona's Bob Chaulk and Walnut's Mark Schultz and Jim Vallandingham.

Chaulk pitched an outstanding game. He walked one and allowed two hits while striking-out 15. The Walnut batters were never able to get going against him.

Schultz also pitched a fine game during the four innings he worked. He gave up two hits and walked four. He struck-out five.

Vallandingham threw three innings of one-hit ball, but the sixth inning error proved to be his downfall.

The Pomona offense was led by Baird, Keith Thomas, and Ed Carmean who all had singles.

Walnut's attack was paced by Bob Veselic and Piccioni who both stroked singles.

Pomona's next opponent will be San Gabriel. The game will be played Saturday at Ralph Welch Park at 1 p.m.

Walnut will take on Bassett at Mt. Sac., Saturday at 2 p.m. If Walnut wins, it will move into first place.

Montclair's Richardson gets 10th win

MONTCLAIR — Montclair Post 616 headed off one threat to its District 25 lead Thursday evening with a 9-5 victory over Tri-City that darkness curtailed in the eighth inning.

Montclair pitching ace Bruce Richardson got credit for his 10th victory of the year against two defeats, but had to sweat over a few rough spots.

A leaping catch by outfielder Brent Jetton robbed John Sandoval of a game-tying home run in the top of the eighth.

Richardson, who wild-pitched in three runs early in the game, doubled twice, and drove home Montclair's first two runs.

Richardson struck out ten batters, while walking six.

Mike Pittman went four-for-five for Montclair. Teammate Mike Wolters picked up three hits in four trips to the plate.

Sandoval tripled in the second and scored on a squeeze play that the Montclair infield had trouble figuring out what to do with.

The victory gives Montclair a 13-4 record in district competition, and 18-10 overall. Tri-Cities' record is now 11-9.

Progress-Bulletin Home and Garden

ENEMY NO. 1? Our Hero, innocently feeding his begonias, got into some hot water when his lady organic gardening neighbor spotted the dastardly deed. "Poison," she called the substances.

Stop that stooping

Bermuda grass controlled

After six years of research and development, the world's first Bermuda grass control has been developed by the Chacon Chemical Corporation of South Gate, California. The exclusive formulation is a totally new and unique herbicide which, when used according to manufacturer's instructions, controls Bermuda grass without serious injury to grass or dichondra lawns, ground covers, trees and shrubs.

"We believe that it will change the time honored ritual of hand-grubbing 'devil grass'' from hard-to-get-to places, from a back-breaking chore to a simple spraying operation," a company spokesman stated.

Horticulturists and garden editors throughout the state are saying the new product is a major advance in home gardening. The product is so unique that a U.S. patent has been applied for

Chacon Bermuda Grass Color is a selective and translocative agent which can be sprayed on or around ground covers, trees, ornamentals, or grass and dichondra lawns. It is absorbed through the leaves of Bermuda grass and is translocated into the root system. One to three spray applications applied at consecutive weekly intervals (as per manufacturer's instructions), can result in 90 per cent to 100 per cent Berumda grass control, and single applications have effected as much as 90 per cent control according to the UNI Research Laboratories, Oakland, California, who performed extensive tests on the product. The tests also produced a list of over one hundred species of herbaceous and woody plants tolerant to Berumda Grass Control.

Company spokesmen emphasize the importance of following the manufacturer's instructions when using Bermuda Grass Control in home gardening. Adequate soil moisture is essential for increasing the product's selective action, and abundant top growth is necessary for absorption of the active ingredients to translocate to the weed's root system.

The entire leaf area must be sprayed for full control, not simply a few strands of Bermuda grass runners. Thorough wetting of top growth and heavy thatch are also a must for good control. Since the product works by absorption through the top growth, it is useless to saturate the soil.

In addition, results can only be obtained when mid-day temperatures reach 70 degrees. When these conditions are observed, thorough and effective control of Berumda grass infestation is assured.

Studies on Bermuda grass were initiated by Ralph Chacon of Chacon Chemical in 1967. Over 200 experimental batches of the control agent were made and tested before the product was released on the market.

Color-blending in the garden

A garden can be a many-splendored thing most of the year in California, especially in summertime.

Since gardens take their personality, to a great degree, from color, the summer-flowering perennial is especially valued. There is literally no limit to the sizes, shapes, and shades of summer perennials which flouish here.

Whether the gardener plans a cheerful multi-colored sisplay or a special separate color effect, there are hardy perennials to fit the scheme.

For a colorful array, geranium (pelargonium) cannot be overlooked. Blooming in pinks, salmon, scarlet, vermillion, lavender-purple tones white and peppermint candy-striped variegations, geraniums maintain colorful blooms for weeks and weeks. Pinch and prune for shape; provide good drainage, especially in heavy soils.

For blending shades of color, perennials are suitable candidates. A refreshing blue and white garden setting is achieved by blending the purple of lavender with the lighter blues of delphinium and clumps of white shasta daisies. This arrangement will thrive in sunny locations or in partial shade in mornings or afternoons.

There are many daisies to chose from. Marguerites provide plenteous daisy-like flowers in white and yellow. Transvaal daisies (gerberas) are distinctively beautiful—hybrid singles or doubles have good sized flowers in intense shades of yellow, cream, pink, rose, orange, coral and red. The blooms are long-lasting, the plants are low and compact, ideal for foregoround plantings and border situations.

For a rich-looking red-pink effect, deep red carnations can be combined with coral bells; a pink type of perennial phlox and sweet William, in a rose shade.

Paint the skies with bright trees

People who think you can't have glorious autumn color in the Golden State just aren't looking in the right places. So says the California Association of Nurserymen, which points out there are gardens up and down the state decorated with the most spectacular yellows, oranges, and reds any Easterner could ask for.

Fall color in California is chiefly a matter of planning. Certain trees and shrubs are going to color-up even in mild climates. The secret in producing a vivid display of fall color is choosing the right ones.

The Maidenhair Tree (ginko), for instance, provides striking autumn color even in mild climates. The hybria, autumn gold, is a symmetrical, upright tree with deep green fan-like leaves that are dependable for turning a brilliant yellow in fall.

American sweet gum (liquidambar), a familiar favorite, may or may not color-up in a given area. The hybrid forms will, however: Burgundy, provides fall color in red and wine tones; afterglow offers suggestions of orange, pink and red; and Palo Alto can be relied upon for bright red-orange colorations.

Shopping local nurseries will reveal other fall color choices.

Organic, inorganic---the plants don't seem to care

By FRANK TAYLOR

One summer day I was drenching the tuberous begonias with a hose spray gun when a neighbor who is an organic gardening zealot came by

"What kind of poison are you spraying on your plants today?" she demanded.

"It's not poison," I told her. "I'm leaf feeding them."

"Well, it it's chemical, it's posion," she insisted.

"They thrive on it. Look at their leaves and blossoms."

"You're poisoning the soil and killing the earthworms," she warned. "Next year you'll see."

Well, I'm a nature boy who wouldn't harm an earthworm except maybe to catch a fish) so I turned off the hose spray gun and produced the bottle from which I had poured the plant nutrient.

"Let's read the label," I suggested.

It said that, in addition to trace elements such as iron, zine, manganese, which possible do rate as organics, the pricipal ingredient was fish oil from which tthe perfume had been removed. Me neighbor felt better and went happily on her way while I resumed the leaf feeding.

Following the incident I sent for bulletins from several agricultural experiment stations and began boning up on plant nutrients. What the authorities had to say was revealing.

One significant item was that when I fed my plants organic food, such as manure of leaf mold, the roots couldn't absorb the nutrient until the soil bacteria had reduced it to chemical liquid. The same process took place when I fed chemical fertilizer pellets. They had to be processed by the soil bacteria, too.

I learned that so far no scientific experiment has determined whether the roots can teli the organic nutrient from the inorganic. If the roots know the difference, they are not telling, not even their leaves.

This was reassuring. I've fed our plants tons of organic stuff and hundreds of pounds of chemical fertilizer. They've lapped it all up and thrived. I call this mix of organic and inorganic feeding "common sense gardening." I don't dig the crusade of the up-tight organic apostels because my down-to-earth gospel is, give the plants what they like and watch them grow.

Gardener's checklist

1. Peaches and some other fruit trees set too much fruit. Thin out the excess as soon as possible and you'll have better quality and size with what's left.

2. A root irrigator will benefit many trees by insuring that water gets down where it does the most good. Nurseries have the easy-to-use devices.

3. Don't let roses dry out, they'll appreciate a feeding this month; keep removing any growth that appears below the bud union (the object that looks like a thumbnail, protruding from the base of the plant).

4. Keep after snails and slugs with bait or pellets. Control is easy so there's no excuse for allowing them to damage plants in the garden.

5. Hanging basket coleus, a multi-colored foliage plant, offers a refreshing touch to the semi-shaded porch or patio, where its beauty can be enjoled from on high.

Australians welcome aliens

CANBERRA (UPI) — Twice as many migrants are becoming Australian citizens as a year ago, Immigration Minister Al Grassby said in a report to parliament. Grassby said 3,152 aliens became citizens in January, 1973, compared with 1,525 last year, Former Greek citizens led the way to Australian citizenship, followed by Italians and Yugoslavs, he said.

Hawaii has no crisis in energy

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii's future growth and development will be only slightly affected by the nation's energy problems, a Standard Oil Company of California executive predicts.

C. G. Woods, a Standard vice president, told the state House Finance Committee Monday that the ready access Hawaii has to crude oil and certain refined products means the state would be less affected by nationwide shortages than other states. He said most of Hawaii's energy requirements are satisfied by local refineries.

Wood was called to testify before the committee, which is considering the state's oil supply problems and a proposed gasoline tax increase.

Wood told the committee that barring unforeseen circumstances, there should be sufficient crude oil to meet Hawaii's needs well into the future. He said the situation which has caused a cutback in both foreign and domestic crude supplies is expected to ease somewhat in the near future.

Make open space, tear out freeway

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Supervisor Dianne Feinstein said Monday the often-criticized Embarcadero freeway should be demolished as part of an effort to redevelop the waterfront.

"It seems to me that proper development of port properties cannot be carried out with the present Embarcadero freeway," Mrs. Feinstein told the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The commission has set up a special waterfront advisory committee to consider a redevelopment plan for the area. Mrs. Feinstein is a member of the committee.

She said removal of the elevated freeway "should be a substantial incentive to developers by enabling them to provide additional open space" around their projects.

Mrs. Feinstein asked for an estimate of the cost of tearing down the freeway and replacing it with an underground route.

In 1970, the state Division of Highways estimated it would cost more than $300 million to tear down the freeway and replace it with a tunnel linking the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges.

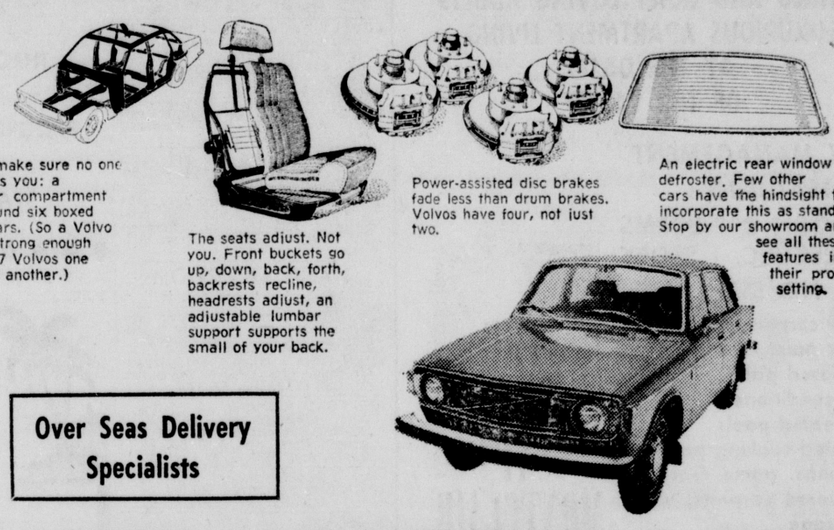
DON'T LOVE VOLVO FOR THE GAS MILEAGE ALONE
LET VOLVO SPOIL YOU.



To help make sure no one else spoils you: a passenger compartment built around six boxed steel pillars. (So a Volvo body is strong enough to stack 7 Volvos one on top of another.)

The seats adjust. Not you. Front buckets go up, down, back, forth, backrests recline, headrests adjust, an adjustable lumbar support supports the small of your back.

Power-assisted disc brakes fade less than drum brakes. Volvos have four, not just two.

An electric rear window defroster. Few other cars have the hindsight to incorporate this as standard. Stop by our showroom and see all these features in their proper setting.

If no compromise with Nixon . . .

Ervin predicts committee will subpoena documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin forecast today the Senate Watergate committee would vote to subpoena White House documents relating to the scandal if his coming meeting with President Nixon failed to produce a compromise agreement.

The President's refusal to grant the senators access to the papers, and subpoena action by Ervin's committee, would create a constitutional confrontation almost sure to require settlement by the Supreme Court.

Ervin said during a television interview early today that he would meet with Nixon "tomorrow," but later explained that he misspoke. He said he hoped the meeting could be held next week. It possibly would be held at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Nixon was admitted Thursday night for treatment of what his doctor diagnosed as viral pneumonia.

The White House said no date had been set yet and that representatives of the President and Ervin would get together shortly, possibly today, to work out arrangements.

Ervin told reporters later, just before gaveling today's Watergate hearing to a start, that he hoped the conference could take place next week in spite of Nixon's hospitalization. "I understand viral pneumonia is walking pneumonia," he said.

Ervin and his committee are seeking access to assorted White House papers which the senator said today he considers necessary to help the panel "get at the bottom" of the truth about Watergate.

The President has refused to turn over the documents, claiming such action would violate his duty to uphold the doctorine of separation of powers and jeopardize the tradition of confidentiality in the White House.

During an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show, Ervin said he would continue to insist the documents be made available and hoped Nixon would alter his view and cooperate with the committee. Dismissing a White House insistence that the papers would not be provided, Ervin said:

"Well, that was a statement by the press agent at the White House. The press agents of the White House have made many statements which they themselves have later declared to be inoperative, whatever that word means.

"The President took the position originally under his claim of executive privilege that no aide or former aide of the White House could be compelled to appear before the committee. He changed his mind on that and I hope that ... the President will become wiser when I talk to him tomorrow than his press secretary said he was yesterday."

Ervin had expressed surprise when informed by an aide Thursday night that the President was ill. He had talked to him on the telephone at midday.

Pal caught after high-speed chase

Valley holdup suspect shot, but eludes police

GLENDORA — A $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night touched off a chain of violent events which included:

— An exchange of shots between the two gunmen and police.

— A high-speed chase,

— The capture of the suspect.

— The kidnaping of a hostage.

— And the escape of one robber, apparently wounded, with most of the money.

The holdup was at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., shortly after 9 p.m. One robber, posing as a new butcher, entered the employe lounge shortly before closing time while his companion waited outside in a car in the alley.

The man chatted with employes until the store was closed and the customers had left. Then, when only four employes remained, he pulled a revolver and told them it was a stickup.

The bandit herded the four into the market office and forced one to open the safe. Then he made them accompany him to the rear door.

What he didn't know, Police Lt. Robert Schouten said today, was that the safe's being opened set off a silent alarm at the police station. However, Schouten said, it wasn't uncommon for employes to set off the alarm accidentally and when Officer John Ambrogio posted himself ouside the back door, he really expected an employe to open it, not a robber.

But when the door opened, Ambrogio saw the gun and jumped aside as the man fired from about three feet away. The shot missed, but the man fled to the parked car nearby and the two men sped away.

Ambrogio and other officers followed and during the pursuit, shots were fired by the bandits and police. The sheriff's department was called in and a helicopter joined in the search.

The bandits abandoned their car at Citrus Avenue and Glenlyn Drive and ran. Ambrogio fired several shots from his shotgun at them and sheriff's deputies Jerry Price and Donald Richards seized suspect Charles Lee Spearman, 41, Pasadena, as he ran through a yard a few minutes later.

Nearby, at 18520 E. Petunia St., one robber entered and confronted Arthur L. King, 55, at gunpoint. He forced King outside and into King's car and ordered him to drive. At 19208 E. Orangepath Drive near Azusa, he forced King out and drove off in King's car. The vehicle was found later abandoned in the 19200 block of E. Alosta Ave., Azusa.

Inside, police found bloodstains indicating the robber had been hit by one of Ambrogio's shots.

Valley police today were looking for the man, described as white, 20 to 35, 5 feet 11, 190 pounds and stocky. He had short, curly, brown hair and wore a blue shirt and dark trousers. He had a .38-caliber revolver and about $5,000 of the loot. The balance was abandoned when one robber was running, earlier, Lt. Schouten said.

CONTRADICTS DEAN

Special Presidential Counsel Richard Moore, in testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee, contradicted John Dean about when President Nixon first learned of the Watergate cover-up. Moore said that as late as March 20, 1973, it seemed clear to him that Nixon knew nothing about Watergate.

Pomona police assn. files $1 million claim over pay

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The city was hit with a $1 million claim by the Pomona Police Relief Association today for alleged "failure to meet and confer in good faith" over a work contract for the next year.

The claim, a preliminary requirement to a law suit, contends that the city has violated the letter and spirit of the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, and thereby "damaged and deteriorated the good will, reputation, integrity, stature, utility and effectiveness of the (police) association and its members."

Stephen H. Silver, attorney for the association, said the claim was filed after the City Council and particularly Mayor Ray Lepire have "demonstrated that they do not want to negotiate in good faith."

He said the city has steadfastly maintained an offer of a 5 per cent pay increase, while the association has come down from a request of 9 per cent to 7 per cent, and then to 6 per cent.

The 6 per cent proposal was approved by the city's negotiator, Sidney Sims, according to Silver, but was later rejected by the council.

"When I asked the council what to do next, the mayor, like a tape recorder, told me to meet with city negotiator Sidney Sims," Silver delcared.

He said that under the circumstances, the policemen were withdrawing the tentative contract they had agreed to with Sims.

In addition to the pay raise, the proposed contract included provisions for time and a half for overtime, a dental plan, higher uniform allowances and other fringe benefits.

But Silver said it was considerably less than the police officers had sought. He said the association decided to accept the compromise in a spirit of cooperation, which "no longer is valid."

"We can't expect our people to continue to show good will while the mayor keeps slapping them in the face," he said.

The claim was filed this morning with City Clerk Larry Thomas. Silver said if the council rejects the $1 million bill to compensate the association for bad faith, he will file a civil suit in district court.

Lepire couldn't be reached this morning for comment.

Chest pains continue

Restless night for President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors said today President Nixon continued to suffer chest pains following a "restless night" at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he was admitted Thursday night for viral pneumonia.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said Nixon's temperature continued to hover between 101 and 102 degrees, but that he was carrying on the "essential work" of the presidency in spite of some pains and the temperature.

Dr. Walter Tkach, White House physician, said however that Nixon's work schedule would be "certainly less than a quarter" of normal while he is in the hospital.

Nixon was admitted to the hospital about 9:15 p.m. EDT Thursday after Tkach diagnosed the President's condition as viral pneumonia. Tkach said there were "no complications" with the illness, Nixon's first serious physical setback since he took office.

"We had difficulty in convincing him that he really was a sick man," Tkach said today. He added that Nixon got only four hours sleep after being admitted and he had to be given a "strong analgesic by injection."

Ziegler told the same news briefing at Bethesda that Nixon was examined by doctors twice in the early morning after a "restless night." He said the President was suffering from "chest discomforture," and had only orange juice and fruit for breakfast.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Nixon's chief of staff, went to the hospital today to discuss some business matters with the President, Ziegler said. Mrs. Nixon and the President's daughter, Julie, were expected to visit during the afternoon.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said earlier in the day that he hoped to meet with Nixon some time next week on the Watergate hearings.

Moore says Nixon repeatedly tried to get facts 'in open'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Special Counsel Richard A. Moore testified today President Nixon sought repeatedly in March to get the facts about Watergate out in the open, and rejected a suggestion that the FBI check into the campaign histories of members of the Senate Watergate committee.

Moore's testimony before the nationally televised Senate Watergate hearings continued to differ sharply in interpretation with that of ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

Moore said that Dean once proposed using the FBI to investigate members of the Senate Watergate committee in hopes of uncovering information that could be used to show that the scandal was nothing new in politics.

In a meeting with Nixon designed to plot moves "to get our side of the story out" Moore said that Dean told Nixon he had worked on Capitol Hill and knew that there were few political campaigns where "something questionable or illegal" was not done.

"We were asked for ideas on where we could take the initiative, and in that meeting at one point, Mr. Dean said to the President—'you know, one way for us to take the initiative' would be to get some responsible official to suggest that the members of the Watergate committee should submit to an FBI investigation of their past political campaigns."

Moore said that Nixon dismissed Dean's idea.

"The President came up with a puzzled look," Moore said, and Nixon told Dean he did not understand what he meant.

Campora quits, opens door to restore Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Hector J. Campora offered his resignation to the Argentine Congress today to allow new elections within 40 days to restore Juan D. Peron to the presidency of Argentina after 18 years in exile.

"It was a decision that was born of my own sentiment, of all of a life in service of one man in whom I believed, I believe and will continue believing," Campora told legislators following an early morning meeting with Peron.

The 64-year-old Campora denied that there had been any pressure on him to resign after only 49 days in office.

Campora made the announcement of his resignation outside Peron's suburban home after he and Vice President Vicente Solano Lima conferred with the 77-year-old Peron, whose previous 10-year rule was ended by the armed forces in 1955. Solano Lima also resigned.

Calf rustling suspect shot in Ontario; three arrested

ONTARIO — Two men and a youth are in custody today in West End Jail following an alleged calf rustling attempt and the shotgun wounding of one of the suspects Thursday night at the Vander Tuig Dairy, 7909 Walnut Ave.

Charles Lane, 21, of Downey, was wounded when he was shot by the dairy's owner who said he surprised the three making off with a day-old calf at about 11 p.m., sheriff's officers said.

The other man, Robert Homan, 18, of 7711 Riverside Drive and a 17-year-old youth were not injured.

Sheriff's deputies said Jay Vander Tuig, the dairy's owner, and a friend, Mark Ligtenberg of Upland, had staked out the area of the calf pens in hopes of catching thieves who had taken several calves in recent days.

Vander Tuig told authorities he watched the three climb into the pen, throw a calf valued at $58 over the fence and start to make off with it.

He and Ligtenberg took the three into custody, but a scuffle ensued and they all broke away. Vander Tuig fired several warning shots from his shotgun and ordered the three to halt. When they refused, he fired once again and struck Lane in the arm, buttocks and legs, officers said.

Lane was treated at Doctors Hospital in Montclair and was later booked into jail.

Train derailed

CHEBANSE, Ill. (UPI) — An Amtrak passenger train with 276 persons aboard derailed 200 feet south of the city limits Thursday night, but none of the passengers was seriously injured.

Paul Getty grandson is kidnaped?

ROME (UPI) — J. Paul Getty III, 16-year-old grandson of billionaire J. Paul Getty, was reported missing and possibly kidnaped Thursday.

Police said they were treating the case seriously and would make a statement later today.

Mrs. Gail Getty, the youth's mother, told police and UPI that she received an anonymous telephone call Thursday saying that her son was kidnaped.

"We have kidnaped your son," police said the caller told Mrs. Getty. "Start gathering your money together now for a ransom. We will call you later."

Mrs. Getty told UPI that she could not discuss the ransom demand. "I can't tell you now," she said. "It was all so peculiar.

Nixon one of healthiest presidents

Never sick a day in White House—until now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon has been one of the healthiest presidents in recent history.

His predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, underwent surgery three times during his presidency. Dwight D. Eisenhower had a heart attack, an operation for ileitis and suffered a mild stroke while in office.

President John F. Kennedy, who had back trouble since prep school, twisted his back while helping plant a tree during an official visit to Canada in 1961, and was in pain for months. However, Kennedy, during his White House term was never hospitalized until the assassination in Dallas.

Nixon, 60, has had annual physical examinations since he entered the White House, and each time his physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, has described his health as "excellent." His last full checkup was Dec. 20.

Dr. Tkach has said on several occasions that there never was a healthier president.

Nixon suffered a cold in March, 1969, soon after his inauguration and at the time of former President Eisenhower's death. He went to Camp David for a day and was able to deliver the eulogy speech for Eisenhower the next day.

Dr. Tkach's only complaint about Nixon has been that the President does not get enough exercise. He continually has recommended more exercise and more sunshine.

The late President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack Sept. 24, 1955; an attack of ileitis June 9, 1956; and a mild stroke Nov. 25, 1957. He resumed limited work two days after the stroke.

In his book, "Six Crises," Nixon recalled how he as vice president, was notified of Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack. A phone rang. "'Dick,' said a familiar voice, this is Jim Haggerty (Eisenhower's press secretary). The President has had a coronary.' It was impossible to describe how I felt when I heard these words. The news was so unexpected, the shock so great, I could think of nothing to say for several seconds."

Lyndon Johnson suffered a gall bladder attack and was operated on in October, 1965. He later underwent an operation to repair the incision of the gall bladder surgery. And he had another operation for throat polyps.

Johnson also suffered from a viral attack of a flu-like nature the night of his inauguration, Jan. 20, 1965. He was rushed to Bethesda Naval Hospital by ambulance.

Reporters questioned Dr. Tkach as to whether strain from the Watergate scandals may have been a contributing factor in Nixon's pneumonia. Dr. Tkach did not rule out stress as a contributing factor, but he said conditions of strain or overwork were not necessarily related to the illness.

MOVIE STARS MARRIED

Steve McQueen and Ali Mcgraw were married Thursday in Cheyenne, Wyo. This photo was taken in Jamaica during the filming of "Papillon," McQueen's latest motion picture.

About people

Steve McQueen, Ali McGraw wed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Steve McQueen and Ali MacGraw, cementing a union that has kept fan magazines and gossip columnists bubbling and guessing for months, were married Thursday in Cheyenne, Wyo.

A brief announcement by publicity agents for the couple said only that the ceremony was performed by Judge Art Garfield, and attended by Miss MacGraw's son, Joshua, 2, and McQueen's children, Chad, 12 and Terri, 14.

Miss MacGraw, 34, divorced Paramount Studios production chief Robert Evans, 43, five weeks ago, ending four years of marriage. McQueen, 41, was divorced last year by his wife of 14 years, Neile Adams. They have been romantically linked since costarring in "The Getaway" in 1971.

Ex-member of drug body jumps bail

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Michael De Anda, 52, a former member of the mayor's blue ribbon committee on narcotics, has jumped bail after conviction on heroin possession charges, police said Thursday.

De Anda was convicted June 14. Police and they had found five pounds of heroin worth $2 million in his Long Beach apartment. His bail pending sentencing was raised from $25,000 to $50,000 and he was given one day to raise the money, authorities said, but has since disappeared.

De Anda appeared in the movies "Ship of Fools" and "Twilight of Honor." From 1969 to 1971 he was on the mayor's narcotics advisory committee.

Ex-POW guilty of 2 traffic offenses

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — Former prisoner of war Juan M. Astorga, who was held captive 10 months in North Vietnam, pleaded guilty Thursday to two traffic offenses and was placed on a year's probation.

The Army specialist hit another car on a local freeway on April 12. Although he was charged with hit-and-run the reckless driving at the time, the charges were later reduced to speeding and making an unsafe lane change.

New Peace Corps director named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nicholas W. Craw has been named to head the Peace Corps as acting associate director for international operations of ACTION, the Federal Volunteerism agency announced Thursday.

Craw, who replaces Donald K. Hess, will serve in an acting capacity pending presidential nomination of a permanent associate director. Craw was formerly head of ACTION's office of citizen's placement, was an official of VISTA, the domestic peace corps and worked with PROJECT HOPE, the private international medical assistance organization.

U.S. military record center still burning

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Firemen today fought for the second day to control a blaze in the huge U.S. Military Personnel Records Center, which houses the records of 56 million former servicemen.

The fire broke out just minutes after midnight Thursday on the top floor of the six-story structure in suburban Overland.

It appeared to be coming under control in late afternoon, when it was contained on the sixth floor, but flames as high as 40 feet shot up again by nightfall. Most of the records were stored on the sixth floor in boxes.

During the night the conflagration broke through the roof and spread from the top floor to the fifth and fourth floors of the two-block-long building.

How extensively the records were damaged was not clear, since the heat today was still preventing investigators from assessing the damage.

FBI agents were called in to investigate the blaze. Jeffrey P. Hillelson, regional administrator of the General Services Administration, which owns the building, said about 12 small fires had been set in the building in past years.

Hillelson said, "Some records were destroyed and some were not."

In Washington, Donald E. Johnson, head of the Veterans Administration, said the loss of records might affect some servicemen applying in the future for benefits for disabilities connected with their military duty.

Railroad car leaks propane; area evacuated

EN CENTRO (UPI)—Firemen quickly evacuated a six square-block area Thursday when an overheated railroad tank car began leaking explosive propane fuel in 100 degree desert temperatures.

The Petrolane Co. tanker was hosed down to cool off the highly combustible mixture. A Petrolane employe secured the leak two hours after it began.

One week ago in Kingman, Ariz., a propane tanker caught fire and exploded, killing nine persons and injuring more than 80 others.

Authorities said one of the six propane tank cars parked on the Southern Pacific Railroad siding here had been improperly closed, causing the liquified gas to secape.

A safety valve also popped, releasing more gas, according to Fire Chief Rudy Medina.

Big tuition hike urged for public universities

By CARRICK LEAVITT

BERKELEY (UPI) — A blue ribbon commission on higher education has proposed big increases in tuition at public universities to narrow the gap with fees charged by private institutions.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, in a report released Thursday, said it would like to see tuition in public colleges and universities reach a level about one-third of that charged by independent schools.

This would help close the gap between the cost of attending public and private institutions and force students who can afford to attend college pay a greater share of the cost of their education.

At the moment, the commission's report said, the public rate is about one-sixth of that for private institutions.

To narrow the gap, the commission said that public tuition should be allowed to increase by about 10 to 12 per cent a year until the fees reach the one-third level in 1983.

"These recommendations do not guarantee that all private colleges and universities will improve their position, but we believe that they create conditions whereby the well-administered private institution that performs a distinctive educational service can compete with tax-supported institutions on a more equitable basis the report said.

Private colleges and universities should be able to raise tuition at about the same rate as per capita disposable income, while the public schools should raise fees at a faster rate until they reach the one-third level, the commission said.

"We are opposed to any increase in tuition at public institutions except as such increases are offset by the availability of adequate student aid for lower-income students," the commission said.

Former Harvard president Nathan M. Pusey, former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton and Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California, are on the 19-member commission that made the report, the latest in a series on higher education.

The proposals for a major overhaul of higher education financing included stepped-up assistance programs for needy students to make the choice of private or public education easier, stabilizing support of graduate education and improving research funding so as not to divert funds from undergraduate schooling and creation of a student loan program with long-term repayment provisions depending on future income.

Nearly 128 pounds of drugs confiscated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A spokesman for the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement program said today agents have confiscated nearly 128 pounds of heroin and cocaine in the Southwest during the past year.

'Lord, show me where'

Woman saves grandson's life, stabs mountain lion to death

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI) — Mrs. Peter Underdahl, who killed a 120-pound mountain lion when it attacked her 1½-year-old grandson, today waited outside the hospital room where the tot was recovering from his injuries.

Mrs. Underdahl, her husband, their daughter and the grandson, Jason Cowden, were taking a camper ride through a wild animal tourist attraction called "Bear Country" Tuesday when the lion leaped into the camper.

Mrs. Underdahl's daughter, Mrs. Walter Cowden of Minneapolis, Minn., had opened the front window of the camper just wide enough to take a picture when the lion leaped for the opening, forced the window farther open, tore through a screen and made his way inside.

It leaped over Mrs. Cowden and landed on top of Jason — who was between the camper's two front seats — and began clawing and biting the boy.

Mrs. Underdahl, of Anoka, Minn., shouted to her husband for a knife. He handed her an 8-inch butcher's knife.

"I said a prayer that the good Lord would show me the right spot," Mrs. Underdahl recalled. She said she then drove the knife home and "jammed it in and twisted it." She made three jabs with the knife and the lion went limp.

Mrs. Cowden was bitten when she put her arms in the lion's mouth in an effort to help her son. Underdahl suffered bites on the hands and Mrs. Underdahl also was injured, but all were treated and released.

The head of the lion was sent to the state department of health for a rabies check.

Was asked for $100,000 donation--Union oil chief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The president of Union Oil Co. said Thursday that Maurice Stans, finance chairman of President Nixon's re-election committee, solicited a $100,000 donation from him, but didn't get it.

Fred L. Hartley said the request was made by Stans, former secretary of commerce now under indictment in New York in connection with a campaign contribution, and Leonard K. Firestone, Los Angeles industrialist and prominent Republican, who served as state finance chairman of the re-election committee.

Hartley said Stans and Firestone "on the afternoon of Feb. 17, 1972 . . . called on me in my office and told me they needed money for the campaign for the re-election of the President and would I like to give them $100,000.

"I told them I did not wish personally to make a contribution of such great magnitude and I pointed out to them that it was illegal for a corporation to give a campaign contribution to a federal election."

Hartley also referred to reports that the re-election at that time was trying to amass as much cash as possible before April 7, 1972 — the day that a law went into force requiring public identification of campaign donors.

Hartley said he told Stans and Firestone that even if he wanted to make a contribution, he would not do so until after the deadline "since my personal support of the American political system is one I do not have to hide from anyone."

Although corporations are barred by federal law from making political contributions, American Airlines has admitted it donated $55,000 to the Nixon campaign. The re-election committee returned the money at the airline's request Wednesday.

Hartley said he later made a much smaller contribution from his personal funds.

Moore says Nixon tried...

According to Moore, Dean told the President, "You know — people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

Moore said Nixon shtok his head negatively and did not encourage Dean to continue discussing the idea.

Dean has testified that he believes Nixon knew as early as Sept. 15 of the attempt to cover-up top-level involvement in the bugging of the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate three months previously.

"In this period of March, in five personal meetings with the President, in every single one of those meetings, I think," Moore testified, "he emphasized 'why don't we get our story out ourselves?'"

" 'Forthcoming' was the word he kept using, 'be forthcoming'," Moore said.

"That's one of the reasons I was convinced that the President had no blooming idea of what now turned out to be going on or he wouldn't be pressing to get it out," Moore said.

Moore's testimony came after Fred D. Thompson, the committee's minority counsel, asked him about meetings in March that he and Dean had with Nixon.

Dean testified in June that he had five conversations with Nixon —on Sept. 15, Feb. 27, Feb. 28, March 13 and March 21 -in which they discussed the Watergate cover-up.

In his prepared statement Thursday, Moore said the three men met in Nixon's Oval Office March 20, and "it seemed crystal clear to me that he (the President) knew of nothing that was inconsistent with the previously stated conclusion that the White House was uninvolved in the Watergate affair, before or after the event."

Nixon said later that he learned of "major depelopments" March 21 that led him to launch new White House inquiries into the case.

Moore said he never suspected a cover-up was in progress until late February or early March this year, when Dean began telling him what had been going on.

"Did you consider going to the President yourself to tell him?" asked Thompson.

"I was considering it seriously," Moore replied. "But all I had was gossip; nothing evidentiary ... I felt it was coming to a head, but I had nothing but hearsay, gossip and rumor. But I was worried."

He said he believed "implicitly and totally" until March that Nixon had been correct last Aug. 29 when he said —based on an investigation made by Dean —that no one in the White House or in the administration had been involved in the scandal.

"Did you have any knowledge of the cover-up?" Thompson asked.

"No, sir," Moore replied. "It was up and close to the date of March 19, 1973, where I had begun to be suspicious and Mr. Dean had intimated ... he was worried and might be involved."

But even then, Moore said, he did not suspect White House involvement.

"I was thinking about the people at the (Nixon campaign) committee who might have devised this cover-up plan —if there was one."

Moore said that up until March 20 it occurred to him that "someone should tell the President", but he said he had been dealing only in rumor.

"There was nothing to tie any of this activity to the White House ... I was growing increasingly concerned and wondering what my role should be."

Thompson asked Moore if he wondered whether Nixon knew about the incidents.

"I suppose I did," Moore said. "In my heart, I was totally convinced that the President...believed that no one in the White House had been involved."

Later, Moore said: "I certainly wish the minute I began to get suspicious that I had gone right to the President."

GM forced to make price tag disclosure in state

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — General Motors must tell California car buyers that the price tag on an auto doesn't necesarily show what it sells for.

GM and the state attorney general's office agreed Thursday that beginning with 1974 models, new cars will bear a sticker pointing out that the federally-required "manufacturers suggested retail price" may be higher than the going price for the auto.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said it is "dickering" with other auto manufacturers.

Automakers have been required since 1958 to attach to each new car a statement giving the "suggested retail price," but car dealers are not bound to observe the prices.

The attorney general's office brought a civil suit against GM four years ago, saying the sticker prices are usually "several hundred dollars" higher than the actual sale price most dealers will accept.

The Federal Trade Commission has taken automakers to task for allegedly inflating the sticker price so that dealers can offer fictitious discounts to buyers, and advertise price cuts that really only reduce the price to the cost accepted generally by other dealers.

The state sought an injunction and asked for fines that could have totaled more than $750 million.

The announcement Thursday said the suit had been settled by an agreement submitted to the superior court hearing the case.

GM, without admitting wrongdoing, agreed to put a sticker near the price sheet, reading:

"Notice to buyer: The manufacturer's suggested retail price is not necessarily indicative of the price at which the dealers in this area have been selling this automobile."

A GM spokesman said "We don't know yet if we'll do it in other states."

Dreary Friday the 13th

Weatherman acting spooky

After watching out for stray black cats, upright ladders and other pitfalls of the superstitious, Pomona Valley residents may find good news in the light smog forecast today but bad omens in the dreary weather outlook for the weekend.

Friday the 13th even has the weatherman spooked today. He has called for cooler weather today and over the weekend with morning low clouds and the chance of drizzles during the next 72 hours.

Forecaster Wilbur Shigihara of the National Weather Service office in Riverside said a flow of marine air combined with a low pressure area aloft is causing the gloomy weather which will remain for the next few days. He said the weather will warm up by early next week.

He forecast a high temperature today and Saturday of 83 degrees and a low temperature tonight of 58 degrees.

The weather observation station at Cal Poly reported a high temperature Thursday in Pomona of 82 degrees. This morning's low was 60 degrees.

Pomona Valley residents will get a break in the smog today. Light smog is forecast by both the Los Angeles and San Bernardino county air pollution control districts. The smog level in Pomona and Chino and Upland areas of San Bernardino County today is expected to be .15 parts per million.

The peak smog reading in Pomona Thursday was .15 ppm. The highest ozone reading in Los Angeles County Thursday was .23 ppm in Upper Santa Clara River Valley and .17 ppm in Azusa.

The peak reading in San Bernardino County was .30 ppm in Upland.

Although people from Scandinavian countries consider Friday as their luckiest day, other countries associate Friday the 13th as a day of bad luck when one should be cautious of accidents. This belief may stem from the fact that Christ was crucified on Friday and that 13 men were present at the last supper, as some folklore experts have explained the tradition.

This is the second, and last, Friday the 13th this year. The next will occur in September of 1974.

Defense attorney calls Beaty 'congenital liar'

SAN BERNARDINO — Defense attorney Charles R. Garry, giving his closing arguments in the Ronald Wayne Beaty escape-murder trial Thursday, vigorously attacked the credibility of Beaty, describing him as "either a pathological liar or a congenital liar."

Garry continued his final arguments today. Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph D. Canty will have an opportunity to make a rebuttal argument before the jury is instructed and begins deliberating.

Charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner in Beaty's escape Oct. 6, 1972, in Chino are Benton Douglas Burt, 30, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt, 19.

Beaty escaped when a state car bringing him to court was ambushed by persons in two other cars near the California Institution for Men. He was recaptured Dec. 11, pleaded guilty to first degree murder, and testified that the Burts were part of the carefully planned conspiracy to free him.

Garry's attack stemmed from Beaty's 1971 trial in Phoenix, Ariz., when he was tried for a kidnapping following his earlier escape from Chino in November 1970.

Beaty was convicted of commandeering a car containing a young couple and forcing them to drive him to Arizona.

In that trial Beaty testified that the alleged kidnap victims were accomplices in his escape.

In the Burt trial, Beaty said his testimony in the 1971 case was true, and added that he was assisted by Black Panther Party member George Jackson.

"Beaty couldn't manipulate the jury in 1971 in Arizona, and I don't think he's going to manipulate this jury in 1973," Garry said.

"We created him that way. He is a by-product of our rotten prison system—what those men go through, it's a wonder they have any sanity left at all. I understand Beaty. He has a warped mind, an agile mind, a mind that might be making some contribution if it had been changed 20 years ago."

Garry contended that Beaty implicated the Burts to obtain a favorable deal with the authorities. He listed the number of other pending charges which were dropped when Beaty pleaded builty to murder, and noted that he would likely be paroled after seven years.

Future of restaurant

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— The future in restaurant franchising belongs to those who franchise profits rather than ownership, according to James W. Morrell, president of Saga Enterprises.

Morrell said restaurant franchising is really financial marketing rather than merchandising marketing, since the idea already has been created and promoted when the franchise operator comes into the picture.

Assailant rapes woman in her home

ONTARIO — A 34-year-old Ontario woman was raped at knifepoint early this morning by an unidentified assailant who broke into her home.

Ontario police said the assailant, described as a Negro, 6 feet 5 or over wearing dark clothes and with a towel around his face, apparently broke into the home through a window in what may have been a robbery attempt.

The victim reported she was awakened in her bed about 4 a.m. by the man who forced her into the living room at knifepoint. In a struggle during the attack she received lacerations and bruises on her face and body.

Police are continuing their search for the assailant who fled the scene after the incident.

CIM tally: 1 escapee caught, another gone

CHINO — An inmate escaped from the California Institution for Men Thursday while working with a crew outside the main gate.

He is Frederick J. Johnson, 36, sentenced from Los Angeles County for murder and robbery.

"We believe someone drove into the area, picked him up, and they were gone," said Earl Muff, a prison official.

A helicopter was called to assist in a search.

Johnson was working on a medium security work crew in the area of staff residences. The crew contained 13 inmates and one guard. The escape occurred shortly before noon.

Meanwhile, an inmate who fled from the prison in heavy fog Monday was arrested Thursday at a home in Lennox.

He is Gary Baker, 28, who has his right leg amputated and requires crutches to walk. The inmate was sentenced from Los Angeles County for auto theft and parole violation.

Ping-pong flight makes history

IUKA, Miss. (UPI) — H. T. "Dick" Merrill of Iuka made aviation history with the first round trip trans-oceanic flight to England in a plane loaded with ping pong balls. He made the trip in 1928 on a mail flight with Pitcarin Aviation, now Eastern Air Lines.

County delinquents transferred to YTS

CHINO —Transfer of some of the county's juvenile delinquents to the Youth Training School here, to cut down overcrowding at juvenile hall, is now under way.

Twenty youthful offenders, wards of the Los Angeles County Probation Department, already are living in a beefed up unit of YTS, and 30 more are expected in the next few weeks.

Most of the youths are 16 and 17, and will stay an average of 30 days, pending disposition of their cases. Then they will be assigned to county camps, foster homes or to the care of the California Youth Authority.

Earl Brian, secretary of the state Health and Welfare Agency, praised the arrangement and called it an example of state-county cooperation to ease a common problem.

CYA officials said separate programs will be maintained for the Los Angeles County wards. County youths will not mingle with young men under youth authority jurisdiction.

The county youths will have a separate school program in one of the dayrooms, and will be supervised by their own custodial staff. The county will reimburse the state for all costs.

Librarians okay contract with Claremont Colleges

CLAREMONT — After seven months of negotiations, union librarians at the Honnold Library have reached an agreement on a two-year contract with Claremont Colleges administrators.

Under the terms of the contract, the first of its kind at the colleges, members of Local 30 of the Office and Professional Employes International Union, AFL-CIO, will receive higher salaries ranging from $450 per month for library assitants and preparations assistants, $475 for senior library assistants, and $500 for principal assistants. Beginning scale for librarians will decrease from $742 to $740 per month, although no current employes will receive a pay cut. Senior librarians salaries will increase from $777 to $780. Minimum student rates will increase five cents per hour each year.

Annual increases in all classifications will be $15 per month in the second year.

Group health, life insurance and retirement benefits will remain unchanged, as will the 37½-hour work week. Workers will become eligible for vacations earlier under the new contract, and an annual "floating" holiday has been added. Cumulative sick leave has also been lengthened.

Binding arbitration is a feature of revised grievance procedures established by the contract, as is compulsory union membership for new full time workers.

2 men sought in series of 3 holdups

POMONA — Two men may have been responsible for three holdups here Thursday night, police reported.

The first occurred in a laundromat at 838 W. Holt Ave. where Geraldine F. Liscano was forced at gunpoint to surrender her purse.

A few minutes later Charles E. Sheline was robbed of his wallet in front of 729 N Park Ave.

And a few minutes after that, Porter's Union Service at 1500 Gillette Ave. was robbed by a lone gunman who matched the description of one of the robbers involved in the earlier stickups.

Police said both were Negroes about 19. One was 5 feet 7, 155 pounds and had a 2-inch Afro hairdo. He wore a brown T-shirt, and blue jeans. The other was 6 feet tall, thin and wore a white-and-blue striped shirt, blue jeans and a blue knot cap. They were armed with a small-caliber revolver.

Drivers told to drink--coffee

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you have trouble staying alert behind the wheel on long trips, do what professional truck drivers do. That, says Clark Equipment Trailer Division, is:

Open the windows, play the radio, chew gum, make coffee stops at least every 150 miles or three hours or, if all else fails, pull off the road for a short nap.

'I was sterilized because I was from a welfare family'

NEW BERN, N.C. (UPI) — Eight years ago, says the American Civil Liberties Union, a pregnant 18-year-old black girl agreed to be temporarily sterilized so her mother and eight brothers and sisters could stay on welfare.

But the sterilization of Nial Ruth Cox, now 26 and a nurse's aide at Hempstead General Hospital on Long Island, N.Y., turned out to be permanent, the ACLU said. It filed a 1 million damage suit in U.S. District Court Thursday against the state of North Carolina and a doctor on behalf of Miss Cox.

At the time of the sterilization Feb. 10, 1965 the ACLU said, Miss Cox was living with her family in Plymouth, N.C. in a home that had neither electricity nor running water. Her father was dead.

"I got pregnant when I was 17," the ACLU quoted her as saying. "I didn't know anything about birth control or abortion. When the welfare caseworker found out I was pregnant, she told my mother that if we wanted to keep getting welfare, I'd have to have my tubes tied —temporarily.

"Nobody explained anything to me before the operation. Later on, after the operation, I saw the doctor and I asked him if I could have another baby. He said that I had nothing to worry about, that, of course, I could have more kids.

"I know now that I was sterilized because I was from a welfare family."

The ACLU did not identify the welfare worker.

The suit sought damages on the grounds that Miss Cox suffered "physical and emotional injuries as a result of the operation." It also asked the court to declare unconstitutional the North Carolina statute that allows the sterilization of mentally defective people, even though Miss Cox was not mentally defective.

Dr. A.M. Stanton of Plymouth said he performed the operation on Miss Cox at the state's request. He said his records showed the operation was performed after Miss Cox had two illegitimate children. He denied telling Miss Cox or her family the sterilization was temporary.

Several weeks ago, another $1 million damage suit was filed against a clinic in Montgomery, Ala., on behalf of two black giris wht were sterilized. As a result of the Montgomery sterilizations, congressional hearings have been held in Washington to determine whether federal funds should be cut off from clinics that perform such operations without the patient's full knowledge of the consequences.

RICHARD H. PEARSON

Nellie G. Aguilar

UPLAND — Mrs. Nellie G. Aguilar, wife of Robert Aguilar of 625 N. Second Ave., died Wednesday morning in San Antonio Community Hospital after a long illness.

She was bron July 4, 1921, in Claremont, and had been a resident of Upland for the past 15 years. She was a tax consultant and a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Survivors include, in addition to her husband, two daughters, Lettecia and Tearcia Aguilar of the home address; six sons, Tony of Montclair, Robert, George, Angel, Kevin and Charles, all of Upland; her mother, Mrs. Leah Gomez of Montclair; a sister, Mrs. Julia Salazar of Montclair; four borthers, Tony and Frank Gomez both of Montclair, Freddy Gomez of Upland and Paul Gomez of Claremont; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in Todd Memorial Chapel Claremont. Burial will follow in Oak Park Cemetery, Claremont. Friends may call at Todd Memorial Chapel Claremont from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight.

O-M district budget approved

Pearson to head school board

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The Ontario-Montclair school board Thursday afternoon elected trustee Richard H. Pearson as its president and approved the 1973-74 publication budget.

Pearson, a Montclair businessman who has served as a board member for 10 years, was the unanimous choice of his fellow board members to fill the post vacated by Harold Zenz. Zenz did not seek re-election as a member in last April's school board bailoting.

Elected along with Pearson were board members Samuel Di Giovanni as vice president, and Mrs. Rose Kelber as clerk.

In approving the publication budget, the board set Aug. 2 at 4 p.m. as the time for the public hearing on the final budget.

At that time, the board will also recommend a tax levy to maintain the Development Center for the Handicapped during this fiscal year. The tax increase, which will amount to about one cent is necessary, because the rate of income has not increased since the program began and costs have risen considerably.

The budget puts total revenue at $15,322,055 and total expenditures at $14,476,505. It also allows for a $1.01 reduction from the current tax total of $3.7933 per $100 assessed valuation.

A significant factor in establishing the budget was Assembly Bill 1267, which was signed into law this week by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A trailer bill to Senate Bill 90, AB 1267 provides several options which produce an increase in income to districts. The option most beneficial to the Ontario-Montclair district authorizes a change in the maximum base revenue increase in any one year from 115 per cent to 116 per cent. This feature, according to Asst. Supt. George Duerr, adds $104,360 from the state and is the portion of the trailer bill which the district agreed to share with the employes.

It also changes the formula to permit districts to recoup the 1972-73 loss of Public Law 874 entitlement. For the Ontario - Montclair district, this will mean added revenue of some $60,000.

The district will also receive another $200,000 in funds because the bill provides 50 per cent of the base revenue amount for the projected decrease in the average daily attendance, Duerr said.

In other business, they found established salaries for top-level administrators. In so doing, it approved pay hikes for the superintendent, the deputy superintendent, assistant superintendents and directors. The biggest increase came in the superintendent's salary which rose from $29,000 to $31,500.

These increases are not reflected in the publication budget. Along with the additional .43 per cent salary increase for certificated and classified employees resulting from the passage of AB 1267, they will be subtracted from the reserves and distributed in the appropriate categories in the final budget. This action will reduce the reserves to $795,500.

Salary schedules for certificated and classified employes approved at the June meeting are reflected in the publication budget.

First time in state history

Mass murder jury pick to be secret

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Ruling that Herbert W. Mullin's right to a fair trial on mass murder charges is "paramount,' the California Court of Appeal Thursday approved secret jury selection for the first time in state history.

The trial judge then recessed further proceedings in the case until Monday to allow state Attorney General Evelle Younger to appeal the unprecedented action to the state supreme court.

Twelve jurors have been tentatively seated for the trial of the 26-year-old onetime honor student, who is charged with slaying 10 persons during a three-week death spree that began Jan. 25.

The jurors were selected behind the closed doors in the chambers of Santa Cruz County Superior Court Judge Charles Franich.

Franich ordered the public and news reports barred during the selection at the request of Mullin, defense attorney James Jackson and District Attorney Peter Chang. The judge said this was to provide prospective jurors an atmosphere in which they could answer questions on their attitudes to homosexuality and mental problems.

Preston Devine, presiding judge of the Court of Appeal, said in his ruling in San Francisco: "The trial judge and counsel for both sides have agreed that this is a necessary procedure in order to assure a fair trial. This is the paramount duty of the court."

Younger contended the secret proceedings violated the First and Sixth amendments of the U.S. Constitution, which guarantee freedom to the press and speech and a person's right to a fair and speedy trial.

The attorney general said the people of California are interested in the Mullin trial and the judge's order would "deny their rights to a fair and public trial."

"The people are entitled to a fair trial as much as the accused," Younger told the appellate judges.

3 brothers enter plea of innocent

POMONA — Three La Verne brothers have pleaded innocent to charges of battery and disturbing the peace which resulted from a tracas involving police June 24.

They are Robert Keith Hausman, 25, of 833 Bonita Ave., and Jack Michael Hausman, 21, and Paul Douglas Hausman, 24, both of 2744 I St. Paul also was charged with resisting arrrest.

Police reported that Robert and Jack had to be subdued by officers who were sent to the 2700 block of Park Avenue in La Verne to see what they were doing parked in someone else's driveway. During the melee, Paul fled but turned himself in the next morning, officers said.

Judge Robert C. Gustaveson scheduled a pretrial hearing in the case July 16.

Former LBJ aide sees bigger credibility gap

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Former presidential press secretary Bill Moyers said Thursday the credibility gap of the Johnson administration pales in comparison to the Watergate scandal of the Nixon administration.

"What has emerged is the unsavory spectacle of the abuse of power at the highest level of government," Moyers said. "What we have is men whose single discernible moral injunction is the oldest commandment of all — 'Don't get caught.'

"Our credibility was so bad we couldn't believe our own leads," Moyers said of the Johnson administration. "But I'm telling you we're looking better and better.

"All of our faults were known," Moyers said. "This kind of thing (Watergate) did not take place."

Moyers addressed a convention of the Texas AFL-CIO. In addition to remarks about Watergate, Moyers also described the current administration as one with solid, irrevocable ties with big business and alligned against organized labor.

"This administration has failed to stop inflation because it cannot afford to do anything but put its rich friends first," Moyers said. "One reason you don't get tax reform in Washington that helps you is because the big corporations have made their contributions and bought their friends."

Farm labor organizer Cesar Chavez also spoke to the 900 delegates attending the state convention. Travis County deputy sheriffs cordoned off the podium during Chavez's speech and imposed other security measures because of an alleged $25,000 bounty on his head.

Smog emission 'secrets' freed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's office Tuesday announced the signing of a bill requiring public disclosure of the so-called "trade secrets" concerning smog emission.

The bill (SB156) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, requires public disclosure of air pollution emission data which previously had been withheld. Biddle has said the measure conforms state law with federal requirements.

'Mayonnaise widow' speaks out

United Press Telephoto

STILL COOKING—Mrs. Doris Judd does her culinary feats at home these days, however, since the University of California at Davis made her the "mayonnaise widow." The former UC foods employe has lost an appeal in the case, but plans to take it to the courts.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The "mayonnaise" widow who was fired for allegedly being too slow with sauerkraut and too generous with egg salad Thursday identified herself.

She is Doris Judd, 59, the mother of five married children.

Mrs. Judd, who was employed for seven years as a food services employe at the Davis campus of the University of California, termed her dismissal an "injustice."

Labeling the charges against her as "ridiculous," she said in an interview, "They were so minor it really made me mad."

Mrs. Judd agreed to make her name public in hopes it would prevent similar future cases and encourage workers to "be more aware of their rights."

Her attorney, Loren McMaster, has lost an appeal of her dismissal to University of California President Charles J. Hitch and plans to file a lawsuit against the school.

McMaster had declined to release the woman's name without her permission. University officials have refused to comment about the firing.

Mrs. Judd said she was "bowled over by the headlines" about her case. She was vacationing at the time it was first reported in the news media.

She said her problems began when she was transferred to the sandwich department.

"In essence I was supposed to get the sandwiches out in two hours less time than had previously been done," she declared.

The charges against her included the following:

—Failing to spread mayonnaise all the way to the edge of the sandwich bread.

—Taking an average of 1.3 minutes each to put sauerkraut on 50 hot dogs and wrap them.

—Making a five-cent error on the prices of five ham and cheese sandwiches.

Mixing too much egg salad spread on one day and forgetting to make two submarine sandwiches for workers at the Primate Center for three days in a row.

"I can refute every one of them," said Mrs. Judd, whose work record was unblemished prior to her dismissal.

"They didn't have anything against me."

Mrs. Judd expects to get a job with a local department store. She was unemployed following her firing last February, but has managed to live on money from the sale of her house. She said she planned to sell her home for some time and did not do so as the result of the loss of her job.

Reagan asks rejection of remap plans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In a brief, Gov. Ronald Reagan Thursday urged three special masters studying reapportionment of California's legislative districts to reject plans offered by the state legislature.

He said he doesn't think the redistricting formula he vetoed in a legislative bill should be adopted by the California Supreme Court. The high court will ultimately decide on boundary lines for the state's congressional, Assembly and Senate districts.

The masters must report to the high court by Aug. 31 on their version of reapportionment under federal and state guidelines conforming to the 1970 census.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The spoils system was practiced by American politicians until Congress passed the Federal Civil Service Act of 1883. In 1832, William Marcy defended Martin Van Buren's appointment as minister to London saying that he could see "nothing wrong in the rule that to the victor belong the spoils of the enemy." ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will resent anyone who tries to exercise authority over you today. Relax. Play it cool.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When called upon to help someone else today, be wise. Don't let them know how much it is putting you out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think twice about borrowing anything from friends today. Make do with what you have, or do without.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone with whom you'll be sharing the day may get more attention from another than you. Watch your temper.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best you leave until another time tasks you resent performing. They'll only make you grumble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Romantic areas are still tender today. Don't expect more from another than they can expect from you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're to have any peace and quiet today you'd be wise to plan it outside the house.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Work you didn't plan on will bite into the leisure time you expected to enjoy. Get it out of the way early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be tempted to blow your hard cash on frivolous things today. Later, you'll regret these expenditures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be very short-tempered with a member of your family today. Best you give each other a wide berth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) You're presently harboring resentment against another. Forget it. A grudge is too heavy a burden to carry.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An idea you have is more costly than practical, yet you will spend money on it today.

Brides still get aid willed by bachelor in 1824

NEW ROADS, La. (UPI) — Julien Poydras, a statesman, poet and philanthropist who died a bachelor in 1824, bequeathed to the Parishes (counties) of West Baton Rouge and Pointe Coupee $30,000, the interest from which he directed to be paid yearly to brides in these Parishes who were 'in pitiable circumstances."

The bequest still is bestowed annually to West Baton Rouge Parish brides who apply.

Former solon's aide admits idea for P-F funding

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A onetime top aide to former Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan said today it was "my idea" to contribute to Peace and Freedom party candidates in hopes of drawing votes away from Democrats.

Jerry Simpson made the comment following a disclosure by Frank DeLong, an employe of the Assembly Republican caucus, that he secretly provided $700 to $800 to Peace and Freedom candidates in last year's primary.

Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. is conducting an investigation into apparent "violations of the law" in connection with the contributions. An aide to Brown said the alleged illegal actions involve failure to report campaign contributions and expenditures.

DeLong said Simpson gave him the funds in the form of checks which DeLong cashed and distributed in cash and money orders to "conceal the fact" that it came from GOP sources.

Simpson said in an interview that he could not specifically remember giving the funds to DeLong for the purpose of helping campaigns on behalf of the ultraliberal, antiwar party.

But Simpson added, "I certainly would have approved of the idea. It was my idea in the first place.

"I do not doubt that I gave the money to Frank DeLong. I don't think he would lie about it. I haven't talked to Frank since he got back. And I have done that kind of on purpose because I just didn't want to get involved in a Watergate coverup situation," Simpson said.

The former aide to Monagan, who left the legislature to join the Department of Transportation in the Nixon administration, said he encouraged "people to undertake that kind of operation (funding Peace and Freedom candidates) on the local level."

According to one published report, Monagan has denied knowledge of the contributions.

DeLong was prevented for more than a week from talking to reporters about the contributions as a result of a "gag" by the current Assembly GOP leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach.

DeLong said he received permission to talk to the news media about the case the following Tuesday's special Assembly election in San Joaquin County. It was narrowly won by Republican Doug Carter, a former aide to Monagan.

DeLong said he maintained his silence through the election so as not to "disrupt" it.

He declared he did not originate the idea of funding Peace and Freedom candidates.

"I was the plumber. The whole operation was very off-the-cuff, something I squeezed in," he said.

DeLong said he felt "no moral compunctions" at the time, but that he wouldn't do it again."

"It's not the Republican style," he declared.

DeLong said the idea to fund Peace and Freedom candidates developed because of the Republican "belief" that Democrats were helping American Independent Party candidates in hopes of siphoning votes away from GOP candidates.

DeLong said he provided $192 for the filing fee of Peace and Freedom candidate Charles J. Vail of Concord. The general election was won by Assemblyma Daniel E. Boatwright of Concord.

DeLong also said money was provided in other races including the one eventually won by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Santa Rosa.

Reinecke demurs in probe of campaign

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has questioned Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s finding that two legislative aides did not violate the law in working in the campaign of a Democratic candidate under assumed names.

"I am no lawyer, but lawyers tell me it is illegal to use an assumed name for purposes of deception or fraud," Reinecke said Thursday. "I wonder if the secretary of state has looked into these aspects of the matter."

Reinecke expressed hope Brown would "reconsider his thinking or at least give further study to this practice." Both he and Brown are contenders for governor next year.

Earlier this week, Reinecke called for an investigation of a report that two legislative aides worked under false names in the unsuccessful Assembly campaign of Democrat Carmen Perino in San Joaquin while continuing to draw salaries from their regular jobs.

A spokesman for Brown said an investigation showed no violation of the law "as far as we could determine."

"At a time when the shoddy political practices of Watergate have rocked our nation, I believe it is imperative that politicians and their staffs strive to be above suspicion and above reproach," Reinecke said in a statement.

Reinecke was questioned last month by the FBI about his testimony at a U.S. Senate committee hearing on his role in the ITT-Republican National Convention controversy. The controversy involved ITT's offer to underwrite the convention at a cost of $400,000 prior to the Justice Department's settling out-of-court a pending antitrust action against the firm.

Not enough U.S. aid to remove dead trees

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan complains that federal aid so far in alleviating the dead eucalyptus tree fire hazard in the Oakland and Berkeley Hills has fallen "far short" of what is needed.

In a statement prepared for Congress and released here Thursday, the governor called for approval of a $11 million bill to finance efforts to head off what he said could be "one of the most devastating and destructive disasters from fire in the state's history."

Approximately two million eucalyptus trees were killed by deadly frost last winter and since have become ready kindling for possible wild fire in the heavily populated hills.

In the statement, Reagan told the House Agriculture Committee that state and local governments already have spent $8 million to reduce the hazard but $8 million will be needed to eliminate the threat of a "major disaster" by fire.

He cited the fashionable Montclair area of Berkeley as a "major problem" section for which federal aid had not been approved by the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

"We need federal assistance if we are to prevent what could be one of the most devastating and destructive disasters from fire in the state's history," he said.

He said projects approved by the federal agency extended to fire breaks and "increased readiness" to fight fire, "but fall far short of that which is needed to allow local government to adequately cope with the problem."

Reagan said the federal office had approved only $2 million to prevent a major fire in the tinder dry region.

Welfare work plan given HEW backing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Thursday he was "very pleased" that HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger had given full approval to the state's controversial work or else welfare program.

Praising the Community Work Experience Program (CWEP) as a "considerable success," Reagan said, "the movement of welfare recipients off the public assistance rolls into self-supporting employment is running at a rate of 45.5 per cent in counties with CWEP contracts."

Counties without such work programs, have only an 11 per cent reduction, the governor said.

Weinberger announced HEW approval of the program earlier in the day in Washington. Reagan noted that the program has repeatedly been challenged in the courts and legislature, yet statistically it continued to show success.

"We have been having considerable success with our programs for job-capable welfare recipients," Reagan said. "Every program that moves actual or potential welfare recipients into real jobs benefits not only the individual, but also the economy and the taxpayer."

Reagan also said CWEP had helped "chronically unemployed" persons "who have a desire to be self sufficient, but have social, educational or vocational handicaps which make it difficult for them to find and hold jobs."

The governor also said CWEP "provides an incentive to those few welfare recipients who would rather live off the earnings of others than support themselves, even though they are capable of performing an honest day's work.

"When given the option of finding regular employment or performing public service jobs for their welfare check, they often leave the welfare rolls entirely," Reagan said.

Earl Brian, state Health and Welfare Agency director, said that 16 counties are currently participating in the CWEP pilot project. Eventually, 35 of the state's 58 counties will join the project, Brian said.

State takes report, but gingerly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Reports urging improved minority hiring practices in California schools and "alternative" approaches to classroom desegration were gingerly accepted Thursday by the state Board of Education.

Acknowledging the controversial nature of the material, board members made clear they were not approving or endorsing either report.

Both were prepared by the Equal Education Opportunities Commission, a group appointed and supervised by the board. They were submitted during the final scheduled board meeting of the summer.

Titled "A Design to Promote and Improve Minority Hiring Practices," one of the reports said statewide statistics show "a continuing lag in the representation of minorities at the professional staff level."

It stated that "discriminatory hiring and promotion practices in the past, and some extent at present, are responsible for this situation."

The 19-page document called for "imaginative, aggressive and sustained action by a district's staff to devise recruiting, training and other career advancement programs that will result in increased minority and women representation ..."

Gunman prays, kills self

United Press Telephoto

AFTER THE ORDEAL—Carol Wroth, 24, leans on her husband's shoulder outside their Placerville home after a gunman holed up in the house killed himself rather than surrender. Nathaniel Worth was held hostage after his wife slipped out a window with their baby daughter.

Hostage says prayers saved him from death

PLACERVILLE (UPI) — Nathaniel Worth, a 24-year-old father held hostage at gunpoint for nearly three hours by an escaped murderer, believes his release came only after he convinced his captor to join him in prayer.

"While we were in there we both prayed," Worth said Thursday, the day after his ordeal ended when the gunman committed suicide as deputies ringed the Worth home.

"I started it I guess," Worth said. "I told him I would pray for him. He said okay, that he knew he would die if he went out there. He said he knew he wouldn't survive."

Worth, his wife, Carol, also 24, and their baby daughter were not harmed. Mrs. Worth and the baby were able to slip into a bedroom and escape out a window after the fugitive forced his way into their home.

The gunman, Julius McDaniel, 45, also known as Jack Tippett, was fleeing on foot from sheriff's deputies following a shootout in which he was wounded in the hand when he came to the Worth's Diamond Springs home.

"It was just like a nightmare," Worth said. "He had a gun to my back all the time. It's just hard to believe. You never think anything like this is going to happen."

McDaniel, who reportedly carried so-called death list of persons he considered his enemies, escaped from Deuel Vocational Institute in Tracy May 17. He was convicted in Kern County Aug. 9, 1972 of the beating death of Bakersfield restaurant owner Freddi Giovanetti during a robbery.

"I didn't think he was going to let me go," Worth said. "I thought I was going to die."

When McDaniel finally released him, Worth said, "He told me he was going to shoot himself. He said he was sorry he had to do it in my house."

Pro-UFW clergy given rebuke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons says he was "thoroughly amazed" to learn that clergymen backing Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers union know almost nothing about collective bargaining.

Fitzsimmons, whose union is battling the UFW over who will represent farm workers, Thursday criticized Roman Catholic priests and other clergymen who support Chavez in a speech to the Comstock Club of businessmen.

His appearance was picketed outside by about a dozen protesters who shouted UFW slogans and waved familiar black eagle banners. He later confronted several briefly and declared "I'm not afraid" to hold secret ballot union representation elections.

Fitzsimmons said he was "thoroughly amazed at the nearly total vacuum of knowledge in the collective bargaining process by those who fanatically support that 20th Century mystic—Cesar Chavez."

He charged the clergy lacked "expertise" to deal in complex collective bargaining and labor-management relations.

Fitzsimmons complained that his office had received nine bags of mail protesting violence after a priest who supported Chavez was struck at an Indio cafe.

On the other hand, he said he had received not one letter protesting violence when Teamster headquarters in Salinas were shot up and one of his top farm workers organizers suffered a severe head injury at the hands of what he said were Chavez supporters.

He said Congress could solve the farm labor problem by enacting legislation including farm workers under the National Labor Relations Act. He said farm workers would settle the problem at union elections conducted by the board.

Hit-run victim's mom besieged by guilty man

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Ann Moore said Thursday a telephone caller who admits he ran down and killed her 10-year-old daughter now wants to see her to discuss dropping hit-and-run charges.

Mrs. Moore vows she will keep after the man until his identity is established and he is punished for the death of her daughter, Denise.

The girl was run down and killed by a speeding truck last March.

"He called three times today," Mrs. Moore said. "He hung up twice. The third time, at 12:25 p.m., he said he wanted to get together. I said, 'Come on. You know where I live.'"

Mrs. Moore said the harassing calls began in June after she ran a series of appeals in the personal columns of Chicago newspapers asking for information on the hit-and-run driver.

She said the man, who telephones several times a day, usually asks that Mrs. Moore and her husband, Freeman, stop trying to find him because it would ruin his family.

"You can't get Denise back," Mrs. Moore quotes the man as saying repeatedly.

"He is a malicious man," Mrs. Moore said. "He thinks he is God and can make me stop chasing him. But I tell him that I'm going to keep after him."

$10 million more

Schools get higher than expected funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he has signed legislation giving schools the state aid they were promised —and more —under a new education finance and property tax relief law.

The bill (AB1267) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, allows some school districts, such as Los Angeles, to escape temporarily a freeze imposed on their property tax rates.

The measure also provides $10 million more for school programs than had been promised and $51 million more than was anticipated last year for property tax rollbacks, Reagan said in a statement Thursday.

The school aid provision now totals $235 million and property tax relief $280 million, Reagan said.

The measure was designed to clean up technical problems in the $1.1 billion school aid property tax law enacted last year. The law could have financially penalized school districts if it had not been modified by the Gonsalves bill.

The Gonsalves measure permits school districts to increase their expenditures by $5 per student.

A rational alternative to rationing gas.

What's right with this picture? Well if it were true, we'd be saving 28 billion, 560 million gallons of gas every year.

How did we arrive at that figure? Since we're a nation of national averages, we know the average car uses about 735 gallons of gas a year. The Beetle, 399*. Turn the eighty-five million average cars on the road right now into Beetles, and it works out to a saving of 28,560,000,000 (give or take a few gallons).

Now we haven't figured out all the water and antifreeze that would be saved with the Beetle's air-cooled engine.

Nor can we compute the extra parking space that would be around.

Not to mention all the money people would be able to save in a world of Volkswagens.

But we know for sure that this is no pipe dream. There already are police car Beetles up in Ossining. And a custom built, chauffeur-driven Bug in L. A. And Volkswagen taxis all over Honduras. And a Beetle that herds cattle in Missouri.

So with gas prices going up and rationing becoming a reality, the Beetle never looked so good. In fact, you might almost call it beautiful.

PUBLIC BID SALE

You can pretty much name your own price this week at Pacific Stereo. All you do is walk in, pick out whatever you want and write down your bid for it.

A salesperson will take the bid to the manager; if he thinks it's at all reasonable you've got a deal. Consider the Koss headphones you see here: they're usually $49.95 but you can bid as low as you like, say 35 bucks for starters. You'll never know until you try, so go ahead, be bold and bid what YOU want to pay. You can only bid on items we've tagged with bid signs, but that includes just about the whole store. Go to it and happy hunting.

Try for a popular Harman-Kardon system

The Harman-Kardon 330A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 45 watts (RMS), ample power for room-filling volumes with the efficient TransAudio speakers. Its tuner section is among the better ones we've found in this price range, and the convenience features include separate bass and treble controls for each channel. The price for all this is a surprisingly low $239.95. (The walnut case is optional).

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's price is $60.90.

When you hear the strong, clean bass of the TransAudio 1010's, you'll be amazed that they cost only $119.90 a pair. They're two-way systems with a ten-inch acoustic suspension bass speaker.

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Harman-Kardon 330A	$239.95
Garrard 40B with base and Empire 999XE/X	60.90
TransAudio 1010 (pair)	119.90
Total	$420.75

Looking for your first system?

Superscope's R330 would be an excellent choice for your first receiver. Its amplifier puts out 18 watts (RMS) of power, ample for the efficient Audio Design speakers in this system, and the AM/FM stereo tuner section will bring in your favorite stations sounding a lot better than they ever did on your table radio. You'll also find a full complement of convenience controls, including a loudness contour, and the $179.95 price tag includes the walnut case.

A record player as good as the BSR 310 ought to cost more than $49.45. A cueing level protects your records, and so does the anti-skate device.

The 310 comes complete with a base and a Shure M75CS cartridge already installed.

The Audio Design 806 is a two-way speaker system with an eight-inch bass speaker. They sell for $99.90 a pair and deliver the kind of clear, natural bass lines you could never get from that radio either.

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Superscope R330	$179.95
BSR 310 with base and Shure M75CS	49.45
Audio Design 806 (pair)	99.90
Total	$329.30

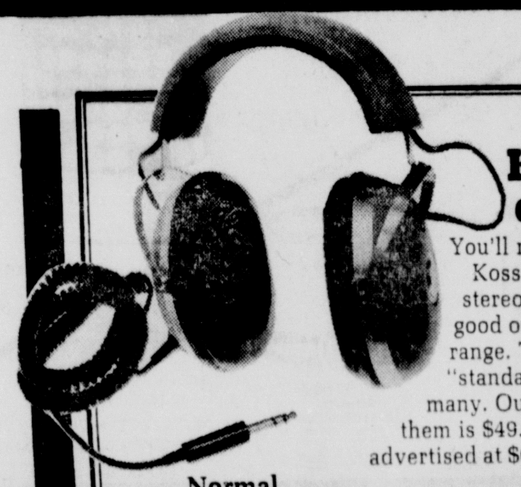
Koss's best dynamic 'phones



You'll really have to hear the Koss Pro-4AA to believe stereophones can sound so good over so wide a dynamic range. They're considered the "standard" dynamic phones by many. Our normal low price for them is $49.95. (They're nationally advertised at $60.)

Normal Selling Price $49.95

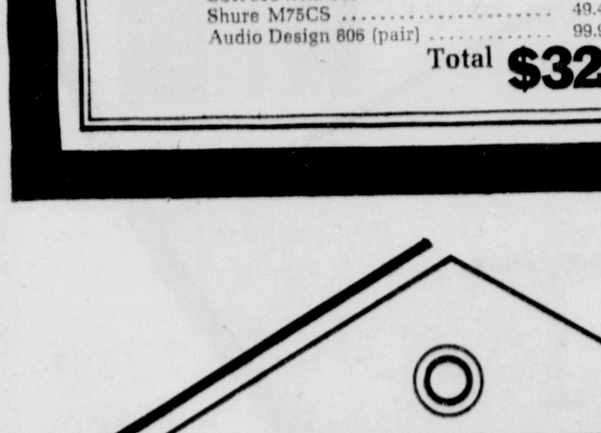
A superb Tandberg tape recorder

The Tandberg 6041X is a really extraordinary tape recorder, easily one of the finest made. This quarter-track deck gives you the flexibility of three recording speeds ($1^7/_8$, $3^3/_4$, $7^1/_2$), and a built-in peak limiter makes sure you never overload the tape. If you've been thinking about getting a tape recorder or trading in the one you have for something better, come in today and we'll show you around the Tandberg 6041X. It'll deliver superlative sound, and that's what you're after, isn't it? We usually sell the Tandberg for $529.80, and it's worth every penny.



Normal Selling Price $529.80

Put an end to tracking error distortion

Garrard's Zero 100 is the only automatic record player around that eliminates tracking error and the resultant distortion; it does it with a unique articulated tonearm that permits the stylus to follow the same path in the groove that the original cutter took. You'll hear cleaner, crisper sound from all your records. You've probably seen the Zero 100 advertised for $199.95; here's a chance to try naming your own price.

Normal Selling Price $199.95 A base and Empire 999ZE/X elliptical cartridge can be included for 1c extra.

A FULLY-EQUIPPED SERVICE DEPARTMENT IN EVERY STORE

You can get fast, skillful service at Pacific Stereo for any and all distressed stereo equipment, whether or not you originally bought it from us. Of course we don't charge for any work performed under our own warranties, or under those of the manufacturers for whom we act as a repair station. We've established flat rate labor charges for all non-warranty work, and posted them conspicuously in every service department. Pacific Stereo also covers all repair work with a no-hassle 90-day service warranty; if anything goes wrong after we've fixed it, you'll only pay for the parts that didn't come from us in the first place.

Landlords react in cleaning feud, dig up plenty of dirt

I read your article in the July 2 edition of the paper about the people who reportedly had a problem obtaining a refund of their security and cleaning deposits.

In view of repeated articles on tenant-landlord disputes, I feel it is time that the landlord's position be expressed.

To this end I invite the Action Line reporter to come visit the apartment house that I manage. I just had two tenants move out. One was refunded his cleaning and security deposit. I withheld the cleaning deposit of the other tenant and have no intention of refunding a single penny.

I would like you to inspect both apartments, then in your judgment determine whether you feel I am justified in retaining the entire $35 cleaning deposit of this one tenant who incidentally insists that the apartment was thoroughly cleaned and threatened court action if I did not return the deposit.—A.P., Claremont.

One apartment which A.P. showed us was undoubtedly cleaner than the other.

Although the occupant of the latter had tried o clean up, there were spots in the carpet, dust in the drapes, hard deposits of soap and sediment on sinks and in the shower.

A ledge above the stove was greasy. A little cooked-on grease remained in the oven.

Hangers had been left in the closets. Walls were scuffed.

"It's the way they live," the apartment manager commented. He estimated that it would cost him $16 to have the carpet cleaned, $36 for general cleaning and $8 to have the drapes cleaned.

Both tenancies began before he arrived as manager two years ago. Since then, he has instituted a $50 cleaning fee, not refundable.

"That way, they can leave it as dirty as they like and we're still friends," he says.

Prospective new tenants are handed a long agreement to sign. A.P. claims he makes them sit down and read it before they pick up a pen.

A.P. mentioned but didn't elaborate on a security fund. When we questioned him about it, we learned that it was $100 and was refundable only if the tenant stayed 12 months.

While we sympathize with the problems of a landlord who has to see to the cleaning up and breakage after a tenant moves out, we think the $100 would seem like an undue burden to a renter who stayed only two months, like the one whose letter appeared in Action Line July 2.

We join A. P. in urging the practice of reading before you sign.

Since today, Friday the 13th, turns out to be landlords' day for Action Line, we'll let a landlady have the last word:

Reading the B.H., San Dimas, story on July 2 raised my dander. I own rentals and while generally people give few problems, there is an occasional one who makes the whole business not worth a dime.

The more they raise a stink the more likely they stink!

You ought to see what they call clean! i've just had two vacating. One got all her stuff out, forgetting to leave some of mine. She swung a dirty mop over the floor and left the windows so dirty you could not see out. A desk, dresser, etc., were all unwashed and the curtains were dirty.

I don't even go through the battle of collecting a cleaning fee and having to fight over it.

The other was an eviction and it's heaven to have him gone, but he was back for mail and I caught him going through another's mail box today. He was noisy and offensive when I asked what he was doing.

What I am really saying is: Be very cautious about such complaints. I've been in this business many years in Pomona and years before that. It's so funny, the quiet, peace-loving people are usually the clean ones who leave you nothing to complain of or have no complaint about you.—Mrs. R.A. Pomona.

Question: how will it be used?

Schools mull return of 10-cent tax

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Because of enabling state legislation, the Pomona Unified School District is expected to reinstate the 10-cent per $100 of assessed valuation permissive community service tax but there is doubt as to how those revenues will be used, officials said Thursday night.

City Parks and Recreation Director Jack Hoxsey and Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz, speaking at a meeting of the Parks and Recreation Commission, said a special, joint session of the City Council and school board probably would be called before Aug. 1 in an attempt to resolve the matter.

The city would like to see funds from the permissive tax used to bolster the local recreation program which recently was drastically cut after the school district withdrew as a joint sponsor.

But Wentz said the district is looking into an approach to a community recreation program that is different than the past city-schools program.

The enabling legislation is Assembly Bill 1267, passed as a trailer bill to the earlier Senate Bill 90 which prohibited school districts from levying the community service tax.

After SB 90 became law, the district pulled out as a joint sponsor and the local recreation program subsequently was cut about one-third. Later, the program was strengthened by the council by using federal revenue sharing funds.

Hoxsey said the district's share of financing amounted to about $120,000.

Under the provisions of AB 1267, the 10-cent tax would raise about $225,000 but at the same time the district's general fund would be reduced by that amount because of decreased state support, Dr. Wentz said.

He said regulations permitted revenues from the permissive tax to be used in three areas—for opening to the community the use of school property, for pupil supervision during lunch time and for community recreation.

He said district auditing for the past fiscal year showed it cost the district some $400,000 for those uses but the permissive tax raised a much smaller amount.

Hoxsey and commissioners questioned the method for arriving at those figures.

"It's amazing what you can do with figures," Dr. Ivan Smith, commission chairman, commented.

Hoxsey asked whether costs to the district for allowing its buildings and grounds to be used for community services were separated from the costs incurred for using the same facilities for educational purposes.

The intent of the community recreation tax when legislated in 1937, said Hoxsey, was to permit millions of dollars in school facilities to be opened to the public when not used for educational purposes.

Wentz said there was no doubt in his mind but that the 10-cent tax would be levied by the board, adding that the decision on how much would be spent for each of the three categories would be up to the trustees.

However, in an attempt to increase participation in the recreation program, the district is considering a noon-time and after-school program that would not require hiring additional supervisory personnel, would be coordinated by each of the school principals and would have the costs absorbed by the district, Wentz said.

"This doesn't really meet the criteria of a community services program," Hoxsey remarked.

The key the district is looking for, Wentz replied, is a strong program. "We think we can increase the numbers of kids participating with a program during daytime and after school."

Hoxsey said he would be "very wor- program ought to be more than that, such as to include activities for weekends, evenings and events.

Hoxsey said he would be "very worried" if a principal took the position the program at his school was open only to students from that school because "it shuld be for the entire community."

Wentz replied that it would be the district's responsibility to see that did not happen.

Elected planning chairman

New zone ordinance urged by Vlietstra

POMONA — The new chairman of the Pomona Planning Commission favors revamping the city's zoning ordinances to meet present needs and demands.

This would include parking restrictions, street widths, signs and service stations.

"I would like to see that once an ordinance is made, there is no need for variances. Everyone would be treated on an equal basis," said Bart Vlietstra.

Vlietstra, 40, a janitorial maintenance contractor, was elected commission chairman this week to succeed Jerry Shepard whose term expired.

Other officers include J. Romo, vice chairman, and E. J. Gaulding, secretary. New members taking seats on the commission were John Nabarette and W. R. Hagstrom.

Vlietstra predicts a large growth for Pomona because of the freeway systems. The planning commission, he added, can assist by giving guidance and providing proper controls in this growth.

He said other areas of concern include massage parlors and the providing of child care centers in new residential developments.

Vlietstra, appointed to the commission in 1968, served the past year as secretary and vice chairman.

Palomares Adobe open to visitors

POMONA — Pomona Valley's first adobe dwelling, originally built in 1837, will be open to the public Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and thereafter every Saturday and Sunday at the same hours, it was announced by Elizabeth Zilles, chairman of the adobe committee.

The landmark is the first Palomares Adobe, also known as La Casa Primera de Rancho San Jose, at the southwest corner of McKinley and Park avenues. There is no admission charge for touring the adobe and grounds. Mr. and Mrs. James T. Green are host caretakers of the adobe.

The adobe was purchased a year ago at auction for $85,000 by the Historical Society of Pomona Valley. Subsequently, the City Council voted to acquire the historic home over a four-year period.

Move considered by Chess Club

POMONA — The newly formed Pomona Pawn Pushers chess club is threatening to outgrow its location in the Central Park recreation room.

Acting president Howard Lowell, who founded the club four weeks ago in his home, said the capacity of the meeting place is only 30, "and we're almost at that now."

Regardless, Lowell said, "we're still taking anyone who wants to play."

Club meetings are held in Central Park each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. Anyone interested in attending may contact Lowell at 627-1656.

Railroader steams ahead

POMONA — The on-again, off-again redevelopment project for the construction of a Railroader Restaurant at the former heliport site is moving ahead but this time under a different arrangement.

Plans for the $150,000 restaurant were approved last Oct. 9 in a redevelopment agreement reached between City Council, sitting as the redevelopment agency's governing board, and the Railroader Food Corp.

But the project became stalled in April because of a court decision involving the city of Salinas which cast doubts on the legality of some provisions of the Pomona agreement.

In the Salinas case, the sale of or lease to a private bank of property acquired for off-street parking by a vehicle parking district or the city was challenged, said City Manager Fred Sharp.

The Pomona development would have used property originally acquired through Vehicle Parking District No. 1 in the 1960s for a heliport, which later went out of business.

The restaurant site includes part of the former heliport south of Commercial Street and west of Main Street.

The city through VPD was able to assemble the land for the heliport after nine citizens agreed to put up $20,000 each to buy portions of the site.

At the time the redevelopment agreement was approved in October, VPD had been making interest payments to the private owners on the contract purchase of the property.

Under the new arrangement, the lien holders of the four parcels south of Commercial and west of Main will release the VPD from its obligation to acquire the southern portion, 53 feet wide and 261 feet long, where the restaurant will be built.

The lien holders then would deal directly with the food corporation on the lease of the 53-foot-wide strip.

Charles T. Richardson, representing the lien holders, said they were willing to make the changes in order to help the city. "It will in no way benefit directly those offering to make this sacrifice in the public interest," he said.

The October agreement had come under extensive negotiations after the council several times had rejected the terms advanced by the developer.

The agreement when finally approved was a complicated one that involved the developer, city government, redevelopment agency, the private property owners and VPD 1.

Under the new agreement, approved by the council the city's obligation for acquiring the heliport site through the parking district will be reduced by $20,000.

Lien holders will pay the $3,000 cost for annexing the strip to the parking district. Actual annexation proceedings will be carried out by the city.

Th city also will be responsible for constructing a parking lot north of the restaurant site at an estimated cost of $11,000, and for making certain off-site improvements estimated to cost $6,000.

Richardson said the new arrangement would accomplish the following:

— Allow the portion of the property under lease to be placed on the assessment rolls where it will be subject to all property taxes and special assessments.

— Enable the lease with the restaurant to be made between private parties, eliminating the necessity of the city entering into the negotiations.

— Improve the downtown image and economic strength by adding another important traffic generator.

— Add site improvements of about $150,000 which would be subject to personal property taxes.

— Provide additional sales tax revenue to the city.

E. J. Gaulding, a planning commissioner, said he thought the new arrangement amounted to a "heavy government subsidy" of the project.

$1,566.06 surprise

Old fuel tank hikes Roosevelt costs

POMONA — The cost of rebuilding Roosevelt Elementary School went up $1,566.06 this week.

That's how much it cost to drain and haul away the ancient underground fuel oil tank contractors unearthed at the site.

"Heaven knows how long it has been there," said Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, at this week's school board meeting.

"It undoubtedly dated back to the days when the school was heated with fuel oil. We know it was very old. It was covered with blacktop."

Roosevelt, a pre-1933 school, is being rebuilt largely by state money. Barnes Construction Co., Claremont, is the contractor. Its bid on the project was $945,500.

Nichols said workmen are "making pretty good progress."

He said kindergarten floors are poured and walls are up, main walls on the Huntington side are going up and window and door casings are there.

In other actions, the school board:

— Accepted resignations from six teachers, hired two psychologists for next year and promoted Stanley P. Peterson, a teacher at Lorbeer Junior High School, to counselor at Alcott Elementary School.

— Approved professional advancement salary increments for 27 certificated personnel effective Sept. 10.

— Approved names of 113 substitute teachers for 1973-74 at a pay rate of $32 per day and established a library clerk position.

— Approved the hiring of 94 student aides under the Neighborhood Youth Corps work training project. They are to be paid $1.65 an hour.

— Named six administrators as the board's representatives for the meet-and-confer sessions with the Certificated Employes Council (CEC) for 1973-74. They are Supt. Robert E. Wentz, Asst. Supt. Lynn Rountree, Asst. Supt. Sidney G. Moses, Asst. Supt. Garrett C. Nichols, Pomona High School principal Joseph E. Andrews and Alcott Elementary School principal David A. Gallagher.

At the same time, the board reserved the right to secure services of professional consultants.

— Approved a request from Pomona Day School Teen Summer Project to use three classrooms at North San Antonio Elementary School through Aug. 17 where high school students will tutor elementary pupils under the supervision of college students.

Erie Street will remain Erie Street

POMONA — Erie Street will not be renamed Orlando Street.

This proposal was withdrawn Wednesday night when it came before the Pomona Planning Commission.

Bill Rudnick, owner of Orlando's Restaurant, had suggested the name change since his restaurant serves as a "direction corner."

The new name, however, was protested by firms and residents along Erie Street, which extends from the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks to Orange Grove Avenue.

Dr. Louis J. Solana, appearing for Rudnick, asked to withdraw the request. "What started as a casual conversation ended with a Pandora's Box," he said.

"This was started as a positive attempt to get community identity. This wasn't for personal gain."

City planners received last month Rudnick's letter requesting the name change. They set the matter for public hearing and notified all property owners and apartment house managers along Erie.

Letters opposing the change were received from the Northwest Paper Co., Potlatch Corp., and Richard Hathaway, who operates a weed-abatement business.

In addition, 69 persons signed a petition stating they didn't want the street named after a commercial establishment and didn't want to go to the "trouble and expense" of a change of address.

Drug program included in health center operations

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — A joint power agreement between Pomona, Claremont and La Verne for the operation of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority will be revised to include a drug program that would serve a larger area and be largely independent of the three-city health center.

The new program would have its own coordinator and an advisory board separate from the one that presently advises the Tri-City governing board.

The new advisory group would legally be called a technical advisory committee on drug abuse formed under state regulations that apply to Tri-City.

But the new advisory group would be known as the Pomona Valley Comprehensive Drug Planning Board, an offshoot of a citizens' group of the same name that for two years has been working to get a comprehensive drug treatment and prevention program started.

The volunteer citizens' group, headed by former General Dynamics Pomona President Charles Horne, now seeks ties with Tri-City as a legal entity to qualify for a $104,000 state grant to coordinate drug abuse programs in Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, portions of Diamond Bar and other unincorporated county areas.

State legislation passed last year approprated $14.3 million for the coordination of drug programs placing the responsibility on each of the counties.

In Los Angeles County, such efforts come under the Inter-Agency Task Force on Drug Abuse.

The Pomona Valley Comprehensive Drug Planning Board is one of five "coalitions" from the San Gabriel Valley that have applied for state funds through the county.

At a meeting Monday, the Tri-City governing board, which includes eight councilmen from the three member cities, approved a recommendation from Pomona Community Relations Coordinator Clarence Webb that the planning board become the technical advisory committee of the clinic.

Governors also voted to amend the joint powers agreement to reflect the new drug program.

In a third motion, the governing board approved guidelines for reorganizing the planning board with 11 members.

It was indicated the new planning board would be made up of representatives of law enforcement agencies, public and private drug programs, education and the general public.

The planning board, or advisory group, will be assisted by a committee whose number has yet to be determined.

Three of the 11 planning board members would be councilmen from the Tri-City member cities and six members would be appointed by councilmen from the four incorporated cities that would be included in the program.

The 11th member could be nominated by any councilman from any of the four incorporated cities with a Tri-City majority vote required for ratification of the appointment.

A spokesman for the existing planning board Tuesday was optimistic the state funds would be forthcoming because of the ties with Tri-City, adding that he was hopeful that because of the regional approach to the drug problem, federal funds can also be obtained.

On another matter, the Tri-City governing board agreed to contract for psychiatric services with Dr. Gary Davis.

Opinion

Knapp plan is worth looking at

Not too many years ago Pomona had one congressman, one state assemblyman and one state senator.

As a result of gerrymandering over the years, Pomona now has three congressmen, two assemblymen and two state senators. It's no wonder that many residents of Pomona do not know who represents them in Sacramento and Washington, D. C.

Since these state and federal representatives have so little stake in Pomona it is a well known political fact of life that Pomona lacks much muscle in the state and national capitals.

The Legislature has flubbed the decennial job of reapportioning the legislative and congressional districts and the job is now in the hands of the judiciary.

The State Supreme Court has assumed jurisdiction because the Legislature was unable to present a reapportionment plan that was acceptable to the governor. Furthermore, that plan would have carved Pomona up even more and given the city three congresssmen, three assemblymen and three state senators. Such a proposal should be totally unacceptable to all thinking Pomona residents.

However, there is hope. The Special Masters appointed by the Supreme Court is charged with recommending to the court the criteria by which district boundaries should be established.

A couple of weeks ago representatives of Pomona Chamber of Commerce and the city appeared before the Special Masters to plead that the political integrity of the Pomona Valley be restored by keeping intact city and the school district lines, natural topography, retail trading areas and transportation systems.

Appearing before the Masters at the same hearing was Gordon Knapp, a private citizen of Atherton, who presented his own plan for reapportioning California's 43 Congressional districts.

His plan was constructed from strict criteria developed without the use of political data such as party registration or past voting trends. Also, his districts are much more compact and constructed to honor political boundaries of counties and cities where possible.

Knapp's plan would create one Congressional district for the Pomona Valley area, extending from the foothills on the north to Corona on the south, and from Kellogg Hill on the west to Mira Loma, Rubidoux and Fontana on the east.

This may not be the plan which will evolve but it is the first constructive effort to do away with odd shaped districts in search of partisan support and instead keep inviolate city boundaries and communities of interest.

Knapp hit the nail on the head when he declared that "voters simply come out second best" when the incumbents create boundary lines that are drawn to guarantee their re-election.

We believe Knapp's plan deserves serious consideration because it is consistent with Chamber and city desires to keep local political jurisdictions of the Pomona Valley intact within the constraints of equality of population.

Store's employes biggest thieves

Consumers who think high prices these days amount to robbery are closer to the truth than they may think.

Theft actually adds between 15 and 30 per cent to the cost of every article purchased in retail outlets, merchandisers estimate.

The thefts come in two forms — shoplifting and pilfering. And the latter, theft by a firm's own employes, is by far the most prevalent and costly. In one investigation of massive inventory losses in a major department store chain, old-fashioned shoplifters accounted for only 25 per cent. The rest of the chain's losses were at the hands of its own employes.

Since department stores are not organized as philanthropic institutions, the bill for thefts is not absorbed but is passed along to customers. An expert in the field, Guardsmark, Inc., a major private security service, estimates the bill, the total annual loss through employe pilfering, at a minimum $5 billion and probably closer to $15 billion.

While occasional, and usually petty, pilfering is widespread, only a small percentage of employes — estimated at 7 to 8 per cent steal systematically. But these are responsible for most of the losses.

Pilfering has spurred the growth of a new industry, the professional security service which has largely replaced the local store detective in large enterprises. The services bring greater sophistication to the task — trained personnel, electronic surveillance devices, scientifically devised screening and hiring procedures — but at a cost which, since stores are not philanthropic. . .

It is indeed a problem, most of all for the consumer who one way or the other ends up paying for the high cost of pilfering.

President Nixon's black Sunday

WASHINGTON — The dramatic moments can now be recounted when President Nixon was confronted with the whole truth about Watergate. He was told the stark facts by former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst after White House church services on Sunday, April 15.

At one point, Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen was hastily summoned to the meeting. He arrived in a dirty tee-shirt and sneakers. He had been working on his boat when the call came.

The showdown with the President followed an all-night session at Kleindienst's home where Petersen laid out the grim details. He had just learned from the Watergate prosecutors the extent of the conspiracy. He was so distraught when he found out how high the conspiracy reached that he smashed his fist into a wall.

It was persistent and painstaking legal work by the three original prosecutors, and not a single catalytic incident, that broke open the Watergate case and exposed it as the most explosive political conspiracy in the nation's history.

Belief confirmed

The prosecutors—Earl Silbert, Seymour Glanzer and Donald Campbell—felt certain that the case involved far more important personalities than the seven men they prosecuted last January. Their belief was finally confirmed in late March, when they amassed enough details of high-level skulduggery to alarm the White House conspirators.

First John Dean and then Jeb Magruder came to the prosecutors privately with the convoluted tales that are now familiar to millions of television viewers. The prosecutors studied documents provided by the pair and took testimony from other witnesses. By April 14, the three assistant U.S. attorneys had solid proof of a massive conspiracy to obstruct justice reaching right into the White House.

The evidence was so compelling that they felt duty bound to alert the President, since most witnesses claimed he was unaware of the conspiracy. Going through channels, the prosecutors accompanied by their boss, U.S. Attorney Harold Titus, called upon Petersen on the night of April 14.

The meeting had just begun when Petersen asked: "Is it true about Mitchell?" He referred to his friend and former superior, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell.

Petersen's agony

"Yes," Petersen was told. Such was his agony that he banged his fist into the office wall.

The prosecutors added that, worse, the case could lead to the impeachment of the President. After the evidence was presented, they agreed that Nixon should be informed at once.

Petersen put through a call to Kleindienst, who was spending the evening at the White House Correspondens Association's annual dinner. But he was not particularly enjoying himself. Just before he had left home, he received a call from presidential assistant John Ehrlichman who reported that Magruder was talking to the prosecutors and would implicate a number of Nixon aides.

Kleindienst returned home from the press party after midnight and received the call from Petersen.

"Are you sober?" Petersen asked.

"Fairly," said Kleindienst.

He was told it was urgent that they meet immediately. Petersen, Titus and Silbert arrived at 1 a.m. and stayed until 5 a.m. By sunup, the suddenly sobered Kleindienst, a close friend of Mitchell's and a devoted follower of the President, was distressed to the point of despair.

Kleindienst decided the President should be told all the facts and, after a couple hours of sleep, he put in a call to the White House. It was 9:30 on Sunday morning when he reached Nixon, who asked him to come to the White House prayer service. Afterward, Kleindienst told the President all that the prosecutors had uncovered. Petersen was summoned to provide more details and arrived in tee-shirt and sneakers.

The President obviously had not realized the scope of the conspiracy, Kleindienst told us. He said he had a policy against quoting the President but could report Nixon had expressed "surprise" and "concern."

"The President went along with every recommendation we made," added Kleindienst. "At no time did he give us any direction other than to investigate the case fully and let the chips fall where they may."

On April 17, two days after the fateful Sunday meeting, President Nixon curiously told the nation that new information had come to him fully three weeks before the Kleindienst meeting on March 23, and he was personally investigating all of the facts about Watergate.

But he did not mention how three Washington prosecutors had spent 10 months to cut through the web of lies spun by top White House aides.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Choking on Fiddleworth Factor

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I've been trying to tell everybody the gasoline shortage was a good thing. Now maybe they'll believe me.

This week we got the news that the gasoline shortage in this area was over. And look what happened!

We immediately got hit with an air pollution "alert."

Officials began broadcasting appeals to motorists to form car pools, switch to public transportation and otherwise avoid unnecessary driving to help save the environment

Which are the same things they were urging us to do last week to help save gasoline.

Thanks to increased supplies, we no longer have to walk because we are out of gas. Now we have to walk because there is too much gas.

This is why I say a gas shortage is a good thing. It's probably the only way to save the environment.

Public appeals to curb pollution are largely ineffectual. You can't persuade people to stay off the streets simply because they are choking of exhaust fumes.

Given a choice between asphyxiation and riding the bus, most commuters will opt for the former. You've got to force them off the road with a dry tank.

This attitude is not so much a matter of perversity as an outcropping of what I call the "Fiddleworth Factor," which is a psychological quirk named in honor of Wally Fiddleworth, the Washington representative of a large industrial corporation.

A couple of years ago Fiddleworth invited me to lunch. He picked me up in a chauffeured limousine and we drove approximately two blocks to a restaurant. (This is a distance some of the more intrepid lunch parties have braved on foot.)

All during the meal, Fiddleworth had the chauffeur keep the motor running so the air conditioner would remain on and we could return to a cool car.

At the time, I was deeply touched but Fiddleworth's name has taken on a different symbolism.

Whenever I am being urged to help reduce air pollution by doing less driving, I know that all the while I am making the sacrifice Fiddleworth will be somewhere having lunch with the motor running.

That realization puts a distinct chill on my ecological fervor.

The Fiddleworth Factor is probably the main reason why voluntary anti-smog programs don't work. Since nearly everyone knows a few Fiddleworth types, hardly anyone is willing to inconvenience himself for the sake of fresh air.

We'll all stay in our autos until we either run out of gas or run out of oxygen. Whichever comes first.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Fruits of socialism

Watergate should make one ask, "What is the difference between the Socialist Democrat Party and the Republican Socialist Party"? They are both full of liars, crooks, and murderers!

Liars because they swear to uphold the U.S. Constitution and then flagrantly violate it. Crooks because they have stolen and are still stealing the gold and silver of the American people. Murderers because they license the killing of thousands of unborn babies.

Other fruits of this socialist combine are wage and price controls, inflation, devaluation of the dollar and future rationing.

Isn't socialism great? Ask any Republican or Democrat. They ought to know. They are voting for it. That's why I re-registered American Independent Party. It's good for the conscience. —Clayton Stanhope, Pomona.

Let's not crucify panel

I would like to answer Carl D. Purdy's letter in which I was greatly surprised. It seems to me all he wants to hear about in this country is the good things.

According to his letter, bringing out the truth in Watergate is communistic and all evil. He speaks of our foreign countries having disrespect for us because of it.

I would like to remind him that in World War II if the German people had been told the truth about Hitler they wouldn't have had a dictator and their country wouldn't be split today.

Since Mr. Purdy is a pastor I'm surprised that he didn't come up with the fact that our head men in this country are just other Judases that have sold us down the river for 20 pieces of silver for their greed for power and money.

Here's for more of our Watergate panel and please let's not crucify them as Jesus was. —Mrs. James O'Connor, Chino.

Gossip for today

You ask a high government official a question and you get an answer. But you've got to hear it to believe it and even then you won't. You won't for a perfectly good reason. A short time after you get than answer it is labeled "non-operative." —Or you get a "hypothesis" — which is neither a statement nor an answer. It's something, of course, but nobody knows quite what. However, if you really are lucky, some spokesman for high government may even respond to your question by stating that, "the issue will be addressed" before "an appropriate forum" at a more appropriate time. So you bow low and back out, mumbling, "I'm sorry that I asked!" —And once again government of the people, by the people and for the people is on an even keel.

INSIDE REPORT

Greek backlash threat to Navy

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Grave discrepancies between formal, Navy-estimated costs of the controversial plan to "homeport" the U.S. Sixth Fleet in Greece and costs compiled by a secret study just completed for Congress not only threaten the homeporting plan but U.S. Greek relations in general.

Much to the concern of the military dictatorship in Athens, this discovery of highly misleading testimony to the House Foreign Affairs Committee by the Pentagon in spring of 1972 coincides with sudden disenchantment by the Nixon administration with Greek dictator-president George Papadopoulos.

The roots of that disenchantment are found in Col. Papadopoulos's decision six weeks ago to abolish the Greek monarchy. With a "referendum" scheduled for July 29 certain to give Papadopoulos eight more years as dictator against rising political opposition, the Nixon administration is cooling toward the military regime.

Now, the regime's woes are about to deepen in Congress. The almost unbelievable misstatements made by Pentagon officials (including the astute Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt) about homeporting costs have infuriated congressional experts aware of the matter. A full rendition will be given a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, headed by Democratic Rep. Ben Rosenthal of New York. Testifying will be expert witnesses from the General Acccounting Office (GAO), congressional watchdog over spending.

Secretary writes Rosenthal

On Feb. 19, 1972, John H. Chafee, then Secretary of the Navy, wrote Rosenthal: "It is currently not planned to expand or build naval facilities other than . . . minor facilities at the airfield. . .We desire to hire and-or lease existing port services, (and) pier space."

Likewise, on March 7 last year Zumwalt told the Rosenthal subcommittee that "we do not have any intention to build military facilities for our ships." When asked by Republican Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey whether "there is no expansion of naval facilities, as such, involved," Zumwalt shot back: "Yes, sir."

But the GAO's team of experts, sent to Greece early this year for investigation, came home with a shockingly different story. Their report indicts abysmal Navy planning and Navy failure to do its homework. It even raises a suggestion that homeporting in the Athens area may prove more touble than it is worth.

Here is the heart of the report: 1. Papadopoulos is giving the Navy little cooperation, apparently assuming the U.S. has to do business with him anyway.

2. The claim that the Navy would not build "facilities" was so wrong as to approach complete stupidity or deception. Not one but two multi-million-dollar piers, totalling perhaps $30 million to $40 million, will have to be constructed—the first for destroyers, the second (vastly the more expensive) for a single aircraft carrier.

3. Contrary to Chafee's testimony, the Athens airfield may be unusable, forcing the Navy to use the regular NATO airbase at Crete, 150 miles away, thus piling huge extra expenses on homeporting.

4. Worst of all, the GAO experts will testify next week that the destoryers and the carrier may have to be berthed in completely different waters, perhaps 30 miles apart. That would obviate one basic Navy purpose of homeporting: to give families of American seamen a morale-boosting chance to live together.

Pier easily movable

The Navy has already signed an agreement in principle to construct a "relocatable" pier for more than 13 million at Elefsis, home port for Sixth Fleet destroyers. "Relocatable" indicates the pier is easily movable,but the word is a euphemism. In fact, the pier, called "phase one" of the plan, is built on permanent pilings.To move it would take up to six months at heavy expense. By calling it "relocatable," the Navy apparently hopes to hoodwink Congress into belief that it is not a permanent "installation."

Moreover, the expense of berthing the carrier at Magara (known as phase two), will be 10 times greater, involving not only a pier but also "cold iron capability" — shore installations, including power supplies, which can keep a carrier's services running while its own power supply is cut off.

The State Department has not yet approved phase two, partly because of the deteriorating political situation inside Greece. Whether it ever does will now depend on congressional reaction to the Navy's failure to come clean 16 months ago on the true cost of homeporting and whether President Nixon decides it is time to cut back his huge investment in Dictator Papadopoulos.

Higher city property tax seen for Walnut

WALNUT — Walnut home owners will pay a higher city property tax despite a continuation of last year's 87 cents per $100 of assessed valuation as a result of recently announced assessed valuation increases.

Total assessed valuation jumped 12.68 per cent here from $14,670,265 to $16,530,535, the second largest percentage valuation rise of any Pomona Valley city.

The valuation hike is the result of a three-month study of local home sales conducted by the Los Angeles County Tax Assessor's Office from June 1972 to August 1972.

The 12.68 per cent figure was accounted for in a recently adopted Walnut city budget. County officials told City Manager Andy Lazzaretto of the expected increase several months ago for budget preparation, but it wasn't officially released until this week.

Donald Crouse, principal appraiser with the assessor's office, said the increase is due to national inflation and the rising cost of home construction. "Inflation is the most logical reason. If a new house costs more today so do the older ones," he said.

Walnut underwent its last house by house assessment seven years ago, he said, and is the only Pomona Valley city to undergo the extensive reevaluation of property values this year.

"We take every home sale in Walnut and what it sold for and compare that with homes that didn't sell. The people buying homes determine what a house will be worth and there are all sorts of reasons for people buying houses for more," Crouse said.

Mayor Richard Laughter contends the valuation hike is due not only to inflation and skyrocketing construction costs, but also to the "increased desirability of living in Walnut."

"Three years ago when I came on the City Council you couldn't give a house away. Walnut is a more desirable place to live now with fine quality homes at reasonable prices compared to other areas," he said.

He lists the city's rural environment, quiet atmosphere and relatively uncongested streets and home layout as at her factors in increased home sales costs.

"The reassessment should balance out the inequities in home sales and valuation. Some homes were selling for $45,000 but were only assessed at $25,000," Laughter said.

School tax rate cut predicted

WALNUT — The $4.75 total tax rate in the Walnut school district should be reduced about $1.67 per $100 of assessed valuation as a result of a 14.04 per cent increase in the district's assessed wealth.

Figures released by the Los Angeles County Tax Assessor's Office places the district's assessed valuation at $43,871,625, 7 per cent higher than the increase budgeted for in a tentative 1973-74 school budget.

The $43.8 million figure does not include the assessment on public utilities, which is estimated at $3,495,680 and will bring in additional tax revenue.

District Business Manager George Hartnett said the exact tax cut has not been calculated yet but said it will be close to the $1.67 estimate.

Senate Bill 90, a state-wide tax relief law, prohibits school districts from reallocating additional or unexpected revenue from new valuation totals to other school expenditures. The savings must be given to taxpayers, Hartnett said.

School trustees have yet to approve a final 1973-74 budget because of continuing employe negotiations on salary increases.

Dave Berteaux selected

New principal named at Nogales High School

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dave Berteaux, presently dean of students at La Puente High School, has been named principal of Nogales High School in the Rowland Unified School District.

He will assume duties of that position on Monday.

Berteaux characterized Nogales as "a young La Puente." He said the two schools are similar in terms of student body and community make-up.

Berteaux taught at Nogales five years before going to La Puente. He said his primary effort as principal at Nogales will be aimed at involving the community in "a team effort."

He issued a call to residents to work with the staff "Advise us, help us," he said.

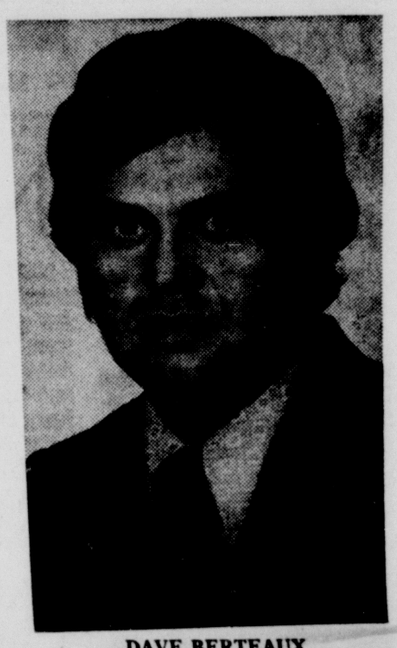
He resolved to make the school a "positive experience," and to provide all students with enough alternatives to keep them involved.

He said he cannot lose sight of the fact that students still have to function in society, and "unless a student's primary needs are met, it is like trying to learn on an empty stomach."

In addition to reading, writing and arithmetic, Berteaux said all students must be given exposure to vocational education and need some training in entry level job skills.

"This is true of both the career oriented and vocational student," he said.

While at La Puente High, Berteaux has had responsibility for disciplining



DAVE BERTEAUX

2,700 students and supervising 13 teachers.

Berteaux is a graduate of East Los Angeles College, Los Angeles Pacific College (now Azusa Pacific) and Cal State Fullerton. He holds the secondary and secondary administrative credentials.

He lives in Glendora with his wife, Rosemary, and two children.

Events scheduled for two months by Teen Center

DIAMOND BAR — Leaders of the Diamond Bar-Walnut Teen Center have scheduled five events this month and six during August for young people in the area.

Center director Ernestine Heard, a physical education graduate of Cal State Fullerton, said the teen-agers will make a camping trip to Barton Flats in the San Bernardino Mountains Sunday and Monday.

A dance is planned for 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. on July 20, and a party at Huntington Beach State Park on July 21.

Second dance

A second dance is scheduled the evening of July 27 followed by a trip to San Diego July 28.

The teen-agers will see "Godspell" at the Greek Theater in Hollywood on Aug. 2, dance again the evening of Aug. 3, and conduct a car wash on Aug. 4.

A fund-raising party is planned Aug. 7, followed by a train trip to San Clemente Aug. 11.

A fund-raising garage sale is planned Aug. 18.

Mrs. Heard said young people interested in participating in these activities may call 595-4774, or visit the center.

Housed at church

It is housed in the Diamond Bar Congregational Church at 2249 Morning Canyon Drive and is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 2 to 5:30 p.m. and Friday from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The intent of the center staff, Mrs. Heard said, is to provide a summer recreational program for teen-agers.

The program has been in operation since the summer of 1971 and has received wide community support.

Groups behind the center are the Congregational Church, the Pomona Valley YMCA, Diamond Bar Community Council, Diamond Bar Jaycees, Diamond Bar Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club, Sertoma Club, Castle Rock Community Club, Walnut Valley Kiwanis, Hills Women's Club, Diamond Point Women's Club, Walnut Valley Rotary Club, Diamond Bar Lions and the Y's Men.

Mrs. Heard said volunteers are needed at the center.

FAST SERVE

Registration for MSAC swim set for Saturday

WALNUT — Registration for the final two sessions of summer swim classes at Mt. San Antonio College will be held on Saturday and July 28 from 9 a.m. to noon at the pool.

One two-week session of lessons will begin on Monday and run to July 27. The final session will run from July 30 to Aug. 10. Classes are open for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate swimmers, and swimmers. The 10 half-hour sessions are $3.50 per person and are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and from 4 to 6 p.m. daily.

Adult swim lessons are offered Monday through Friday from 5 to 6 p.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. Eight one-hour lessons are included for the $4 fee.

Swimnastics for women is offered at 10 and 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Water exercise and workouts and recreational swimming are included in the lessons for a $4 fee.

Diving lessons for both men and women are also available during the two-week sessions. Ten one-hour lessons are included in the $5 fee.

Junior and senior life saving with 20 one-hour lessons for $6, Mommy and Me for young children and parent with 10 half-hour lessons for $3.50, and Swim and Stay Fit with five one-hour lessons for $1 a week are also offered in the summer swimming program.

NAACP honors two for social service

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dora Guzman, wife of Rowland trustee Louis Guzman, and Lillian Swerdlow, Title I nurse in the Rowland Unified School District, have been singled out by the San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to receive Community Service Awards for their work in the field of community social action.

Mrs. Swerdlow and Mrs. Guzman received engraved plaques at a recent awards dinner.

Foremost among the accomplishments of the two has been their work for the La Puente Valley Council of Social Services. Through their combined efforts as members of this organization, the city of La Puente now has the only pediatric ambulatory clinic provided as a part of county health services (outside the Watts area).

18-Years A Resident

A community resident for some 18 years, Mrs. Guzman indicated when she sees her neighbors in need of assistance, "I want to help." As a result of her concern, a grievance petition submitted to the late Supervisor Frank Bonelli stating the need for out-patient service and for more belingual staff in the La Puente Health Center has resulted in the establishment of the ambulatory clinic.

With both her son and daughter grown and married with families of their own, Mrs. Guzman explained her involvement in the community by saying, "What is there to do at home?"

Tom Hibbard, former health education director for La Puente, said, "Dora Guzman has been a key person in the effort to ensure medical care for people who need it, regardless of their ability to pay."

Mrs. Guzman is a member of the Rowland Title I Parent Advisory Committee since 1968; former member of the La Puente Police Community Relations Committee; chairman of the Outreach Clinic Task Force; adviser committee member for the El Centro de Asuntos Chicanos at Whittier College; member of the Los Angeles County Mental Health Task Force; and member of the ad hoc committee to establish the Mt. San Antonio College Educational Service Center in La Puente.

As a school nurse working in low income areas, Mrs. Swerdlow said she felt that her work with children would be "ineffective" so long as public health services were not improved.

Help Needed

"What's the sense of diagnosing a sick child, if you have no place to refer his parents for help," she said.

In her contacts with the home, Mrs. Swerdlow has also learned that, "a sick mother cannot be a good motner to her children." For these reason, and as a La Puente resident, Mrs. Swerdlow became involved in procuring outpatient treatment within the community for low income families.

Mrs. Swerdlow is a member of the Retarded Children Association's sheltered workshop program; board member of the La Puente Valley Council of Social Services; board member for South Branch YMCA; board member for the SGV Council for the retarded; and member planning committee for the SGV Department of Health Services.

5 per cent raise asked for school employes

WALNUT — Walnut school employes will receive a five per cent across-the-board salary hike and fully paid medical and dental benefits if school trustees follow the recommendations of Administrative Asst. Ray McMullen.

McMullen has represented the school board in more than seven months of salary negotiations with the Certificated Employes Council here. He is to recommend adoption of the five per cent figure and the additional medical and dental benefits at Monday's school board session.

McMullen will also recommend increasing employe's fringe benefit package to include fully paid medical and dental care for employes and their dependents.

Other recommendations agreed upon in the long negotiations between CEC representatives and McMullen include an increase from one half pay to three fourths pay for teachers on sabbatical leave and an additional 2.5 per cent pay hike if new money becomes available.

School employes only, not their dependents, are currently eligible for full medical coverage. There is no dental plan in the district.

The five per cent raise proposal is considerably lower than the 15 per cent raise teachers were seeking at the beginning of salary negotiations in March.

Woman's Club contributes $60

DIAMOND BAR — The Pomona school board has accepted with thanks a $60 check from the Diamond Bar Junior Woman's Club.

Club members, in making the gift, stipulated that the money be divided among Armstrong, Diamond Point and Golden Springs elementary schools for the purchase of books on nutrition.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, said the books would be ordered in September.

L.P. contractor's license revoked

LA PUENTE — The Contractor's State License Board, under the Department of Consumer Affairs, has revoked the contractor's license of the Cement Contracting Co. of 14843 Beckner Ave. here.

The contractor's license of William E. Orr, who owns and runs the company, was revoked effective March 14 for willful disregard of plans and specifications, failure to complete a job in a good and workmanlike manner, and failure to complete a project for the price stated in the contract, according to the department.

Jones-Fennell rites read in West Covina

Mr. and Mrs. James Omar Jones are making their home in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Regina Fennell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Fennell of Pomona. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The single-ring rites were performed in West Covina.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jim C. Hednott, the bride wore an empire-styled, floor-length gown of peau de soie. Chantilly lace accented the gown which featured full-length sleeves of sheer silk with double cuffs.

Her veil of silk illusion was three-quarters length. A bouquet of yellow roses white daisies and baby's beath was carried by the bride.

Miss Rhonda Hudson was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine Fennell, Mrs. Dorothy Faye Brevard, Miss Kathy Hudson and Mrs. John Osley.

Flower girls were Sherrell Jones and Miski Robinson while Clarence Jones served as ring bearer.

Hugh Flemming Jr. was best man. Ushers were Donald McCoey, Harold Gordon, Ralph Clark, and Leon Semlin.

A reception followed the rites.

Women

Women's club to hear actor John Grant

Former actor John Grant will speak at the luncheon meeting of the Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club on July 19 at Trinity United Methodist Church, Pomona.

Mr. Grant served in the Royal Air Force and entertained troops in India, Burma and Ceylon. After five years in the service he began a theatrical career and his roles included the lead in "Annie Get Your Gun." Mr. Grant is now an evangelist and gospel singer and has preached in such areas as the British Isles, Europe, South Africa, Canada and the United States.

"Have Bag, Will Travel" will be the luncheon's theme. American Airline personnel will speak at the meeting on the topic, "Pack A Bag," giving the audience tips on packing luggage for traveling.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling 984-3496 or 984-5590. Child care is provided at the church.

Picnic set by Methodist unit Tuesday

The newly organized United Methodist Women of Trinity United Methodist Church have scheduled a picnic at Palomares Adobe at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. William Williams, president, has announced that each person attending should bring table service, beverage and either a main dish, salad or dessert.

There will be child care and supervision at the park playground during the tour of the adobe after the luncheon.

Lengthen lashes

To lengthen and add body to lashes try applying a little powder to them first. The powder provides base that helps the mascara cling. Three applications over the powder will make your lashes look incredibly long and full.

Ask Dr. Brothers

No helping hand

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Last week, I was coming away from my garage with a bag full of groceries when I fell down, sprained my wrist and broke my ankle. What hurt me more than my physical injuries was the fact that no one came to my assistance even though I have lived in this area for many years. It was just after dusk when I fell so that it's possible, I suppose, that some people didn't see me clearly or didn't realize my condition, but still I watched four different people pass within hearing distance of my cries for help.

I'm 68 and hardly the type of woman who is going to mug someone. It depresses me to think that people care so little about the suffering of others. I was not raised in this way and I find a world where no one cares very difficult to live in.—A.D.

Dear A.D.: Don't give upon the human race yet. There are many factors involved in helping a person in need other than simple caring. In your case, the time of night may have been important. Because it was "just after dusk," it may have been that passersby were unable to see you so they could not know the extent of your need or anything else about you, except possibly your sex, which they might tell from your voice.

It is unfortunate that many people today are so afraid of being hurt themselves that they will not venture forth to extend help unless they are certain exactly what the situation really is.

According to a study conducted by psychologists Russell Clark III and Larry Word, it is not apathy that prevents people from coming to the resuce, but indecision. While bystanders are deciding whether they are witnessing a true emergency each one tends to stand around doing nothing, or to move on. In other words, each looks to the others for guidance. This mass hesitation, the psychologists report, is seen by each individual as lack of concern, and therefore no one thinks the situation is serious. Individuals, free of crowd influence, are likely to act if they are sure there is an emergency.

The clearer the situation is to the onlooker, the more apt he, or she, is to help. Happy people are more apt to be helpful than those who've just had an argument with their boss or their spouse. People are also more apt to assist someone in need if they are not under pressure themselves to be someplace at a certain time, or to perform some particular duty.

Pshychologist John Darley tested several people in an attempt to discover their true atitudes about helping others. He reported that people basically want to help others in need because it makes them feel good. The reward a person gets for doing a good turn must come from within himself, because there is very little chance he will be rewarded by society.

In fact, it may be important for you to consider that unfortunately all too often the average person who stops to help someone may find himself the object of a law suit.

Despite all the problems, the roots of altruistic behavior go very deep and people still find it rewarding to help others. Chalk up your bad experience to fear in others or the possibility that they may not have understood your particular need for help, and give the world, and people in your neighborhood, a second chance.

New break proposed

NEW YORK (UPI) — As every office worker knows, the coffee break keeps one from becoming a victim of malnutrition between breakfast and lunch—or between lunch and dinner.

Eating during the morning and afternoon coffee break may keep starvation away but it doesn't do much for the improvement of personal relationships and-or communication in an office. When you're munching doughnuts and gulping coffee it doesn't leave much time for chatter, see?

Office chatter, it turns out, is mightily necessary in any office desiring a minimum of problems stemming from poor communication.

What the offices of America may need, then, are chatter breaks. In addition to coffee breaks and the other break recommended recently — exercise breaks.

(If we have many more "breaks" someone's bound to come up with a revolutionary idea—"work breaks" between the other breaks)

The suggestion for a chatter break is based on observations by Dr. Jerry Suls, assistant professor of psychology at Georgetown University.

"Poor communication at work is often a result of not knowing fellow workers," says he. "Office chatter really matters.

"We are forced to interact daily with people we don't really know and good communication under these conditions is almost impossible.

"Without good communication, not only does productivity decrease but a whole system can grind to a halt. This often happens at work."

What would you talk about during a chatter break? To improve communication, Dr. Suls suggests:

—Get to know little things about fellow workers. Where do they live, how do they get to work, what is their favorite dessert.

—Make a conscious effort to understand what others are saying. Half of good communication is good listening.

The traditional place for office chatter is around the water cooler...only don't all of you gather at once. If the chairman of the board strolls into the office there should be at least an appearance of some work going on.

The suggestion for exercise breaks in the office came from authorities in physical fitness. That particular idea doesn't seem to have taken hold.

I have yet to see one person in my office stretching out on the carpeted floor once in the morning, once in the afternoon, doing a dozen sit-ups, as suggested.

Maybe it's just as well. I'm sure the chairman of our board, seeing such a sight, would consider it unbusiness-like.

Now if we could get the various chairmen of the boards to join chatter breaks maybe we could explain some of these breaks to them and improve communication.

MRS. RICHARD LIGTENBERG

Ligtenberg-Eleveld vows are exchanged

Miss Janny M. Eleveld exchanged wedding vows with Richard J. Ligtenberg in an afternoon ceremony at the Christian Reformed Church in Chino.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eleveld of Montclair was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ligtenberg of Upland.

For her marriage, the bride selected an empire gown of organza and venise lace which outlined the oval neckline, bishop sleeves and skirt. Her cathedral-length veil was trimmed with matching lace and attached to a Camelot headpiece.

A bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and white roses was carried by the bride.

A sister of the bride, Mrs. Johanne Groves, was matron of honor while another sister, Mrs. Maria Los, was bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Marjorie Clarkson and Miss Joan Ligtenberg, sister of the groom.

Yvonne Deleeuw was flower girl.

Serving as ushers were Terry Van Hofwegen, Bart Eleveld and John Los while Mark Ligtenberg was best man.

A reception in the church social hall followed the ceremony.

After a six-week trip to British Columbia and Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Ligtenberg will reside in Upland.

MRS. ALBERT VANDER SCHAAF

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrain DeBie of Ontario, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vander Schaaf of Ontario.

A gown of nylon organza with bishop sleeves and a ribboned empire bodice was worn by the bride. It was trimmed with sequins and chantilly lace. Maching lace outlined the mantilla veil of silk illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Debbie DeBie was maid of honor and Mrs. Sharon Wilber was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Helen Hubbard, Miss Corrie Vander Schaaf and Miss Lorri Frings, junior bridesmaid.

Stacey DeBie was flower girl and Jon DeBie was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Dick Vander Schaaf. Groomsmen were Jim Bakker, Dave Vander Schaaf, Tony Veiga and Robert Crossland. Ushers were John DeBie and Butch DeBie.

The newlyweds greeted guests during a reception at the Ontario Christian High School gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Vander Schaff will reside in Ontario after a honeymoon in northern California.

Gasoline shortages not slowing Vegas tourists

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A telephone survey of major Las Vegas "strip" hotels indicated that the gasoline shortage was not slowing the tourist trade in southern Nevada, which hits the 16 million mark annually.

Hotels reported rooms were 100 per cent booked for weekend trade and more than 90 per cent filled during the week.

A spokesman for the hotel industry said the Fourth of July, even though the holiday fell in the middle of the week, was a sell out at major "strip" hotels and motels and downtown resorts.

A spot survey of customers at "Camperland" at the Stardust Hotel showed spaces were 100 per cent full. "Camperland" now has 150 spaces for campers and trailers and 250 more are under construction. At the same time, the Hacienda Hotel is building "Travelworld," which will accommodate 486 trailers and campers. The "strip" hotel accommodations for campers and trailers is something new on the Las Vegas "Strip".

He's 1st 'lander' at new airport

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — U. S. Secretary of Transporatation Claude S. Brinegar was the principal passenger on the first plane to land at the mammoth Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Brinegar toured the facilies May 17 five months before the projected Oct. 1 opening date for the regional airport that is approximately the size of Manhattan.

RTD planning improvements

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Southern California Rapid Transit District has announced improvements in its San Gabriel Valley-Los Angeles busway system, designed to lure downtown commuters out of their automobiles.

The system, a series of freeway lanes reserved exclusively for commuter buses, will now include three feeder routes connecting San Gabriel Valley communities with the buses on the San Bernardino Freeway.

At the other end of the line, the express buses will now be routed directly to one of three downtown areas: the high-rise financial district at the western edge of downtown, the Occidental Center, and the mid-Wilshire area as far west as Western Avenue.

RTD also announced a new $25-a-month commuter pass, good for an unlimited number of trips each month between the San Gabriel Valley and downtown Los Angeles.

The doctor comments

Many things change thickness of blood

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, MD.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you'll answer my question and end a debate. Now I'd like to know if, in the summer, the blood gets thinner and, in the winter months, it gets thicker. I've always believed that the above was true.

Dear Reader — The thickness of the blood fluctuates for many reasons. Normally about 45 to 50 per cent of the blood is blood cells, and the rest is fluid, or plasma. If you get dehydrated, for example, on exposure to heat with loss of salt and water, the ratio of blood cells to liquid plasma changes because you lose water from the bloodstream, just as you do from the rest of the body. Even bed rest affects the blood. A person who remains at bed rest without being upright at all over a period of 48 hours will lose about a pint of fluid from his total blood volume, causing the blood to thicken. Thus, attributing changes of thickness or thinness of the blood to seasons isn't very reliable.

Many individuals used to take a "blood tonic" to thin the blood come springtime. A popular one of these was sassafrass tea, which had absolutely no effect on thinning the blood.

For normal healthy people there is no advantage to thinning the blood. Rare individuals have an increased production of red blood cells because of a specific disease, and sometimes these people need to be bled to remove excess red blood cells.

Thinning of the blood is also confused with the use of agents to keep the blood from clotting. These agents do not thin the blood in the sense that they create more plasma or fluid in relationship to the number of cells in the blood. What they really do is affect the clotting mechanisms so that the blood clots more slowly.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband heard that if anyone drank over five cups of coffee a day he would have hardening of the arteries. Is this true?

Dear Reader — There was a report in Lancet, a British medical journal, about the increased likelihood of having heart attacks in individuals who drank over five cups of coffee a day. Incindentally, this is not the first time that this suggestion has been made. It was made a number of years ago by a Dr. Paul in Chicago.

Most heart specialists agree that even small amounts of coffee, and particularly if one is drinking five cups a day or more, will cause some people to have skipped beats or irregularities of the heart. This could be a factor in causing serious irregularities with a heart attack that could be fatal. Much o fthe care during a heart attack is directed toward preventing serious irregularities.

Coffee can increase the resting heart rate of healthy individuals. There is a great deal of individual variability in this, but in some people it can increase their resting heart rate from 10 to 20 beats per minute.

Most of the problems that have been attributed to coffee can be obviated simply by using a decaffeinated product. This isn't 100 per cent true, because there are some people whose digestive system cannot tolerate the coffee oils that are essential for its flavor. But, as far as the heart and vascular problems are concerned, the effects of caffeine on the heart can be eliminated almost entirely by using available commercial decaffeinated products.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's new booklet on hiatal hernia, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Hiatal Hernia" booklet.

Pot equal to tobacco smoking among students

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI — High school students now smoke about as much marijuana as they do tobacco, according to a survey used annually as a gauge of student drug use in the United States.

The sixth annual San Mateo County surveillance of student drug use, released earlier this week, said from grades 10 to 12 "marijuana is more commonly reported at every usage level than tobacco."

The survey was compiled from 30,000 returned forms that asked each student anonymously for the level of use for alcohol, amphetamines, barbiturates, heroin, LSD, marijuana and tobacco.

Tobacco use among females was just slightly higher than males in all but the seventh grade level, the lowest surveyed. In the senior level, 32 per cent of females said they smoked cigarettes heavily, compared to 30 per cent of males.

In marijuana use, over half the males from ninth grade upward said they tried it, and 32 per cent of the seniors said they smoked marijuana heavily. Female use was lower, with 20.4 per cent reporting heavy use.

The report said tobacco use has begun climbing again after dropping off in previous years. Alcohol use continued an upward trend with male and female drinkers about even.

In the seventh grade, 72.8 per cent of males said they used alcohol at least once and 10.5 per cent reported using it 50 or more times. For seventh grade females, 67.2 per cent said they tried alcohol and 8 per cent said they used it 50 or more times.

Use of barbiturates and amphetamines indicated a downward trend with only small percentages of all grade levels trying the pills.

Trends toward heavy use of LSD appeared to be lighter, but more persons indicated trying it "once or twice," the surveyors said.

Heroin use remained about the same as last year. Less than 1 per cent of all grade levels showed any heavy use of heroin.

Dad tells daughter all his work woes

Dear Ele: I was wondering how to handle this problem with my father. He has gotten into the habit of telling me all of his work problems when he comes home, and having us talk about them in his den with the door closed. I don't mind this, but I think my mother is getting to feel like an outsider and possibly resenting me for it. I am not trying to compete with her or do anything Freudian, but the truth is that my dad would rather talk with me than Mom. — Psychology student.

Dear Student: I've three suggestions: (1) Might you widen your raps to three-person sharings by saying, "Dad, I think Mom is feeling sort of left out, and anyhow I'd like her opinion on the possibility of your job change," and then carry your conversation into the kitchen? (2) If Dad resists that, can you find a creative way to translate Dad's most pressing concerns to Mom, so that she'll be primed to ask the right leading questions and thus encourage his sharing? (3) Finally if you feel their sharing is really blighted, can you secure the names of several able marriage counselors, and urge Mom and Dad to make use of objective help to improve communication between them? — Ele

Dear Walt: If you are walking somewhere and find something of value and your friend is with you but doesn't see it until after you do, does he have a right to say it's half his? — James

Dear James: In a word — no. But if it means terminating a friendship if you take a hard line on this, just establish once and for all that if the two of you are together when something is found, the split will be 50-50, 25-75 or whatever. Then proceed to divide up your recent find by the agreed percentages. — Walt

---

Dear Ele and Walt: I wrote this boy a letter telling him how much I admired him in a recent crisis. We had never spoken much before then, but now he goes out of his way not to look at me or to be in the same room when I'm there. I did not get mushy. What's up? — Paula

Dear Paula: Either he feels "courted" and doesn't know how to respond, or he feels uneasy in a "hero" role he judges to be undeserved. Let another two weeks slide by, and then go up and say "hi" directly to the lad. Rap a few minutes and then have a good reason to leave.

Repeat these brief "hi" and "gotta run" scenes several times and hel'll know you're not clinging to him, or in awe of his heroics.

Unless he actually doesn't enjoy your company that should melt his freeze. — Ele and Walt.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Each year millions of Americans are struck by bursts of light traveling 186,000 miles per second, and it usually leaves them smiling.

The flashes are artificial light sources for picture taking. The research department of Honeywell Photographic Products, which pioneered development of electronic flash in this country, says each time a picture-taker utilizes an electronic flash he's hitting the subject with a burst of light that travels the same speed as lightning but with just enough energy to make an impression on film.

Mexican rodeo slated at Sports Arena

LOS ANGELES — The National Mexican Festival and Rodeo, starring the entertainment family of Tony, Flor, Tonito and Pepito Aguilar, will be presented at the Los Angeles Sports Arena July 27-29.

Show times are July 27 and 28 at 8:30 p.m, July 29 at 6:30 p.m., and July 28 and 29 at 2:30 p.m.

New, spectacular acts are contained in the latest edition. The Warvel Family from Texas will make its Los Angeles debut with Roman riding routines and comic acts, as will the Loera Rojas Family, Latin America's trick ropers. 'Aguilar's clowining Portuguese horse, El Rebelde, will be featured.

AFTER 25 YEARS — Duane Thomas as Tevye the dairyman and Vi Valencia as Golde, his wife, sing the tender "Do You Love Me?" in the Gallery Theater production of "Fiddler on the Roof." The musical comedy plays at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario, at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Reservations can be made at 982-5357.

Music fete sets varied programs

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Music Festival at Pomona College has programmed a wide variety of musical styles for three concerts July 20, 22 and 23.

The concerts are held in Bridges Hall of Music at 8:15 p.m.

Next Friday international concert and recording artist Barry Tuckwell will be soloist on the French horn with the Festival Orchestra conducted by Giora Bernstein, in Weber's Concertino for Horn in E Minor, Op. 45. Also on the program will be Mozart's Serenade in B flat for 13 winds, K.361 (1718) and Pampeana No. 3, by Argentine composer Ginastera.

On July 22 violinist Charles Libove and pianist Nina Lugovoy will present a recital to benefit the festival's scholarship fund. The program of sonatas includes Sonata No. 2 in A Major, Op. 100 by Brahms (1886); Bartok's Sonat No. 2 (1922); and Beethoven's Kreutzer Sonata in A Major, Op. 47. Donations will help to provide tuition free attendance at the festival, a six-week workshop in chamber music, which will continue through Aug. 4.

Flack, Steinberg set at Amphitheater

UNIVERSAL CITY —Singer Roberta Flack and comic David Steinberg will share the stage of Universal Studios' Amphitheater Monday through July 22.

Miss Flack, in two years, has gone from a musical cult figure in Washington, D.C to star female singer. Her voice, with its soulful and moving delivery, projected her rise as a force in contemporary music.

Steinberg has also become an established and prominent part of the American scene. He started his career in chicago as a member of the famous Second City, the springboard for such prominent aritists as Mike Nichols, Elaine May, Barbara Harris, Alan Arkin and Paul Sand.

He is a popular and sought-after mighttime talk show guest host, having hosted all of the top shows

LONDON (UPI) — There are up to 2 million cars on Britain's crowded roads with defective tires, the Automobile Association reports. It warned that tires which do not meet legal standards risk peoples' lives, raise the threat of fines and endanger insurance on the cars.

ROMAN BEAUTIES—Bill Himebaugh auctions off two pretty "slave girls," twins Paula, left, and Pamela Graefe, as John Urwin looks on in a scene from "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The musical comedy of Roman days will be presented by the St. Paul's Players at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Pomona, at 8 o'clock tonight and at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday and next weekend. Tickets at $2 for adults, $1.50 for students under 16, will be on sale at the door.

Taste in television

Ad-libs harm newscasts

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The trend toward informality in many television newscasts has its positive points, but among its negative aspects is a major new menace to good taste: Inappropriate, chatty transitions between certain stories.

I suspect that viewers around the nation are cringing more and more lately when newscasters, trying hard to fit in with the informal trend, struggle painfully to make tactful, natural transitions between serious stories and light ones, upbeat reports and sad ones.

To the public eye, people like the various anchormen or sports and weather reporters are the immediate objects of scrutiny, and some of them have survived well their tests in the informal setups. But many have not, and in most cases it is the format imposed on them, and not the reporters themselves, deserving of blame. For reporters are not trained to be jokesters, or to specialize in wisecracks that can raise video ratings so stations can charge higher advertising rates for deodorant commercials.

But I don't know any more. The way things are going, the television curriculum in college journalism departments may soon be offering courses in "Gags I," "Gags II" and "Advanced Gags." There is no question that many fine video newspeople resent the burden of on-the-air small talk imposed on them. In their nightmares, they may dream of why, along with reporting, they didn't also study Joe Miller's Joke Book, hair teasing, the history and impact of sideburns, voice modulation, sincerity, clothing fashions, wigs and teethcapping.

Well, it's a hard life, but some television executives have made it a lot harder for news broadcasters by going all the way with the informal format when not everyone is equipped to handle it. And the reason they are not is that a successful format of this type relies in great part on two requisites: That the people carrying it off are truly witty adlibbers and, furthermore, that they are naturally sparkling conversationalists in general.

It is no crime that a number of newscasters are simply not notable in both these respects, or sometimes even in either. After all, the art of ad-libbing has eluded many of our most talented show business performers. On a high level, this art, like the ability to make sparkling conversation, is among the rarest gifts. It is not exactly likely to turn up too often on your friendly local newscast, and it is a frequently harrowing experience to watch people try to pull it off day after day.

The boor on tour

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Recently returned from a 3,000-mile tour of the redwood country and coast of the great Northwest, a scenic three-week view of the rear doors of 3,000 camper trucks.

Where do all these vans and campers and house trailers come from? They must breed at night in the campgrounds and trailer parks. There are always more next day.

Where do all these vans and campers and house trailers come from? They must breed at night in the campgrounds and trailerparks.There are always morenext day.

Travel by car is very educational. I learned that the speed limit in San Jose is 35, that the motto of the state parks is "A Land of Many Uses," and that when a gas gauge registers empty it generally means it. I learned not to challenge speeding trucks freighted with huge redwood logs and never to say to your wife, "Shutup, dear," when she tells you you took the wrong turn. All very broadening.

I discovered that the Golden Gate Bridge is now toll free, that you can drive through Albion, Calif. without noticing it, and that motels all have 25-watt bulbs in their bedside lamps. I found that the first thing wives say when you start off each morning is, "What's that funny little ping?", that foghorns now give a computer programmed electronic "Beep!" and that there are no liquor stores in Salem, Ore. Facts to remember—if I should ever go back to Salem, upon which eventuality a knowledgeable gambler would give only the shortest odds.

Our trip northward was uneventful except for taking a wrong turn in Portland, Ore. and suddenly finding ourselves part of the annual Portland Rose Parade.

As our battered sedan moved along between the Klamath Falls High School Marching Band and a rather disgusting float depicting the Oregon dairy industry, the crowds cheered and I smiled and waved graciously until a motorcycle policeman shooed us off into a by-street. The throngs, I presume, took me for one of the astronauts—thought my wife was Martha Mitchell. Fame is fleeting.

Crossing to Vancouver (the island) and spending a couple of days in Victoria (the city), we found that corner of Nelson Eddy country just as dull as the United States. Back in the United States I bought a Canadian blanket, a bottle of Canadian whisky, and a small, hand-carved Canadian totem pole. At last I had my coveted souvenirs (I still have the blanket and the totem pole).

The trip back down from Anacortes, Wash., to the Land of a Thousand Smokes was instant replay of the trip up, except that I went 35 miles per hour through San Jose.

All in all, a three-week motor tour of Northwestern United States and a brief visit to our friendly neighbor to the north make an interesting vacation that I wouldn't wish on anyone I was really fond of.

Importance of your 1st bid

By OSWALD & James Jacoby

A reader asks, "Why is your choice of your first bid important?"

The answer is that if you make a wrong bid you may never be able to correct it.

North's spade bid illustrates this. He had enough high cards and the right hand to double the club opening. Instead he elected to overcall one spade.

	NORTH	13
	♠ A K J 9 4
	♥ Q J 8 4
	♦ K 10 6
	♣ K

	SOUTH
	♠ Q 8
	♥ K 10 9 2
	♦ Q J 7
	♣ 10 8 5 3

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
1♣	1♠	Pass	1N.T.
Dble	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♣A

South's no-trump was sort of a general response. He thought he had too much to pass.

West's double was primarily for business. North was happy to leave it in. East was unhappy and South reasonably content.

West's ace of clubs lead was eminently correct. Had he led the queen or jack South would have made two overtricks. As it was, the best South would have made two overtricks. As it was, the best South could do was take the fourth club lead and cash five spades for down one.

Had North doubled, South would have bid hearts. West would have bid more clubs and eventually South would have played in three or four hearts, making four.

In either case a lot better than losing 200 points at one no-trump.

Contradictions exist concerning vitamins

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: After reading your column for years, I have yet to figure our where you stand on vitamins. You don't seem consistent. Sometimes you say how good vitamins are for some things and other times you say buying vitamins is a waste of money. (Please) clarity your position on what, to me, is an important subject. Thank you. — I.T.

Dear I.T.: Apparent contradictions do exist regarding the subject, here and elsewhere. For more knowledge is needed before we can infallibly recommend or prescribe vitamins for any species. The normal daily requirements, for example, are predicated upon a "normal" animal. The problem is to determine which animal is "normal." Two apparently similar animals may have vastly different nutritional requirements (including vitamin requirements) which may vary drastically even where the environment and nutritional intake is apparently similar.

Often their environmental exposure IS different but only appears similar superficially. For example, one may live near a freeway and be exposed to twice as much air pollution. One may be receiving a different type of mineral intake from hard drinking water. Still another may be exposed to more stress because of a "hypered" home life. Genetic differences, too, are important.

These factors and others constantly intertwine to cause confusion. Consequently, while the recommended vitamin requirements may be adequate in most cases, in some animals they are never adequate; in others stress conditions of many kinds, render such requirements inadequate. Routine vitamin supplementation may be a waste of money most of the time for some animals — but even they may benefit occasionally. The catch is it may be difficult or even impossible to tell when some of those occasins arise. Under certain conditions, doubling or even tripling the normal requirements of a specific vitamin may still provide inadequate body levels. Other times, tripling the dosage of some vitamin could hurt the animal rather than help it. The "standard, commercial, complete" vitamin product can be safely given at recommended levels to almost all pet species.

Chamber, visitor bureau funds OK

CLAREMONT — The City Council has agreed to pay the Claremont Chamber of Commerce $9,500 and the Claremont Visitors and Convention Bureau $17,500 for services during the 1973-74 year.

The council approved a budget of $19,550 for the bureau and $24,350 for the chamber.

Chamber Manager Alex Turner explained that $12,000 was for convention bureau salaries, including $7,500 for a director, who has not been hired yet; $750 for a typewriter and projector equipment and $1,250 for promotions.

He said the equivalent of two cents of the city's bed tax seven-cent per $1 was the "bedrock on which the convention bureau was formed."

"You get what you pay for. If you are going to have an aggressive program, you must have the tools with which to work," he commented.

Turner explained that 30 per cent of his time and 30 per cent of secretary Karen Hooper's time the past year went to the bureau.

Mayor Craig McManigal said that the long-range goal of the city was to reduce the $10,000 which it pays to the chamber agreed to lower the self-sufficient.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald said she thought that last year the council and chamber sgreed to lower the base price each year, even "if it is a very small amount."

"We have a responsibility in that regard," she said.

She was joined by Councilwoman Bertye Smith who said that "if we retained the flat $10,000 I would be reticent in okaying $17,500 for the convention bureau."

Turner told the council that "anything we say will sound like special pleading tonight. I would be happy to share the budget with you."

After Mrs. McDonald suggested the possibility of holding the matter over for two more weeks, calling it "a vital issue—Turner asked the council for a decision Tueaday night.

After the council had received copies of the budgets, members asked Turner questions, and he reassured them he was not the director of the covention bureau.

Councilman Gene Block proposed giving the chamber $9,500 in quarterly payments, noting that the decrease from $10,000 "will catch their attention and show that the council is serious."

"We want to work faster towards zero dollars" commented Mrs. McDonald. "This $500 decrease is not precedent-setting."

Electronics industry shows resurgence

NEW YORK (UPI)—After a slowdown in the late 1960s, the electronics industry has been showing a healthy resurgence in this decade, according to a leading components marketer.

Federal research and development funding of electronics programs in particular have shown an upward trend during the 1971-73 period, said Howard Rothenstein, president of Miconics Industries, Inc. of Long Island City, N.Y. He said government funds for applied research are expected to reach an all-time high of $4.7 billion this year.

Battle of division leaders

Here come the Cubbies

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — For Andy Messersmith, the formula for success is take it easy rather than bear down.

After shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 in an hour and 56 minutes Thursday night at Dodger Stadium, Messersmith revealed that he had been concentrating on not throwing as hard.

"I thought my fastball was better tonight. I was trying to hold it down to about 85 per cent of what I've been throwing," he said.

"I think I've been throwing too hard," he continued. "It's like a golf swing. Anytime you try to overpower something it doesn't work. I went and worked with Red (Adams, Dodger pitching coach) a couple of days ago and I told him I was going to try and slow things down. I did and my fastball seemed more alive."

Messersmith theorized that not throwing as hard kept him relaxed and helped other aspects of his game.

"I think I even fielded better because I put less effort in my pitching and I was loose and relaxed out there," he said.

It was the Messersmith the Dodgers had been expecting to see all season. Andy struck out seven and didn't issue a single pass. Of his 119 pitches, 82 were strikes and he had only one three-ball count. The seven hits were scattered. The only inning in which the Cardinals got two hits was the fifth.

Now if Andy's past history repeats itself and he runs true to form from here on in, the Dodgers are in excellent shape.

In five years with the Angels, Messersmith compiled a 41-18 record, a percentage of nearly .700, in the last half of the seasons.

"Don't ask me why," he said. "But I've always been a strong second half pitcher."

The win brought Messersmith's record to 8-6 and it increased the Dodger lead over idle Cincinnati to six games.

Tonight the Dodgers open a three game series against the Eastern Division leading Chicago Cubs. The Cubs' entourage includes 25 players, 16 player's wives, and 13 children.

The Cubbies have been in a slump. But manager Whitey Lockman refuses to put the blame on the experiment of bringing the families along. He attibutes it simply to a lack of hitting.

If healthy, Ferguson Jenkins (9-6) will match pitches tonight with Tommy John (8-4). Burt Hooton (of knuckle curve fame) will put his 8-7 record against Al Downing's 6-4 mark in Saturday's 7 p.m. game. Sunday the Dodgers wind up the current home stand. The scheduled pitchers in the 2 p.m. game are Rick Reuschel (10-5) and Claude Osteen (also 10-5).

The three games with the Cubs constitute Helmet Weekend. Helmets will be given to all youngsters 14 and under at each of the three games.

The Dodgers are 3-3 against the Cubs so far, taking two out of three at Wrigley Field and dropping two of three at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers maintained their mastery over St Louis. The Cardinals had won 24 and lost 15 since the end of May going into the Dodger series. But the resurgent Angelenos cooled them off by taking two games out of three and running their season record against the Cardinals to 6-2 including 5-1 at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers picked up a run in the first on Manny Mota's triple and Willie Davis' single. It was the first of four straight singles for the Dodger Captain and raised his average over the .300 mark to a neat .304.

Bill Buckner, who was dropped to the eighth spot in the batting order against left-handed Rich Folkers (2-1), lined a shot down the foul line into the right field stands in the fourth inning for his fourth homer and the Dodgers second run.

The other pair of runs were insurance measures which came on a walk to Joe Ferguson, singles by Steve Garvey and Buckner, and an error by Cardinal shortstop Mike Tyson in the ninth.

Bring on the Cubs!

Pomona College hosts Davidson

Davidson College's basketball team will be busy practicing at Pomona College's Memorial Gym.

No, coach Les Nagler's Sagehens won't have to play the Wildcats, who are the perennial kings of the Southern Conference.

The visitors from North Carolina are stopping in Claremont for a few days beginning on July 23 to train for an August tour of Australia.

Davidson is an unique college. It is the smallest institution of higher learning in the United States playing big-time basketball with only 1,150 students.

It also is a college with plenty of academic tradtion. Among its list of distinguished alumni are Woodrow Wilson and Dean Rusk.

Davidson, coached by Terry Holland, will be assembling at Pomona College for its 20-game tour of Australia. It should be interesting having them as guests in the valley.

The Denver Broncos will be opening their second training camp at Cal Poly next week with coach John Ralston greeting an initial group of 54 players Tuesday night with the rest reporting a week from Sunday.

Denver will be drilling at Poly through the morning of August 9 when it breaks camp for the exhibition opener at Washington, D.C.

After last year's upset win over the Rams, there stould be more interest in the Broncos this year as Ralston, the former Stanford miracle man, has them on the right track towards the first winning season in Denver's history.

Ralston plans to scrimmage the Rams and Dallas Cowboys during the three weeks in Pomona with hopes of having at least one of them here.

Cal Poly baseball coach John Scolinos is facing a problem.

Despite his many successes which includes more than 600 career victories, Scolinos can see how difficult it is getting just to maintain Poly's present baseball level.

The other members of the California Collegiate Athletic Association plus the independents are getting more money and are directing more energy towards recruiting baseball talent.

Scolinos has always believed in giving everybody a chance but it is becoming more difficult to recruit top talent.

Like the other Poly coaches, Scolinos has been asked to help himself financially.

In an effort to raise money for baseball, Scolinos is exploring the idea of conducting a baseball clinic next spring together with a pancake breakfast. Youngsters in the Pomona Valley would benefit from top instruction from one of America's outstanding coaches and Poly would benefit from a closer relationship with the community.

With the new lights at Ralph Welch-Park and the outstanding facilities at both Poly and La Verne College, a series between the valley neighbors would be a top gate attraction.

In an effort to get something going, Scolinos is willing to play La Verne on Feb. 26, 27 or May 7. Now it is up to Ben Hines to answer that challenge but the La Verne coach may have problems finding an open date because of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) schedule restrictions.

News from Cal State Fullerton tells us ex-Angel second baseman Bobby Knoop has joined the Titans as the assistant baseball coach. Apparently Fullerton has also recruited Jim Bogdanowicz, Mt. San Antonio College's outstanding basketball player.

LOOKING FOR A CHANCE

Sonny Sixkiller, former star quarterback of the Washington Huskies, will get the chance to show his wares when the Rams scrimmage the Cowboys Saturday at Thousand Oaks.

Miller passes Weiskopf

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Johnny Miller, displaying the form that won him the U.S. title at Oakmont last month, birdied four of the first nine holes Friday to take a two stroke lead in the British Open golf championship after 45 holes.

Miller, who started the day three strokes behind Tom Weiskopf, turned in a four under 32 to lead Weiskopf and Bert Yancey, who was tied with him at 138 after the second round, by two strokes. Miller had birdies at the third, sixth, seventh and eighth holes.

Weiskopf, who bogeyed two of the first three holes got back into the lead briefly when he strung together three birdies between the fifth and eighth, but a double bogey six on the ninth saw Miller surge ahead.

Yancey also started badly when he bogied the first, but birdies at the second and third left him only one stroke off the pace.

Tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, who was another stroke back at the start of the day, birdied the par four, 391-yard second hole when he canned a 12-footer to join Miller in a tie for third.

The rain turned the greens on Troon's 7,064-yard par 72 old course into soggy carpets.

Lee Trevino, the defending champion who was seeking his third consecutive British Open title, had putting troubles and finished with a 73 and a 54-hole score of 221—five over par.

Arnold Palmer, aided by some exceptional iron play, shot three birdies on the back nine for a 70 and led the early finishers with a two-over-par 218.

Nicklaus said he planned to take up the challenge as he bid for an all-time record 14th major championship.

At the conclusion of the second round, he said "I have to play better golf than I have in the last two days." He went out with a determined air to take command.

Weiskopf bogeyed for the second time on the third and his lead had evaporated. Miller, playing with Weiskopf, birdied the third with a three to go into a three-way tie for the lead with Weiskopf and Yancey at seven-under-par.

Nicklaus took a six at the par five fourth hole to drop two strokes behind at five-under-par.

Weiskopf regained the lead when he drove 210 yards onto the fifth green and one-putted for a birdie two to go eight under again.

Nicklaus was in trouble again at the sixth. He hit his iron shot into the rough behind the green and bogeyed for a six to drop to four under.

Christy O'Connor, the veteran Irish pro and the only man in a position to challenge the four leading Americans, sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie at the fifth to join Nicklaus at four under.

Angels' rally saves Singer in Tiger loss

DETROIT (UPI) — The California Angels this season have scored most of their runs for Bill Singer, but Thursday night he didn't give them much of a chance.

Singer was only around to face two batters in the second inning as the California starter gave up four hits and three runs in his brief appearance against the Detroit Tigers, which went on to a 7-6 victory.

Dick McAuliffe drove a two-out single to right center in the bottom of the ninth inning off loser Dave Sells, 4-2, to score the Tigers' Dick Sharon from second base with the winning run.

Bob Oliver had tied the game at 6-6 for the Angels in the eighth with his 11th homer of the season off winner John Hiller.

The first 13 Angels went down without a hit against Detroit starter Mike Strahler, but Oliver walked with one out in the fifth. He scored an out later on Jerry Devanon's infield hit to third.

California catcher Jeff Torborg also singled home two runs and scored on Vada Pinson's single.

Willie Horton, the league's second leading hitter, slammed his 13th homer of the season with one out in the first off Singer, but then pulled a hamstring in his right leg beating out a single in the seventh and will be out for an indefinite period.

The Tigers collected 12 hits, while California had eight.

Clyde Wright, 7-11, is California's starter tonight, opposing Mickey Lolich, 8-8.

Lovell KOs foe in first round

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hard-hitting Argentine heavyweight Pedro Lovell withstood a badly puffed right eye to score a knockout over Cliff McDonald, Boston, Mass., in 2:55 of the first round Thursday night.

Lovell, 205, Buenos Aires, registered a pair of bruising uppercuts and left hooks to McDonald's head that opened a cut under his right eye and bloodied his nose.

The win was Lovell's 11th, all by knockouts, against no losses and a draw. McDonald, who has also scored all of his wins by kayoes, is 21-4-1.

Denver to open Pomona camp

POMONA — The NFL Denver Broncos will open training at Cal Poly next week, their second year at the Pomona site.

Rookies will report Tuesday and the first practice is slated Wednesday. The rookie contingent was swelled by one Thursday with the signing of quarterback Matt Reed, a 6-4, 225 pounder from Grambling.

Reed was drafted in the 10th round by the Buffalo Bills, but was waived and claimed by Denver.

The Broncos also announced they had waived veteran defensive lineman Walter Barnes and acquired veteran safety Dale Hackbart from St. Louis in exchange for a middle-round draft choice in 1974.

Hackbart, who played college ball at Wisconsin, can play either strong or weak safety and has also been used at linebacker. Prior to his stint at St. Louis, he also played at Green Bay, Washington, and Minnesota.

Rams-Dallas scrimmage to help determine QB cut

FULLERTON (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams first scrimmage of the summer this weekend against the Dallas Cowboys will be used to try to cut down the five quarterbacks currently being carried in camp, head coach Chuck Knox said Thursday.

Knox said five quarterbacks were too many to conduct good workouts, although he likes to have extra players in reserve. He named rookies Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington to see the most action Saturday.

The Rams coach said Tom Bergner, a free agent from Minnesota at Morris, would also be used.

The other two quarterbacks in camp, veterans John Hadl and Jim Harris, will probably not play, Knox said.

Defensive lineman Phil Olsen, the brother of the Rams' all-pro tackle Merlin Olsen, arrived Thursday to bring the total in training to 41 rookies and 16 veterans.

Americans face rugged Russians

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — The young United States track and field team might have a bunch of future Olympic champions, but they figure to be clobbered by the Russians in two weeks.

That was the expert opinion after the Americans opened their European swing Wednesday and Thursday with a 122-101 trimming of a weak West German squad at the Olympic stadium.

U.S. team coach Jim Bush almost agreed.

"We'll have to improve tremendously to beat the Russians but we have room for it," he said. "Our quarter milers and sprinters were not sharp enough."

Looking out onto the rainsoaked stadium, Bush said: It's team of the future. By 1976 they'll be ready because I see so much potential in these boys."

The Americans arrived without a number of household names, including the 110 meter high hurdles champion and world record holder Rod Milburn, indoor pole vault world champion Steve Smith, Olympic long jump champion Randy Williams and quarter miler silver medalist Ralph Mann.

Rick Wohlhuter, the 880 yards world record holder, missed the meet against the Germans but will be back in harness at Minsk. On the other hand, 19-year-old Dwight Stones, the revelation of the Munich meet with his high jump world record of 7 feet, 6 ½ inches, will not compete in Russia.

Officially, Stones claims "the opposition is too weak in a post-Olympic year." Unofficially, the Los Angeles student is up in arms against the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU).

"I paid my own way over and have other commitments in Scandinavia," he said.

When Bush was asked how long the United States could afford to field a team without their best athletes, he shrugged:

"It's a big problem but I cannot force them onto the team. Now we're looking towards the future and this bunch will come good, but give them time," he said.

Stones had predicted he would beat the world record on the tour and he was as good as his word. Other U.S. star performers included shot put world record holder Al Feuerbach, 800 meter Olympic champion Dave Wottle of the Air force and sprinter Steve Williams, who made up for his traditional poor start with tremendous acceleration.

"He's going to be the world's fastest sprinter one day," said Bush. "Steve is our biggest sprint talent since John Carlos (the 200 meter Olympic champion in 1968 and world record holder)."

All-Star coaches use different plans

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — One of the supposed joys of coaching an All-Star team in any sport is the absence of weakness.

The presence of outstanding players at every position assures a coach that no costly compensating moves will have to be made to plug gaps that lack of talent created.

All of which is fine in theory, but a successful coach usually develops habits in personnel juggling that are tough to break.

Ken Gunn, head coach of the East squad in the San abriel Valley All-Star football game Thursday at Citrus College, and Dick Salter, Gunn's opposite number on the West, represent two different sets of ideas about winning football games.

Gunn's aptitudes lie in the passing attack. His Walnut High team ran away with the Hacienda League title last season utilizing the supearm of Ron Himes.

Salter, meanwhile, likes ball control football, and has the men to play that kind of game next Thursday.

"At Arcadia," Salter says, "our philosophy was ball control. We realize, of course, we must throw the ball as well, and Bob Callas and Jim Slaughter (West quarterbacks) throw well."

While Salter is sure to go to the air more in the All-Star game, player selections reveal his ground-game bias. Callas quarterbacked Temple City's CIF 2-A champions last year relying mainly on the conservative approach. While he passed for more than 800 yards, he also scrambled for an uncommonly high 400 more.

Salter also picked Mike Nanko from the T.C. squad. Nanko gained 911 yards rushing on 154 carries and scired nine TD's en route to a Rio Hondo League Back of the Year award.

So, while the West has abundant aerial talent (Slaughter passed for a 17-yard average at Pasadena), Salter's trump card appears to be the two essential cogs from one of the better high school ground attacks in Southern California.

Gunn similarly has no need to fear a departure from tradition. His running game is about as solid as it can get, with the likes of Charter Oak's Andy Mason and Upland's Rocky Chapman available. But there is no reason to think he won't succumb to his background either.

"We believe in the passing game at Walnut," Gunn asserts. "But it's the toughest part of the game to get ready. It's really tough to get the timing down in such short time."

Gunn has the number two and three passer in CIF history in hand, in Himes and Los Altos' Rob Hertel, respecitvely, along with a gang of proven receivers.

Royal Oak's Phil Boyce caught 45 passes last year for 610 yards and seven touchdowns. Glendora's Bruce Jans made 34 receptions for 498 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Gary Seeber caught passes for Hertel at Los Altos and gained 873 yards during his 64 receptions, and wound up fifth on the all-time CIF receiving list.

Other potential targets include Charter Oak's Steve Sylvester, San Dimas' Jeff Nelson and another Royal Oak standout Roger Steinke.

The talent is there, and the temptation is going to be strong to use it.

ALL-STAR NOTES . . . The East reports the only major practice injury so far is Wilson High's tight end-linebacker Mike Zamora. Zamora broke his leg last weekend running pass patterns. Under game rules, he cannot be replaced, and the East must now go with a 29-man squad . . . Gunn figures he has the depth to cover for Zamora, but is apprehensive of any more injuries . . . Over on the West, meanwhile, Salter reports that Bishop Amat tackle Steve Javert took a shot on the head last week, but is back at practice after takng a afew days off . . .Tickets for the game are now on sale from various merchants and will be available on game night.

Sports news in brief

SANTA ANITA PARK says a postcard poll which spurred the Arcadia city council to back off from its "No Sunday Racing" stance has cleared the way for the track to ask permission from the California Horse Racing Board to inaugurate a full weekend of racing dates.

The track will seek approval of a Sunday schedule at the state board's next meeting Monday.

A postcard poll of 15,000 Arcadia Community voters showed 55 per cent of them favored allowing Sunday racing. The City Council repealed an ordinance adopted just last month limtting racing dates to week days and holidays.

TONY JACOBS, two-time defending champion, easily disposed of his two opponents Thursday enroute to the best medal score of the 102 golfers in the Southern California PGA Match Play Championships at Long Beach.

Jacobs defeated Phil Scozzola 4-2 and Norm Bernard 4-3 by shooting an opening round six-under-par for 31 holes at El Dorado Golf Course.

KEN NORTON, San Diego heavyweight, opened drills at Gilman Hot Springs Thursday in preparation for his return bout with former heavyweight title holder Muhammed Ali. Ali is already in training in Deer Lake, Pa.

THE NBA CHICAGO BULLS have promoted Dick Motta to general manager in addition to being head coach. The club has shifted Pat Williams from general manager to head of promotion and ticket sales. A source said, "Williams has been advised that from now on he will handle promotional matters and ticket sales only."

WINDWARD PASSAGE, the 73 foot ketch skippered by New York's Mark Johnson, appears headed toward a Saturday night finish at Diamond Head in front of the 59-boat Transpacific Yacht Race fleet.

No evidence of charges by wrestler

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A detailed investigation by a three-man committee has failed to turn up any evidence supporting a former UCLA wrestler's allegations that the university allows preferential academic treatment to its athletes, according to UCLA Chancellor Charles Young.

Young briefed the UC Board of Regents educational policy committee on the case Thursday and said, "Our investigation so far indicates there is no substance to the charges."

The results will be used "as the basis for our public response" to the accusations, Young said.

Former Bruin wrestler Peter Lutz, who graduated last year, said, when filing for state unemployment benefits, that he was not required to attend classes in order to graduate and that he was given special help and treatment in his classes.

Many areas excluded from rabbit season

LONG BEACH — The season for hunting brush, cottontail and pigmy rabbits and varying hare opened July 1 in most of the state, but much of Southern California was excluded from the opening, Inspector Clifford Matthews of the Department of Fish and Game reminded hunters today.

Excluded from the July 1 opening were the counties of Imperial, Inyo, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino and that portion of southeastern Kern County lying south and east of State Route 14 from its intersection with the southern Kern County line northeasterly to its intersection with U.S. Highway 395 near the town of Inyokern, and easterly of Highway 395 north to its intersection with the north Kern County line.

The season for all rabbits, including jackrabbits, will open in this area on September 1 and close on January 31. This is also the closing date for the balance of the state.

The season on jackrabbits—a departure from the previous year's regulations—applies only to those counties excluded from the July 1 opening. Jackrabbits can be hunted in the balance of the state throughout the year.

The bag and possession limit for brush, cottontail and pigmy rabbits and varying hare is five per day in the entire state. There is no bag limit on jackrabbits, but a valid hunting license is required to hunt.

Bluefin tuna start to show

DANA POINT — While yellowtail fishing has fallen off in local waters, the prospects of a good show of bluefin tuna are next on the agenda, reports Don Hansen, manager at Dana Wharf Sportfishing. The first bluefin of the season showed in the weekend catch for the boats out of Dana Point Harbor and the best action in ten years off the San Deigo area indicates that the bluefin may be moving up the coast.

Norman Kaye of Anaheim boated the largest bluefin over the weekend, with a 16-pounder, while others taken ranged ten to 15 pounds. Action was aboard the Sum Fun, at Yellowtail Kelp, south of San Onofre.

The largest fish of the week, however, was a 225-lb. black sea bass taken by Jay Elder of Dana Point, fishing the box canyon area aboard the Fisherman.

Hansen says Catalina Island fishing produced some yellowtail action last week, plus good numbers of bass, blue perch and rockfish. The Catalina Island run leaves nightly at midnight, while the local ¾-day boat goes at 6 a.m. Half-day boats are scheduled daily at 6:30 and 10 a.m. and 12 noon, and the Twilight Speicial is nightly at 5:30 p.m. Hansen says daily fish count information is available by telephoning (714) 496-5794 in Dana Point or (714) 831-1850 in the Santa Ana area.

Trout plant

LONG BEACH — The following Southern California and Eastern Sierra lakes and streams, listed by county, are scheduled for restocking this week with catchable-size rainbow trout from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries:

LOS ANGELES — Big Rock Creek, Bouquet Canyon Creek, Crystal Lake, San Gabriel River (East and West Fork).

RIVERSIDE — Hemet Lake.

SAN BERNARDINO — Big Bear Lake, Green Valley Lake, Gregory Lake, Jenks Lake, Lytle Creek (Middle and North Fork), Santa Ana River, Santa Ana River South Fork.

VENTURA — Reves Creek, Upper Sespe Creek.

MADERA — San Joaquin River Middle Fork, Stocher Lake, Starkweather Lake.

INYO — Baker Creek, Big Pine Creek, Bishop Creek (lower section, Middle Fork, South Fork and Intake 2), Cottonwood Creek, Goodale Creek, Independence Creek, Lone Pine Creek, North Lake, Oak Creek (North and South Fork), Pine Creek, Rock Creek (above Rock Creek Lake), Rock Creek Lake, Sabrina Lake, Shepherds Creek, South Lake, Symmes Creek, Taboose Creek, Tinnemaha Creek, Tuttle Creek.

MONO — Bridgeport Reservoir, Buckeye Creek, Convict Creek, Convict Lake, Deadman Creek, Ellery Lake, Georg Lake, Glass Creek, Grant Lake, Green Creek, Gull Lake, Hilton Creek, Horseshoe Lake, Hot Creek, June Lake, Leavitt Creek, Lee Vining Creek, Lee Vining Creek South Fork, Lundy Lake, Mamie Lake, Mammoth Creek, Mary Lake, McGee Creek, Mill Creek, Owens River (Big Springs Campgrounds), Reverse Creek, Robinson Creek, Rock Creek (Paradise to Tom's Place), Rock Creek (Tom's Place to Rock Creek Lake), Rush Creek, Saddlebag Creek, Saddlebag Lake, Sardine Creek, Sherwin Creek, Silver Lake, Tioga Lake, Trumbull Lake, Twin Lakes (Bridgeport, Upper and Lower), Twin Lakes (Mammoth), Virginia Creek, Virginia Lake (Upper and Lower), Little Walker Lake, Little Walker River, Walker River (town of Walker to Chris Flat Campground), Walker River (Leavitt Meadows to Sonora Bridge Campground).

All stocking is scheduled road and weather conditions permitting.

CFG gives okay to 13 special deer hunts

SACRAMENTO The California Fish and Game Commission has approved 13 special antrlerless and either-sex deer hunts with 5,375 permits for the 1973-74 hunting season.

The commission took the action in Monterey June 29 after hearing recommendations from individual commissioners who had presided at public hearings in the counties in which the hunts were proposed.

After first proposing 19 special hunts with 7,475 permits, the Department of Fish and Game withdrew proposals for archery and gun hunts in Placer County, leaving 17 hunts with 7,025 permits.

Proposed hunts in El Dorado County were vetoed by the County Board of Supervisors, and hearings in Monterey and Santa Barbara Counties produced modifications.

Commissioners decided not to hold the proposed antlerless deer hunt on the San Fernando Rey property in Santa Barbara county after the owner of the ranch, R. S. Cathcart, said he felt the limited number of deer in the area would not cause him undue crop depredation this year.

Last year the DFG proposed 25 special hunts with 12,200 permits. The commission, after holding hearings in the counties in whic hthe hunts were proposed, authorized 21 hunts with 9,125 permits. A total of 1,469 deer were reported taken by hunters in the special hunts.

Permits for the special hunts will be awarded on the basis of statewide public drawings.

Applicants must file on the application card attached to their 1973 deer tags. The applications are not transferable. For the Camp Pendleton hunt applicants must be 16 years old or older.

Each deer tag holder must file one application and may indicate his first and second choices of hunts. The application must show the names and code numbers of the hunts applied for. In multiple-period hunts assignments will be by drawing.

Drawing for the early hunts will be held Wednesday, Aug. 8, with applications due at DFG headquarters in Sacramento by 5 p.m. Aug. 7. The drawing for the late hunts will be held Thursday, Aug. 16, with the application deadline 5 p.m. Aug. 14.

Immediately following the drawings, successful applicants will be notified by mail to send $5 for the special deer permit.

Again this year, successful applicants will be required to submit their optional deer tag to obtain their special deer hunt permit. The tag should not be submitted until the applicant has been notified he has been drawn, however.

The 1973-74 special deer hunts include three hunts in Los Angeles County (Northern Los Angeles Sept. 22 to Nov. 11, Los Angeles Archery Sept. 22 to Nov. 11 and Nov. 12 to Nov. 31, and Catalina Island Nov. 28 to Dec. 2).

Others are the Vandenberg Hunt in Santa Barbara County Sept. 1-16; the Tenaja Hunt which includes Orange, Riverside, and San Diego Counties scheduled Sept. 22-Nov. 11; and Camp Pendleton in San Diego County Oct. 13 and 14, 20 and 21, 27 and 28, Nov. 3 and 4.

'Big cats' at Irvine

ORANGE — Catches of channel catfish continue to outdistance other species at Irvine Lake, reports Mrs. Alice Carlson at the lake tackle shop, as an 81-degree surface temperature has put the big "cats" on the feed.

Mrs. Carlson says several limits are being checked in, topped by the 11-lb. 14-oz. channel catfish registered by Bud Lowrence of Buena Park, who used stink bait in Santiago Flats.

Trout fishing is fair, but Rod Carlson of Orange nabbed a trout limit weighing 8 lbs. total in Sierra Cove and Richard Massey of Santa Ana had a 6-lb. trout limit. The Mark Dunham family of Costa Mesa accounted for four trout limits taken on cheese in Sierra Cove.

Mrs. Carlson says trout plants have been ended for the season, but carry-over trout are suppling the action.

The tale of "Old Blue" emerged this week as Mrs. Carlson said a blue catfish estimated at about 18 lbs. has captured the attention of many fishermen. "Old Blue," as he's been named, lives in an old barrel in the West Fork of the lake, and has been hooked twice, only to escape on both occasions. He was first noticed about two weeks ago. Anglers say they can see him sticking his head out of his barrel home, but getting him to bite again is another matter.

Another Whopper Club bluegill — a 1-lb. 5-oz. fish — was taken over the weekend, this time by David Shindledicker of Long Beach, who used red worms off the West shore.

Regulations booklets now are available

LONG BEACH — Regulations booklets for 1973-74 hunting seasons in California, delayed in the Office of State Printing, are now available at Department of Fish and Game offices and from license agents throughout the state.

Meanwhile, hunting licenses, deer tags and bear tags have gone on sale with license agents and at DFG offices.

The fee schedule includes: residents junior license, $2; resident license, $6; nonresident license, $35; resident deer tag, $3; nonresident deer tag, $25; bear tag, $1; pheasant stamp, $2, and duck stamp, $1.

Hurlie burly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some fine points about the "hurlie'," a wicked looking bat used in the national Irish sport of hurling were explained by Ray Cummins, an all star hurler and footballer at an exhibit at the Hallmark Gallery here titled "forty Shades of Green: the Republic of Ireland."

Although it's played on turf, hurling is similar to hockey and can be just as rough.

Montclair, Ontario Pinto reach semis

MONTCLAIR — Ontario Pinto and Montclair Pony League advanced to the semi-finals of the 13-year-old All-Star Tournament Thrusday evening at J. F. Kennedy Park.

Ontario collected nine hits in downing Claremont Pinto, 7-2, while Montclair had to use four hits judiciously to top Ontario Palomino, 2-1.

Ontario and Montclair meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the semis, while Cucamonga and Claremont Pony, winners Wednesday, are set for a 5:30 game in the other match-up.

Dan Gregory pitched into the fifth inning for Montclair before Mike Bresling came in to relieve and preserve the victory for Gregrory.

J. B. Goff collected three of Montclair's four safeties, including a double to drive in the first run of the game in the third.

Anthony Coitti settled down after spotting Claremont two runs in the top of the first inning to pitch six innings of shutout baseball.

Coitti also led both sides at the plate, getting three hits, including a double.

Eric Mattke doubled twice for Ontario Pinto.

Diamond Bar salutes champs

DIAMOND BAR — The championship Diamond Bar team of the Pomona Valley Big League will be honored at a special ceremony at 8 a.m. Saturday. The team will be presented the District 20 flag.

Manager Bob Beeran's team won the title last Sunday, finishing with a 17-3 record. Tracy Cowger, Bill Fleming, Billy Karr and Dean Sickels will be representing Diamond Bar on the Pomona Valley All-Star team entering tournament play.

Clyde not awed by Monster

By United Press International

David Clyde, the Texas Rangers' glamorous No. 1 draft pick, has met the Monster and is duly impressed but not awed.

The Monster is the 40-foot-high-wall which broods over every game played at Fenway Park, Boston, and has influenced the performances of many players long before the 18-year old Clyde was born. It is an axiom accepted by American Leaguers over the years that "it is a different game in Fenway."

Clyde became another in the long line of victims of The Monster Thursday night when Tommy Harper snapped a 1-1 tie with a homer over the wall and the Red Sox beat the Rangers, 5-2. It was an experience that could have caused the kid to lose faith in himself or for the Red Sox to put him down but neither happened.

"The wall didn't bother me," said Clyde, "because it reminded me of when I was pitching in high school and the left field was short. The difference here in the majors is that the hitters are better."

Hitters like Carl Yastrzemski and Orlando Cepeda went along with Clyde's evaluation of his first joust with The Monster.

"When he struck me out," said Yastrzemski, who later hit a three-run homer off Bill Gogolewski in the eighth inning, "he hit three different spots on me and they were all perfect pitches.

"He's going to be around for quite a while," said Cepeda. "It's rare to see an 18-year old with his control. He challenged me and he struck me out twice. He's got great poise."

The Detroit Tigers defeated the California Angels, 7-6, the New York Yankees downed the Kansas City Royals, 10-3, the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, the Oakland A's topped the Milwaukee Brewers, 8-4, and the Cleveland Indians scored a 7-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins after losing, 8-4, in other AL games.

National League scores were Pittsburgh 4 San Diego 0, Los Angeles 4 St. Louis 0 and Houston 7 Philadelphia 6.

Harper's homer gave the Red Sox a 2-1 lead and Yastrzemski polished off the win for them with his three-run homer off Gogolewski. Marty Pattin went the distance for the Red Sox for his ninth win against 11 losses. Clyde now stands 1-2 in his brief major league career.

Gene Michael drove in three runs and Thurman Munson scored three times as the Yankees pounded out 17 hits and enabled Pat Dobson, who pitched a seven-hitter, to win his fifth game against three losses. Michael's two-run double was the big blow of a three-run fifth inning which gave the Yankees a 9-3 lead and paved the way for instant relief ace Sparky Lyle to enjoy a full night of sleep in the Yankee bullpen for a change.

Brooks Robinson drove in Bobby Grich with a single in the eighth inning as the Orioles topped the White Sox and dealt reliever Terry Forster his third loss against two wins. Paul Blair hit his sixth homer for the Orioles.

Reggie Jackson drove in four runs with a homer and two singles and Rollie Fingers won his second game for the A's. Ray Fosse also homered for the A's while Don Money connected for his 19th homer for the Brewers.

Jim Holt singled in the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and George Mitterwald drove in four more runs as the Twins beat the Indians in their first game. In the nightcap, John Lowenstein scored the tie-breaking run for Cleveland on a wild pitch by Ken Sanders and George Hendrick followed with his second homer of the game.

Don't let Jim Wynn's batting average fool you.

It's hardly indicative of the kind of ball the Houston Astros' outfielder is playing these days.

Wynn, whose average has sagged under .230 in recent weeks, hasn't let his batting slump affect his play in the field nor has it made him change his swing at the plate.

The veteran outfielder pulled another slick play in the field Thursday night and finally broke out of a prolonged slump with a pair of homers to lead the Astros to a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Willie Stargell delivered a three-run homer, his 26th of the season, and Bob Robertson added a solo shot as the Pirates swept their three-game series with the Padres to move within one game of third place in the NL East. Luke Walker went the distance for the Pirates, allowing only five hits.

Unearned run gives Pomona 1-0 victory

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

WALNUT — Pomona Post 30 scored an unearned run in the sixth inning, and it was all it needed as they defeated Walnut Connie Mack, 1-0, Thursday at Mt. San Antonio College.

The winning run came after a one-out walk to Cande Rael. Troy Baird then layed a bunt down the third base line.

Walnut third baseman Gerard Piccioni picked the ball up cleanly but his hurried throw sailed over the first-baseman's head. Rael raced around the bases and Baird took third while the ball was being flagged down.

Baird was stranded on third, but the damage had been down.

Outside of the sixth, the rest of the game proved to be a tight pitching duel between Pomona's Bob Chaulk and Walnut's Mark Schultz and Jim Vallandingham.

Chaulk pitched an outstanding game. He walked one and allowed two hits while striking-out 15. The Walnut batters were never able to get going against him.

Schultz also pitched a fine game during the four innings he worked. He gave up two hits and walked four. He struck-out five.

Vallandingham threw three innings of one-hit ball, but the sixth inning error proved to be his downfall.

The Pomona offense was led by Baird, Keith Thomas, and Ed Carmean who all had singles.

Walnut's attack was paced by Bob Veselic and Piccioni who both stroked singles.

Pomona's next opponent will be San Gabriel. The game will be played Saturday at Ralph Welch Park at 1 p.m.

Walnut will take on Bassett at Mt. Sac., Saturday at 2 p.m. If Walnut wins, it will move into first place.

Montclair's Richardson gets 10th win

MONTCLAIR — Montclair Post 616 headed off one threat to its District 25 lead Thursday evening with a 9-5 victory over Tri-City that darkness curtailed in the eighth inning.

Montclair pitching ace Bruce Richardson got credit for his 10th victory of the year against two defeats, but had to sweat over a few rough spots.

A leaping catch by outfielder Brent Jetton robbed John Sandoval of a game-tying home run in the top of the eighth.

Richardson, who wild-pitched in three runs early in the game, doubled twice, and drove home Montclair's first two runs.

Richardson struck out ten batters, while walking six.

Mike Pittman went four-for-five for Montclair. Teammate Mike Wolters picked up three hits in four trips to the plate.

Sandoval tripled in the second and scored on a squeeze play that the Montclair infield had trouble figuring out what to do with.

The victory gives Montclair a 13-4 record in district competition, and 18-10 overall. Tri-Cities' record is now 11-9.

Progress-Bulletin Home and Garden

ENEMY NO. 1? Our Hero, innocently feeding his begonias, got into some hot water when his lady organic gardening neighbor spotted the dastardly deed. "Poison," she called the substances.

Stop that stooping

Bermuda grass controlled

After six years of research and development, the world's first Bermuda grass control has been developed by the Chacon Chemical Corporation of South Gate, California. The exclusive formulation is a totally new and unique herbicide which, when used according to manufacturer's instructions, controls Bermuda grass without serious injury to grass or dichondra lawns, ground covers, trees and shrubs.

"We believe that it will change the time honored ritual of hand-grubbing 'devil grass'' from hard-to-get-to places, from a back-breaking chore to a simple spraying operation," a company spokesman stated.

Horticulturists and garden editors throughout the state are saying the new product is a major advance in home gardening. The product is so unique that a U.S. patent has been applied for

Chacon Bermuda Grass Color is a selective and translocative agent which can be sprayed on or around ground covers, trees, ornamentals, or grass and dichondra lawns. It is absorbed through the leaves of Bermuda grass and is translocated into the root system. One to three spray applications applied at consecutive weekly intervals (as per manufacturer's instructions), can result in 90 per cent to 100 per cent Berumda grass control, and single applications have effected as much as 90 per cent control according to the UNI Research Laboratories, Oakland, California, who performed extensive tests on the product. The tests also produced a list of over one hundred species of herbaceous and woody plants tolerant to Berumda Grass Control.

Company spokesmen emphasize the importance of following the manufacturer's instructions when using Bermuda Grass Control in home gardening. Adequate soil moisture is essential for increasing the product's selective action, and abundant top growth is necessary for absorption of the active ingredients to translocate to the weed's root system.

The entire leaf area must be sprayed for full control, not simply a few strands of Bermuda grass runners. Thorough wetting of top growth and heavy thatch are also a must for good control. Since the product works by absorption through the top growth, it is useless to saturate the soil.

In addition, results can only be obtained when mid-day temperatures reach 70 degrees. When these conditions are observed, thorough and effective control of Berumda grass infestation is assured.

Studies on Bermuda grass were initiated by Ralph Chacon of Chacon Chemical in 1967. Over 200 experimental batches of the control agent were made and tested before the product was released on the market.

Paint the skies with bright trees

People who think you can't have glorious autumn color in the Golden State just aren't looking in the right places. So says the California Association of Nurserymen, which points out there are gardens up and down the state decorated with the most spectacular yellows, oranges, and reds any Easterner could ask for.

Fall color in California is chiefly a matter of planning. Certain trees and shrubs are going to color-up even in mild climates. The secret in producing a vivid display of fall color is choosing the right ones.

The Maidenhair Tree (ginko), for instance, provides striking autumn color even in mild climates. The hybria, autumn gold, is a symmetrical, upright tree with deep green fan-like leaves that are dependable for turning a brilliant yellow in fall.

American sweet gum (liquidambar), a familiar favorite, may or may not color-up in a given area. The hybrid forms will, however: Burgundy, provides fall color in red and wine tones; afterglow offers suggestions of orange, pink and red; and Palo Alto can be relied upon for bright red-orange colorations.

Shopping local nurseries will reveal other fall color choices.

Color-blending in the garden

A garden can be a many-splendored thing most of the year in California, especially in summertime.

Since gardens take their personality, to a great degree, from color, the summer-flowering perennial is especially valued. There is literally no limit to the sizes, shapes, and shades of summer perennials which flouish here.

Whether the gardener plans a cheerful multi-colored sisplay or a special separate color effect, there are hardy perennials to fit the scheme.

For a colorful array, geranium (pelargonium) cannot be overlooked. Blooming in pinks, salmon, scarlet, vermillion, lavender-purple tones white and peppermint candystribe variegations, geraniums maintain colorful blooms for weeks and weeks. Pinch and prune for shape; provide good drainage, especially in heavy soils.

For blending shades of color, perennials are suitable candidates. A refreshing blue and white garden setting is achieved by blending the purple of lavender with the lighter blues of delphinium and clumps of white shasta daisies. This arrangement will thrive in sunny locations or in partial shade in mornings or afternoons.

There are many daisies to chose from. Marguerites provide plenteous daisy-like flowers in white and yellow. Transvaal daisies (gerberas) are distinctively beautiful—hybrid singles or doubles have good sized flowers in intense shades of yellow, cream, pink, rose, orange, coral and red. The blooms are long-lasting, the plants are low and compact, ideal for foregoround plantings and border situations.

For a rich-looking red-pink effect, deep red carnations can be combined with coral bells; a pink type of perennial phlox and sweet William, in a rose shade.

Organic, inorganic---the plants don't seem to care

By FRANK TAYLOR

One summer day I was drenching the tuberous begonias with a hose spray gun when a neighbor who is an organic gardening zealot came by

"What kind of poison are you spraying on your plants today?" she demanded.

"It's not poison," I told her. "I'm leaf feeding them."

"Well, it it's chemical, it's posion," she insisted.

"They thrive on it. Look at their leaves and blossoms."

"You're poisoning the soil and killing the earthworms," she warned. "Next year you'll see."

Well, I'm a nature boy who wouldn't harm an earthworm except maybe to catch a fish) so I turned off the hose spray gun and produced the bottle from which I had poured the plant nutrient.

"Let's read the label," I suggested.

It said that, in addition to trace elements such as iron, zine, manganese, which possible do rate as organics, the pricipal ingredient was fish oil from which tthe perfume had been removed. Me neighbor felt better and went happily on her way while I resumed the leaf feeding.

Following the incident I sent for bulletins from several agricultural experiment stations and began boning up on plant nutrients. What the authorities had to say was revealing.

One significant item was that when I fed my plants organic food, such as manure of leaf mold, the roots couldn't absorb the nutrient until the soil bacteria had reduced it to chemical liquid. The same process took place when I fed chemical fertilizer pellets. They had to be processed by the soil bacteria, too.

I learned that so far no scientific experiment has determined whether the roots can teli the organic nutrient from the inorganic. If the roots know the difference, they are not telling, not even their leaves.

This was reassuring. I've fed our plants tons of organic stuff and hundreds of pounds of chemical fertilizer. They've lapped it all up and thrived. I call this mix of organic and inorganic feeding "common sense gardening." I don't dig the crusade of the up-tight organic apostels because my down-to-earth gospel is, give the plants what they like and watch them grow.

Gardener's checklist

1. Peaches and some other fruit trees set too much fruit. Thin out the excess as soon as possible and you'll have better quality and size with what's left.

2. A root irrigator will benefit many trees by insuring that water gets down where it does the most good. Nurseries have the easy-to-use devices.

3. Don't let roses dry out, they'll appreciate a feeding this month; keep removing any growth that appears below the bud union (the object that looks like a thumbnail, protruding from the base of the plant).

4. Keep after snails and slugs with bait or pellets. Control is easy so there's no excuse for allowing them to damage plants in the garden.

5. Hanging basket coleus, a multi-colored foliage plant, offers a refreshing touch to the semi-shaded porch or patio, where its beauty can be enjoled from on high.

Australians welcome aliens

CANBERRA (UPI) — Twice as many migrants are becoming Australian citizens as a year ago, Immigration Minister Al Grassby said in a report to parliament. Grassby said 3,152 aliens became citizens in January, 1973, compared with 1,525 last year. Former Greek citizens led the way to Australian citizenship, followed by Italians and Yugoslavs, he said.

Hawaii has no crisis in energy

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii's future growth and development will be only slightly affected by the nation's energy problems, a Standard Oil Company of California executive predicts.

C. G. Woods, a Standard vice president, told the state House Finance Committee Monday that the ready access Hawaii has to crude oil and certain refined products means the state would be less affected by nationwide shortages than other states. He said most of Hawaii's energy requirements are satisfied by local refineries.

Wood was called to testify before the committee, which is considering the state's oil supply problems and a proposed gasoline tax increase.

Wood told the committee that barring unforeseen circumstances, there should be sufficient crude oil to meet Hawaii's needs well into the future. He said the situation which has caused a cutback in both foreign and domestic crude supplies is expected to ease somewhat in the near future.

Make open space, tear out freeway

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Supervisor Dianne Feinstein said Monday the often-criticized Embarcadero freeway should be demolished as part of an effort to redevelop the waterfront.

"It seems to me that proper development of port properties cannot be carried out with the present Embarcadero freeway," Mrs. Feinstein told the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The commission has set up a special waterfront advisory committee to consider a redevelopment plan for the area. Mrs. Feinstein is a member of the committee.

She said removal of the elevated freeway "should be a substantial incentive to developers by enabling them to provide additional open space" around their projects.

Mrs. Feinstein asked for an estimate of the cost of tearing down the freeway and replacing it with an underground route.

In 1970, the state Division of Highways estimated it would cost more than $300 million to tear down the freeway and replace it with a tunnel linking the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges.

WARNING
ASSEMBLY BILL 2112
Adds Sec. 976 and 977 to the 1964 Civil Rights Law
prohibits with certain exceptions, discrimination because of sex. Since some occupations are considered more attractive to persons of one sex or the other, advertisements are placed under the Male or Female columns for the convenience of readers. Such listings are not intended to exclude persons of either sex.
This newspaper strives to protect its readers against fraud, deception or infustices. Advertisements which require cash bonds or investments in stocks, samples, equipment should be investigated thoroughly. All advertising statements must be accurate. All advertising pertaining to sales must carry the word sales and must relate some nature of work involved and not designed to mislead the reader. Any ad requiring a tuition for study courses is not considered a help wanted ad and should be in classification 6 "Educational."

NO HELP WANTED AD CAN STIPULATE OR INFER A DEFINITE AMOUNT WHEN starting pay is commission basis. Report any exception to this rule to Classified Advertising Manager. NA 3-1201

DON'T LOVE VOLVO FOR THE GAS MILEAGE ALONE
LET VOLVO SPOIL YOU.

To help make sure no one else spoils you: a passenger compartment built around six boxed steel pillars. (So a Volvo body is strong enough to stack 7 Volvos one on top of another.)

The seats adjust. Not you. Front buckets go up, down, back, forth, backrests recline, headrests adjust, an adjustable lumbar support supports the small of your back.

Power-assisted disc brakes fade less than drum brakes. Volvos have four, not just two.

An electric rear window defroster. Few other cars have the hindsight to incorporate this as standard. Stop by our showroom and see all these features in their proper setting.
